PRESIDENT GIVES DEFENSE VIEWS TO ADVISORY BOARD

Says He Believes Nation Is Convinced Country Ought to Be Adequately Prepared.

BOARD SEES GUN TESTS

Members Taken to Indian Head After First Formal Conference at Capital.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—President Wilson outlined his attitude toward the national defense question today to the new advisory board of the navy. He believed, he said, that the whole nation was "convinced that we ought to be prepared, not for war, but for defense, and very adequately prepared."

The President received the members of the board, headed by Thomas A. Edison, after their preliminary conference with Secretary Daniels and navy officials. The board later went with Secretary Daniels to the naval proving grounds at Indian Head, Md., on an inspection tour.

Ought to Be Prepared.

"There is very little that I can say to you," President Wilson said, "except to give you a very cordial welcome and to express my very great pleasure in this association of laymen with the Government. But I do want to say this:

"I think the whole country is convinced that we ought to be prepared, not for war, but for defense, and very adequately prepared; and that the preparation for defense is not merely a technical matter, it is not a matter that the army and navy alone can take care of, but a matter in which we must have the co-operation of the best brains and knowledge of the country outside the official service of the Government as well as inside. For my part, I feel that it is only in the spirit of a true democracy that we get together to lend such voluntary aid, the sort of aid that comes from interest, from a knowledge of the varied circumstances that are involved in handling a nation.

"I want you to feel, those of you who are coming to the assistance of the professional officers of the Government that we have a very serious purpose; that we have not asked you to associate yourself with us except for a very definite and practical purpose, to get you to give us your best independent thoughts as to how we ought to make ready for any duty that may fall upon the nation.

"I do not have to expound it to you; you know as well as I do the spirit of America. The spirit of America is one of peace, but one of independence. It is a spirit that is profoundly concerned with peace because it can express itself best only in peace. It is the spirit of peace and good will and of human freedom; but it is also the spirit of a nation that is self conscious, that knows and loves its mission in the world, and that knows that it must command the respect of the world.

"So it seems to me that we are not working as those who would change anything of America, but only as those who would safeguard everything in America. I know that you will enter into conference with the officers of the navy in that spirit and with that feeling, and it makes me proud, gentleman, that the busy men of America, the men who stand at the front of their professions, should be willing in this way to associate themselves voluntarily with the Government in the task in which it needs all sorts of expert and serious advice. Nothing ought to be done in this by any single group of persons—everything ought to be done by all of us united together—and I welcome this association in the most serious and grateful spirit."

President Warmly Applauded.

The President was warmly applauded by his hearers. Secretary Daniels then introduced each member of the board to the President and he shook hands with them all.

The trip to Indian Head was made on the presidential yacht, Mayflower, members of Secretary Daniel's advisory council of department officials accompanying the invention board.

Edison is chairman of the board which met for the first time here today to effect organization, to lay plans for future work and for conferences with naval experts on problems now before the Navy Department. Edison presided and most of the 21 members of the board, as well as the Advisory Council of the department, were present.

At Indian Head the board witnessed tests of the new 14-inch gun.

The most pressing problem to be laid before the board for consideration is that of perfecting gasoline or oil motors for aeroplanes and submarines. Next in importance is that of defense against torpedo attack.

The board met in the office of Secretary of the Navy Daniels, who, in a brief address, called attention to the development of ordnance and instruments of destruction during the present war in Europe.

"We may not," the Secretary said, "expect to build the biggest navy in the world, but with the help of this board we must have a navy every unit of which shall be as nearly perfect as American ingenuity makes possible."

PRESIDENT WILSON WILL VOTE FOR WOMAN SUFFRAGE

Says He Will Cast Ballot as Private Citizen, Not as Party Representative, in Election on Amendment in New Jersey.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—President Wilson will vote for the woman suffrage state constitutional amendment in New Jersey, his home State, at the special election, Oct. 19. He said today that he would vote, not as the leader of the Democratic party, but as a private citizen.

Mr. Wilson said he believed the question should not be made a party issue and should be decided by the states, not the national Government.

"I intend to vote for woman suffrage in New Jersey, because I believe that the time has come to extend that privilege and responsibility to the women of the State, but I shall vote, not as the leader of my party in the nation, but only upon my private conviction as a citizen of New Jersey, called upon by the Legislature of the State to express his conviction at the polls. I think that New Jersey would be greatly benefited by the change.

"My position with regard to the way in which this great question should be handled is well known. I believe that it should be settled by the states and not by the national Government, and that in no circumstances should it be made a party question, and my view has grown stronger at every turn of the agitation."

Secretaries Garrison, McAdoo, Redfield and Wilson, who will also vote on the question in the near future, have declared in favor of equal suffrage.

AUTO WITHOUT LIGHTS HITS BOY, DRIVER ESCAPES

Richard K. Rohan, 12 Years Old, Run Down When Attempting to Get on Car to See Parade.

A seven-passenger automobile running at high speed, without headlights or tail light, ran over and seriously injured Richard Kendrick Rohan, 12-year-old son of James J. Rohan of 5835 De Giverville avenue, at Delmar boulevard and Rosedale avenue, last night.

The driver fled from the scene, and although he was pursued by the driver of another car for several blocks, he escaped. The front and rear wheels of the automobile passed over the boy's head, fracturing the skull across the forehead, breaking his nose and cutting a deep gash in the back of his head.

The Rohan boy, with his brother, Edward, 14 years old, and O'Neill Croak, 15, of 6127 Kingsbury boulevard, were attempting to board a Delmar car at Rosedale avenue to go downtown to see the Veiled Prophet parade. As they stepped from the sidewalk to take the car the automobile bore down upon them. The older Rohan boy and the Croak boy succeeded in getting out of its way.

The automobile was occupied only by its driver. He raced his car to Hamilton avenue, where he turned north. He ran into Von Versen avenue, and at Belt avenue turned south and escaped from a service car of the Bittel-Leftwich Tire Co., the driver of which had pursued him. Owing to the darkness it was impossible to get the license number of the fleeing automobile. Witnesses said the auto appeared to be a Studebaker.

The injured boy was carried into a saloon near by. From there he was taken to the Jewish Hospital. Mrs. Rohan said her son was so badly injured that she was unable to recognize him when she saw him in the hospital. James J. Rohan is proprietor of the Rohan Boiler Works.

SEVERAL OF HIS CREDITORS ASK FOR PAROLE FOR CRONE

Petition Signed on Understanding That They Are to Be Reimbursed for Losses.

$50,000 IN LIABILITIES

Assets of Indicted Realty Man $750 in Cash and Property, $15,000 in Term Insurance.

Several creditors of Charles Christian Crone, the North Broadway real estate dealer under indictment for traffic in fraudulent deeds of trust, yesterday signed petitions to the Court for his parole, on the understanding that they were tod be fully reimbursed for their losses.

The creditors met in the office of Attorney William L. Bohnenkamp in the Merchants-Laclede Building. Crone's liabilities on account of his forged notes and deeds of trust will total not less than $50,000, according to Edward Rudolph, trustee of his estate. The assets of the estate consist of about $750 in money and property, and $15,000 in term insurance, expiring in three years.

Campbell Cummings, attorney for Crone, recently stated to the court that friends of the real estate man would pay his creditors in full, provided Crone was paroled. Cummings said he was not at liberty to disclose the name of Crone's friends who were willing to pay off his obligations, but that he believed the proposition was made in good faith.

Among those who signed the petition for the parole in Bohnenkamp's office and the amounts they lost, were: Mrs Helen Frank of 3943A North Ninth street, a widow, 72 years old, $2000; James M. Kane, 2608 Madison street, 84, $2300; Mrs. Anna Knauth, 4277A Athlone avenue widow, $4500; Barney Kruempler, 6722 Florissant avenue, dairyman, between $6000 and $10,000; Thomas A. McCarthy, 4408 North Second street, $318; Mrs. Louisa Grimes, 3208 Dodier street, $90; Jacob Haitz, 1916 Salisbury street, $1200; R. L. Richards, 2923 Lexington avenue, $800; Frank Huelsmann Jr., Fourteenth and Salisbury streets, $2600; Mrs. Wilhelmina Flatkamper, $3500; Henry Brocck, Ninth and Whittier streets, $2000; Ewing Hymers, 3600 North Broadway, $1800.

William Wolff, 8841 Lowell street, the St. Louis Brewing Association and Charles H. Obrock of 3208 Dodier street, who could not fix the amount of their claims, also signed the petition.

1200 PUPILS EXAMINED FOR DIPHTHERIA IN WALNUT PARK

Forty-Seven Cases of Disease in School District Reported to Authorities Since Sept. 24.

Owing to the large number of diphtheria cases reported from the Walnut Park district, in Northwest St. Louis, doctors and nurses went to the Walnut Park School at Oriole and Sulphur avenues, today, to examine all of the 1200 pupils.

Since Sept. 24 the Health Department has received reports of 47 cases of diphtheria in this school district. Joseph Carl Hirzy, 7-year-old son of Joseph Hirzy of 2346 Plover avenue, died of the disease last Sunday after being ill only 24 hours.

The school was fumigated Monday. The roll call at the school today showed that 127 pupils were absent, parents of many children having kept them at home.

In other parts of St. Louis there has been no unusual number of diphtheria cases.

REPORTS OF WALL STREET BUYING PUT WHEAT UP 6 CENTS

Advance Is Helped by Estimates of Planting Reduction of 1,000,000 Acres.

Reports that Wall street was a big buyer of wheat sent futures up 4 cents a bushel on the Merchants' Exchange today. There was a wild scramble to buy wheat as soon as the market opened, and prices mounted rapidly when the big buying orders were executed in the pit.

Claims that the seeding of the new winter wheat crop will show a reduction from last year of 1,000,000 acres, owing to unfavorable plowing conditions, also helped the advance. The market was the most active seen on 'Change in months.

December wheat opened ¾ cent higher at $1.02 and mounted to $1.07. The May option gained 1 cent on the initial transfer at $1.01¾, then rose to $1.06¾. Today's prices recorded an advance of over 10 cents a bushel from recent low prices.

The investigation is to be made by an international commission, and during the period of inquiry no hostilities may be entered into.

Noted Greek Statesman Who Resigns as Premier After Quarrel With King Over Joining Allies in War

Former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos.

THIS is the second time within seven months that Venizelos has resigned the Premiership because of the King's refusal to enter the war on the side of Servia and the allies. Just preceding his break with the King yesterday, he delivered a stirring address in Parliament in which he said:

"Great nations may with impunity treat treaties as scraps of paper. For smaller countries such a policy would be suicidal.

"We have a treaty with Servia. If we are honest we will leave nothing undone to insure its fulfillment in letter and spirit. Only if we are rogues may we find excuses to avoid our obligations."

NAVY DEPARTMENT TO ORGANIZE ALL RADIO STATIONS

Country to Be Encircled by Vast System of Wireless "Eavesdroppers."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—All commercial and amateur wireless stations the United States will soon be organized by the Navy Department for immediate use in case of emergency by the Intelligence Bureau of the Navy.

In the event of war, hundreds, and perhaps thousands, of operators along the coast lines would be instructed to "listen in" on any radio conversation that might be in progress within range of their instruments, each station using a different wave length. The result would be to establish a line of radio "eavesdroppers" around the country which would be expected to intercept any message transmitted by ships at sea or shore stations beyond the borders south or north.

Intercepted messages would be promptly reported to the Navy Department, which will be able eventually to communicate with at least all Atlantic Coast wireless stations, directly from the office of Rear Admiral Beason, chief of navy operations.

To facilitate co-ordination of the communication methods of the navy, five wireless antennae are now being erected on the roof of the State, War and Navy building here and in a soundproof room close to Admiral Benson's office will be established what might be called a radio exchange station with five operators and five sets of instruments.

From that room conversations can be conducted directly with the big central navy radio plant at Arlington, Va., and with navy stations along the gulf and Atlantic coasts. By relaying through the Arlington station the department will be brought in direct touch with any part of the vast "wireless system now being constructed to reach from Maine to Cuba and from Arlington to the Philippines with stations at Honolulu and Guam.

Telegraphic and telephone instruments will be installed in rooms adjoining the radio outfits and when completed Admiral Benson will have a system established for swift handling of navy business in times of peace or war not heretofore known.

KIPLING'S ONLY SON MISSING AND 'BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN KILLED'

John Kipling, 18 Years Old, Was Member of Irish Guards—Parents Opposed His Entering Army.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—John Kipling of the Irish Guards, only son of Rudyard Kipling, is reported in the latest casualty list as "missing and believed to have been killed."

Young Kipling was 18 years old. On account of his delicate health his parents were reluctant to allow him to enter the army, but the boy insisted that he should assume his share of the war and his father eventually yielded.

Shoe Workers' Wages Higher.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—The average weekly wages of workers in the boot and shoe industry of the country in 1914 did not increase over the previous year, although the wages per hour were one per cent higher, according to a report today by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Average hours of labor showed a decrease of 1 per cent.

ALLEGED "TORCH" RE-ARRESTED; WAS UNDER A PAROLE

Inquiry Shows That Michael Connors Had Been Twice Convicted When Released.

Michael (Split) Conners, one of the alleged "torches" under indictment in connection with the recent arson investigation, was re-arrested at his home 6909 Arnot avenue, last night on an order from Circuit Attorney Harvey.

The police blotter entry said Conners was "held for the Marshal of the Missouri Supreme Court."

A search of Criminal Court records just completed by the Circuit Attorney showed that Gov. Major, at the recommendation of the Board of Pardons and Paroles, granted a parole Nov. 17, 1913, to Conners, who was serving a four-year sentence for burglary and larceny. He was convicted in St. Louis County.

The records here show that at the time of the parole Conners also was under another two-year sentence on a burglary and larceny conviction in St. Louis in 1912.

Inquiry by a Post-Dispatch reporter at Jefferson City today showed that the Board of Pardons and Paroles knew of the second conviction when it recommended Conners' parole. Jack Blanton, a member of the board, said the parole covered both sentences, but that it would be revoked if Conners should be convicted on the arson charge. He would then have to serve the remainder of the four-year sentence, the full two-year sentence and whatever new sentence might be imposed in the arson trial.

The Circuit Attorney ordered Conners' arrest when he learned the Criminal Court records did not show there ever had been a formal execution of the two-year sentence. He wished to have Conners held until he could learn whether the parole also covered this sentence.

SHELL BURSTS NEAR KING OF ITALY, HIS HORSE WOUNDED

Troops, Inspired by Monarch's Coolness, Carry Austrian Position by Storm.

By Associated Press.

UDINE, Italy, Oct. 6.—King Victor Emmanuel recently had two narrow escapes from death or serious injury by shell fire when close to the firing line at the front.

The King, desiring to assist in the direction of operations, was proceeding toward the front on horseback. He rode among his troops, although he had been warned that the Austrian projectiles were claiming a number of victims.

As he passed a certain point which now has become noted because of the incident, a shell exploded so near to him that splinters of shrapnel struck and injured his horse. The King's composure was not disturbed and when his suite urged him to retire, he called for another horse, exclaiming:

"Here we must win or all die." Then he rode in again among the troops who, with shouts of "Savoy," took the Austrian position by storm. The spot is now called the "King's Spur."

On another occasion, when near Monte Nero, he passed a small detachment that was exposed to bombardment by Austrians from a mountain. The King stopped his automobile and inquired whether there had been any casualties. On being informed that only one gunner had been slightly wounded, the King drove on. The automobile was scarcely out of sight when a large shell fell on the spot where the King had stopped, the explosion tearing a hole several yards deep.

The King, hearing the explosion, returned to the scene, saying as he photographed the smoking cavity:

"Had I stayed five minutes longer it would have been necessary to invent an elaborate story for the excellence of the Austrian aim."

ROME HEARS EMPEROR OF AUSTRIA IS SERIOUSLY ILL

Crown Prince Is Reported to Have Been Called From Front to Vienna.

ROME, Oct. 6.—It is said on good authority here that Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria is dangerously ill and that the Austrian Crown Prince has been called to Vienna.

In addition to the heir to the throne it is said that Baron von Burian, the Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister, and Count Tisza, the Hungarian Premier, also have been called to the capital.

The news, it is said, has been kept secret up to this time for fear of the influence it might have upon the international situation.

KING ACCEPTS RESIGNATION OF GREEK CABINET

Premier Venizelos Breaks With Constantine, Kaiser's Brother-in-Law, Who Is Said to Oppose Assisting Servians.

Parliament Had Sustained Premier, Who Defended Landing of 70,000 French Troops at Saloniki.

Rumania Sends Troops to Frontier, Fortifies Places Opposite Bulgaria and Calls Reserves.

By Associated Press.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 6.—Bulgaria has rejected the Russian demands and has sent an ultimatum to Servia concerning Macedonia, according to information which has reached the Servian archimandrite michael, says a Moscow telegram to the Bourse Gazette. Bulgaria demands that Servia reply to the ultimatum within 24 hours.

ATHENS, Oct. 6.—King Constantine has accepted the resignation of Premier Venizelos and his Cabinet, and the Premier, who resigned last March because the King would not support his policy of co-operating with the allies and then was recalled to power after the people had supported him in the elections, relinquished his office at 9:30 last night.

After his conference with the King, Premier Venizelos returned to the Chamber of Deputies yesterday and made a statement of the causes of the disagreement between him and the King. He then announced the resignation of the entire Cabinet. Sittings of the Chamber were suspended.

The resignation of Premier Venizelos was altogether unexpected. He conversed with the correspondent of the Associated Press Monday in a manner which indicated the utmost confidence in the future course of his Government.

Meanwhile King Constantine, who is a brother-in-law of the Emperor of Germany, came to Athens from Tatoi, the summer residence of the royal family, and summoned the Premier to the palace. After terse interview in which there was the plainest speaking, the Premier proceeded to the Chamber of Deputies and announced that he had again disagreed with the King in the foreign policy of the country and had presented his resignation and that of his Cabinet.

This announcement led to a scene of wild disorder in the chamber. The city is greatly excited. There is much discussion of the formation of a coalition Cabinet.

Crowd Sings Marseillaise.

A great crowd marched to the home of M. Venizelos last night, singing the Greek national anthem and the Marseillaise. The former Premier at that time was in consultation with the diplomatic representatives of the entente Powers.

The crowd jammed the narrow street separating the American legation from the residence of M. Venizelos, crying "Long live Venizelos! Long live France."

The general opinion seems to be that King Constantine will attempt to form a coalition Cabinet headed by the aged ex-Premier, D. G. Phallis. Should this plan fail, it is believed the King will dissolve Parliament.

Chamber Sustained Premier.

Premier Venizelos, amid wild scenes in the Chamber of Deputies, yesterday had explained his war policy in connection with the landing of French troops at Saloniki, and had been sustained by a vote of 142 to 102, with 13 members not voting. The Chamber had been in session all Monday night.

"Some time has passed since the entente Powers have made requests of Greece," he said in reply to an interpellation on the occupation of Saloniki. "Today they asked nothing but this—they who offer Servia Greece's ally, succor in the event of circumstances which would require Greece herself, under her alliance, to give Servia help.

The wildest disorder broke out. The Premier succeeded in dominating the situation, his voice rising above the tumult and the clang of the bell. He cried: "We have a treaty with Servia. If we are honest we will leave nothing undone to insure its fulfillment in letter and spirit."

The following official statement bearing on the landing of French troops was issued after a meeting of the Cabinet Saturday night:

"The French Minister delivered the following note to Premier Venizelos:

"By order by Government, I have the honor to announce to your excellency the arrival at Saloniki of the first detachment of French troops, and to declare at the same time that France and England, allied to Servia, send their troops to help the latter, as well as to maintain their communications with her; and that the two Powers count upon Greece, who already has given them so many proofs of friendship, not to oppose measures taken in the interests of Servia, of whom she also is the ally.'

Premier Venizelos' Protest.

"Premier Venizelos replied:

"'By your letter of today you have been so good as to inform me of the arrival at Saloniki of the first detachment of French troops and of the decision of France and England to send their troops to help Servia, their ally; adding that the two Powers count on Greece not to oppose measures taken in the interests of Servia, whereof she also is the ally.

"'In answer to your letter, I have the honor to declare to your excellency that, being neutral in the European war, the royal Government could not possibly authorize the proceeding in question for it constitutes a breach of Greece's neutrality, the more manifest since it comes from two great belligerent Powers. It is therefore the duty of the royal Government to protest against the passage of foreign troops across Greek territory. The circumstances that these troops are destined solely to aid Servia, Greece's ally, in no way modifies the legal position of the King's Government; for even from a Balkanic point of view, Greece's neutrality could not be affected before the actual casus foederis was committed by the danger now threatening Servia, which caused the dispatch of international troops to her help.'"

The French and British officers who have landed have been received most cordially by the local naval, military and civil authorities and have been able to begin work immediately on their arrival.

The French troops landed from five transports at Saloniki consist of 70,000 men. They will proceed along the Gnevgheli-Ushup railroad to guard the line.

Premier Radoslavoff of Bulgaria has assured the Greek Minister at Sofia that Bulgaria will not attack Servia unless aggressive action against her first is taken, by Austria and Germany, in which case Bulgaria will be obliged to act against her neighbor.

Greece is able to put 180,000 men fully equipped in the field. Although the mobilization, which includes men up to 43 years of age, probably will call for 300,000 troops, those over the 180,000 mark cannot be armed. It is said the Government has sufficient funds to continue on a war footing for one month. The mobilization was completed Sunday.

The signing of the mobilization order created general relief here. It was considered an extraordinary triumph for the Premier, who is known to have had a long struggle with King Constantine.

A story generally current in Athens and widely accepted as illustrating the existing situation is that Premier Venizelos at conferences with King Constantine, pleaded that the Servian alliance must be observed if for no other reason than a means of defense against Bulgaria.

RUMANIA SENDS TROOPS TO BORDER

LONDON, Oct. 16.—Reuter's Athens correspondent states that Rumania is hurriedly dispatching troops to the Bulgarian frontier and otherwise taking extraordinary military measures.

The Rumanians are feverishly fortifying Giurgevo on the Danube, 40 miles south of Bucharest, across the river from Bulgaria, according to advices reaching Athens. Rumanian officers of Bulgarian origin are being transferred to interior posts. Young reserve officers have been called up and reserves who were to have been disbanded are being kept with the colors.

The retirement of Premier Venizelos of Greece and his associates came unheralded after the Chamber of Deputies had registered a vote of confidence in the Ministry. Official telegrams from Athens to the Greek legation here said Premier Venizelos relinquished his office at 9:30 last night. No reasons were given, though the former clash of opinions between King Constantine and the Premier left little doubt that the resignation involves the now familiar issue raised by M. Venizelos' insistance that Greece strike quickly in behalf of Servia and the Entente Powers.

It now seems certain that Bulgaria will align herself with Germany, Austria and Turkey. The matter doubtless will be brought to a head by the landing of allied troops in Saloniki. This procedure is regarded here as in effect placing Greece definitely with the entente Powers, as she is considered as having virtually acquiesced in this counter move against Bulgaria.

Although the time alloted for the Bulgarian reply to Russia's ultimatum expired yesterday afternoon, King Ferdinand, so far as has been made known, has not seen fit to make answer in any form. It is assumed that hostilities in this new field cannot be averted.

If Bulgaria joins the Teutonic allies she will enter the war under conditions less favorable than a few weeks ago. The Russians, with reinforcements and a slowly increasing amount of artillery, seem to be striking harder blows daily.

The situation in the west reached a stage of renewal of preparations, following the recent allied offensive, and the Germans still are struggling to regain the ground lost. Intensive artillery action is again predominant on the French front, indicating that the positions won have been consolidated and that preparations for another attack may be under way.

Luxemburg Said to Have Complained of Allied Air Attack.

BERLIN (by wireless to Sayville), Oct. 6.—The Overseas News Agency says that a protest to the entente Powers has been made by the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg against the recent attack on the city of Luxemburg by aeroplanes of the allies.

Additional French Troops Reported Landed in Greece.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The landing of additional French troops at Saloniki is reported from Athens. The correspondent there of the Exchange Telegraph Co. says that a number of transports carrying French troops entered the port at Saloniki this morning. He adds that the forwarding of French troops for Servia is proceeding actively.

Russia Has Received No Reply to Ultimatum to Bulgaria.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 6.—The Foreign Office was still without a reply at noon today to the ultimatum to Bulgaria.

Germany's Letter of Disavowal and Regret in the Arabic Case

THE letter of disavowal in the Arabic case which Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, delivered to Secretary of State Lansing yesterday follows:

"My Dear Mr. Secretary:—

"Prompted by the desire to reach a satisfactory agreement with regard to the Arabic incident, my Government has given me the following instructions:

"The orders issued by His Majesty, the Emperor, to the commanders of the German submarines, of which I notified you on a previous occasion, have been made so stringent that the recurrence of incidents similar to the Arabic case is considered out of the question.

"According to the report of Commander Schneider of the submarine which sank the Arabic, and his affidavit as well as those of his men, Commander Schneider was convinced that the Arabic intended to ram the submarine.

"On the other hand, the Imperial Government does not doubt the good faith of the affidavit of the British officers of the Arabic, according to which the Arabic did not intend to ram the submarine. The attack of the submarine was undertaken against the instructions issued to the commander. The Imperial Government regrets and disavows this act and has notified Commander Schneider accordingly.

"Under these circumstances, my Government is prepared to pay an indemnity for American lives, which to its deep regret have been lost on the Arabic. I am authorized to negotiate with you about the amount of this indemnity.

"I remain, my dear Mr. Lansing, yours very sincerely, ation for appendicitis and will be unable to travel for some time.

It is understood here that the British and French Ministers at Sofia have received instructions to leave Bulgaria if Russia severs diplomatic relations with that country. The Russian Foreign Office is virtually sure that a diplomatic breach is inevitable. Military action against Bulgaria, however, is not contemplated unless the latter attacks Servia or takes other measures clearly inimical to the interests of the entente allies.

The Arabian was of 2745 tons.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Announcement is made that the British steamers Haydn and Sailor Prince have been sunk. It is reported that the crew of the Haydn was saved and that some survivors of the Sailor Prince have been landed. The Haydn was of 3293 tons. The Sailor Prince was of 3144 tons and owned by the Prince line of Newcastle.

Germans Prevent French From Making a General Attack.

BERLIN, via London, Oct. 6.—The official statement issued by Army Headquarters today, says:

"In the Champagne, the French yesterday attempted to resume the offensive, on the front of their former attack, with heavy artillery fire, which increased to the greatest intensity during the afternoon. The enemy hoped to prepare our positions for storming in a general attack he intended making. Simultaneously he was getting his troops ready for the attack along the entire front.

"Under our artillery fire, directed on the enemy's points of departure, the French were only successful at certain points in bringing their troops forward for the attack. Wherever they did advance they were driven back again with heavy losses. Repeated rushes on the high road from Somme-Py to Souain broke down completely. North and northeast of Beausejour Farm and northwest of Ville-Sur-Tourbe their attacks were entirely unsuccessful."

The statement says the Russians began important attacks against Gen. von Hindenburg's forces and obtained initial successes, but the situation later was restored to "our favor." The situation is said to be unchanged with the armies of Gen. Mackensen and Prince Leopold.

Russians Recapture Five Villages South of the Pripet.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 6.—The official communication issued last night said:

"There have been several engagements on the Riga front. North of Birshallen our troops occupied a portion of the German trenches.

"South of the Pripet, after engagements on the Middle Styr, in the zone of the Kovel-Sarny Railway, our troops occupied the villages of Voulk, Kollousskais, Optovo, Voltchitzke and Medvieshka. In some places the enemy retired in disorder."

WIFE DIDN'T HELP JEWELER DRAW WILL, NURSE DECLARES

Deposition of Woman Who Cared for Guy H. Fisher in Last Illness Taken in Mother's Suit.

The testimony of a nurse, Miss H. Bozsinger, as to the circumstances under which Guy H. Fisher, a jeweler, made a deathbed will, is contained in depositions which were taken Monday in connection with the suit filed by Fisher's mother, Mrs. Jane M. Fisher of 3518 Shenandoah avenue, to break Fisher's will.

Fisher's widow, Mrs. Millie Fisher of 3955 Magnolia avenue, is the chief beneficiary of the will. The elder Mrs. Fisher says she did not learn of the marriage until after her son's death. The mother alleges, in her suit to break the will, that Fisher was not of sound mind, and particularly that he suffered from hallucinations causing him to believe that he was poor. This belief, the mother says, she shared for a time, and she says she boarded him free. She is now suing his estate for a board bill of $4232, and she says his estate exceeds $100,000 in value. She filed the board-bill suit in June and the will contest last month.

The nurse, in her testimony, stated that Fisher several times asked his wife to help him draw up his will, but that she did not do so, and that Jan. 26 last, a few days before his death, Fisher sent for a lawyer, who drew up the will. The nurse said she was sent to summon a neighbor as a witness to the will.

FULL SETTLEMENT WITH GERMANY IS EXPECTED SOON

VICTORY FOR AMERICA

Bernstorff Thinks Berlin Should Have Credit for Taking British Crew's Word.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Germany's disavowal in the case of the sinking of the Arabic, with accompanying assurances that the possibility of another such incident had been precluded through stringent instructions to submarine commanders, is regarded by officials of the Washington Government as one of the most gratifying results obtained by American diplomacy since the European war began.

The disavowal and promise of reparation for the loss of American lives made in a letter delivered to Secretary Lansing yesterday by Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, on instructions from Berlin, is taken to forecast an early adjustment of the Lusitania case and other features of the submarine dispute, and of insuring against any new aggravation of the situation as well.

German Quarters Optimistic.

Optimism over the outlook for complete settlement is even more pronounced in German quarters here. It is pointed out that Ambassador von Bernstorff has full authority from his Government to act for it in the negotiations and that his determination to bring about an amicable adjustment has been demonstrated amply by the wide concessions made in the case of the Arabic.

The crisis in the relations between the United States and Germany growing out of the submarine controversy, which came near the breaking point on at least two occasions, is regarded as having passed, and all that now remains to the Arabic case is the fixing of the amount of indemnity. That phase of the case will be taken up orally at a conference, at a date yet to be determined, between Secretary Lansing and the German Ambassador.

The next feature of the issue to be taken up will be the Lusitania case. It had been held up pending a settlement of the Arabic case.

"Diplomatic Victory."

"It is a diplomatic victory for the United States," the German Ambassador remarked to a friend before going back to New York, "but credit must be given to Germany, I believe, for notly accepting the word of the British officers that they did not intend to ram the submarine."

This point, it was learned, at one time threatened to interrupt the proceedings, as the German Government at first wished to arbitrate the conflicting evidence.

With the Arabic case disposed of, the way has now been paved for sending the American note to Great Britain on interference with neutral commerce. It is expected to go forward within a few days. It has been delayed because President Wilson did not wish to complicate the situation with that growing out of the submarine controversy.

AUTO DRIVER HELD ALTHOUGH MAN HE HIT FAILS TO APPEAR

Judge Hogan Refuses to Dismiss Charge Against Charles P. Mann, Orders Prosecuting Witness to Court.

Judge Hogan in police court today refused to dismiss a charge of careless driving against Charles P. Mann, a merchant, of 4148 Shaw avenue, when the prosecuting witness, John Molloy, 60 years old, a machinist of 4532 Arco avenue, failed to appear against him.

Judge Hogan demanded of Mann to know if he had seen Molloy, and if he had paid him anything. Mann replied he had seen Molloy and had agreed to pay his doctor's bill. Judge Hogan directed that a subpena be issued for Molloy to appear tomorrow to testify.

Mann's automobile struck and injured Molloy the evening of Sept. 28, near Taylor and Manchester avenues. Molloy suffered a fracture of the right shoulder and bruises. In explaining his action the Judge said there had been too many cases of prosecuting witnesses failing to appear in automobile accident cases, and that settlement of doctor's bills or payments to injured persons did not justify dropping of prosecution.

SOMBRERO LEADS TO ARREST AS LEADER OF AUTO ROBBERS

Man Held Here as One Who Escaped in Montana Declares He Is From Ohio.

A western sombrero, a bullet scar and missing teeth, together with his striking resemblance to a photograph on file at police headquarters, led to the arrest last night of a man who claims to be John Fitzgerald of Columbus, O., but who, the police maintain, is J. J. Hartwell, leader of a band of robbers who held up automobile parties in Butte, Mont.

The man was arrested at Eighteenth street and Clark avenue, and when detectives started with him for the police station he fought. Later he said he mistook the detectives for confidence men.

According to the police, nine automobile parties were held up by five highwaymen, of whom Hartwell was the leader, and robbed of $3000. Hartwell, they said, escaped jail while awaiting trial and accidentally shot himself in the leg while firing at pursing policemen. The police of Butte have been notified of the arrest here and pictures of the prisoner, together with his Bertillon measurements, will be sent there.

AMERICAN TELLS OF YANKEES' PART IN ALLIED ATTACK

Describes the Taking of Trenches and How Germans Came Out of Holes Hands Up.

(Copyright, 1915, by Press Pub. Co.)

PARIS, Oct. 6.—From John Joseph Casey, a former newspaper artist in New York, now a private in the Second Regiment of the Foreign Legion, the Post-Dispatch correspondent has received the first comprehensive account of the part played by the American legionaries in the great Champagne offensive. Casey was one of the few who escaped with comparatively light wounds. His story, as written for the Post-Dispatch, in a hospital at Grenoble, follows:

By JOHN JOSEPH CASEY.

We of the Moroccan division were in bivouac around Suippes and Somme-Suippes during the bombardment of the German lines, lasting about 70 hours, night and day. Our artillerymen claimed they had guns enough in our sector to stretch across the whole sector in four lines if placed side by side, and touching. All these being fired as quickly as possible, you can imagine what hell was let loose during these 70 hours.

About 11 o'clock on the night of Sept. 24 we shouldered our knapsacks and trudged slowly toward the first line of trenches, passing through Souain, a village absolutely in ruins, but still under heavy artillery fire from the Germans. Our own shells were singing over our heads, and we Americans kept wondering why, with the air so thick with shells, they didn't collide. Maybe some did, but in the general uproar nobody would have noticed it. From the village we entered on a big trench four kilometers long, running, to the firing trench, without losing any men. Once there, there was nothing to do but watch the spectacle, and it was some show.

For every meter of ground a shell would drop and earth streams would shoot into the air like waterspouts.

Covered With Dust and Mud.

After several hours waiting we started ahead again, following the Colonials, who were to attack first and whose place before the Navarin farm we were to take. We heard our guns lengthen their fire to stop the German reserve coming up and then we worked our way into our front trench, the Colonials having already started their attack.

The front trenches were being knocked to pieces by German guns, bullets were whistling, shells screeching and exploding, and we were covered with dust and mud, as it had started to rain at 8 a. m.

As the Colonials passed us we gave them a rousing cheer, but we didn't see much of their work because of the smoke and mist. About half an hour later, however, we knew they had arrived, for all over the plain German trenches began to disgorge their men. They came up from their holes, hands in air, headed by their officers and with others carrying their wounded and were herded toward our lines by Territorial Guards.

There must have been 1000 of them right in front of us. Then we received the signal to start. We jumped out of the trench in a long line and without much loss reached the vacated German trenches. I stopped long enough to take a good look at them. They were filled with dead and dying, some half buried in shell holes, others crawling slowly toward our trenches. In some places the German dead were piled six feet high.

We made the German prisoners carry the French and their own wounded.

Regiment Cut Up.

German shells began to cut up our regiment as we approached the Navarin farm and forced us to duck behind a pine grove and into a German communicating trench.

The morning's work had gained us five kilometers (about three miles), but still we couldn't stay in this trench, as our losses were mounting fast. In one turn of the trench five Americans were killed and as many wounded. Our battalion managed to get across the open plain to the Navarin farm, from which the Germans had retreated, by that time under fire from the 75's not more than 200 yards at our back.

With darkness the rain came down heavier. It simply poured all night and we lay in holes in water under a continuous bombardment.

Next day we managed to dig some trenches, but that night, Sept. 26, the Germans commenced to get after us good and proper with their shells. One American Sergeant, Bob Morris of Los Angeles, was buried under a big "marmite" (French nickname for big German shell), but we pulled him out still alive. Whether he recovered I don't know.

A FINE TREATMENT FOR CATARRH

EASY TO MAKE AND COSTS LITTLE

Catarrh is such an insidious disease and has become so prevalent during the past few years that its treatment should be understood by all.

Science has fully proved that Catarrh is a constitutional disease, and therefore requires a constitutional treatment. Sprays, inhalers, salves and nose douches seldom if ever give lasting benefit and often drive the disease farther down the air passages and into the lungs.

If you have Catarrh or Catarrhal deafness or head noises, go to your druggist and get one ounce of Parmint (double strength). Take this home and add to it ¾ pint of hot water and 4 ounces of granulated sugar; stir until dissolved, take one tablespoonful 4 times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises, clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and mucus stop dropping into the throat.

This treatment has a slight tonic action which makes it especially effective in cases where the blood has become thin and weak. It is easy to make, tastes pleasant and costs little. Every person who wishes to be free from this destructive disease should give this treatment a trial.—ADV.

GERMAN DEVICE REPLACES MINES AUTOMATICALLY

Receptacle Containing Several Bombs Placed Along Allies' Coasts by U-Boats.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

PARIS, Sept. 24.—A new type of submarine mine layer and a new and unique form of submarine mine have come to light in the recent activities of German submarines off the French and English coasts. The new mine has an automatic adjustment by which one mine replaces another, such as in an automatic gun one cartridge follows another after each explosion.

The existing form of mine generally used is anchored to the bed of harbor waters, the anchor chain giving enough slack to bring the mine to within 10 feet of the surface of the water.

Recently, as the mine sweepers were at work, they discovered that the anchor lying in the bed of the harbor and holding the mine above, had been transformed into a small chamber or receptacle for several mines. These were so arranged that when the first mine, in position near the surface, is gathered in by a mine sweeper, the tug on the anchor chain releases another mine from the chamber below, which automatically slides up the chain and takes the place of the mine which has just been cleared away.

The mines are said to be carried on deck of a submarine and thrown off at the points desired, the submarine then adjusting the anchor and the automatic succession of mines.

Since the detection of the device mine sweeping has become a more formidable operation, as it is necessary not only to scoop off the upper mine, but in each case go to the bottom and remove the entire machinery of renewal.

EFFICIENCY BOARD WILL BE PUT "ON TRIAL FOR ITS LIFE"

Alderman Hall Says Republican Committee Will Be Asked to Scan 2000 Appointments.

Alderman Nat Hall today announced that the special investigating committee which he heads would not only put the Efficiency Board "on trial for its life," but also would call on the Republican City Central Committee to scan the 2000 appointments made by department heads from efficiency lists, as a check on what the department heads had done.

Alderman Hall also declared he had legal advice that Chairman Rogers had no lawful right to that post, because he resigned as Secretary to Mayor Kiel to accept it in the face of the new city charter provision that no city official shall be eligible to appointment on the Efficiency Board. Hall also declared that he had legal advice that the $3000 salaries paid to Rogers and his two fellow board members were in excess of the amount contemplated by the new charter. Hall admitted that this was a belated discovery on his part, as he led a fight in the last House of Delegates to increase the salary of Efficiency Board members from $1200 to $3000 a year when Democratic delegates proposed the smaller sum.

Alderman Hall has received the list of appointments made under the efficiency system, and will have it checked by the auditor and the election board to see that each is properly listed and is a voter, except in the case of feminine appointees.

LAST OGDEN WILL THROWN OUT

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 6.—The last of the wills purporting to dispose of the $12,000,000 estate of Francis A. Ogden, who died here last year, was refused probate yesterday, and apparently the immense real estate holdings of the eccentric recluse will go to his relatives in Wisconsin, Michigan, Washington and other states without further litigation.

Mrs. M. L. Sellers of Cairo, Ga., made no contest when the will by which she claims the Ogden estate was left to her former husband was taken up. Judge N. A. Atkinson, counsel for Mrs. Sellers, announced that an investigation had convinced him that the author of the will, an illiterate, could not have been Francis A. Ogden, who was a college graduate.

Man Asleep in Box Car Is Shot.

Theodore Lacare, who was sleeping in a box car in the Alton railroad yards yesterday, was shot in the arm by an unidentified man who, it is supposed, mistook Lacare for another person. Lacare said the man shoved open the door and pointed a revolver at him with the words, "I'm going to get you." He then fired and ran.

CHILD SERIOUSLY HURT BY AUTOMOBILE TRUCK

GIRL, 10, RUN DOWN BY AUTO TRUCK AND SERIOUSLY HURT

Child With Mother on Way From Church to See Father at Grocery When Injured.

Odelie Eschlimann, 10 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Eschlimann, 4527A Garfield avenue, was run down and seriously injured by an automobile delivery truck at Evans and Taylor avenues, at 6 p. m. yesterday. Le Roy Bixler, 4288A Easton avenue, driver of the truck, was arrested and charged with careless driving.

The girl and her mother were on their way from church to a grocery at Evans and Taylor, where the child's father is employed. Odelie ran across the street ahead of Mrs. Eschlimann.

The mother says that the truck was coming at considerable speed and without lights, although it was getting dark. After the car struck the girl Bixler stopped it and helped carry her into a physician's office.

OWNER KILLED FARM TENANT, WOUNDS WIFE AND 3 CHILDREN

Indiana Man Angered Because Boy and Two Girls Were Gathering Apples on Place He Rented.

PERU, Ind., Oct. 6.—August Bion today shot and killed Bert Sears, on a farm 12 miles east of here, and wounded Mrs. Sears and her three children, because the children were gathering apples on a farm Sears had rented from Bion. Mrs. Sears and two of the children may die.

Bion was driving by when he saw the Sears children, Harry, 15; Goldie, 14, and Dorothy, 7. He fired on them with a shotgun. Then he went to the Sears home, shot Sears through the body, killing him, and shot Mrs. Sears.

Posses are searching for Bion.

RUNAWAY GIRL IN HOSPITAL

Placed Under Observation After Breaking Glass in Police Station.

Charlayne Kerth, 13 years old, a runaway girl from Mount Vernon, Ill., when in the matron's quarters at Central Police Station this morning, buried a tumbler at the glass panel in the door separating one of the cellrooms from the matron's office. Bits of flying glass showered about Mrs. Julia Noonan, the matron, but she was not injured. Miss Kerth was taken to the city hospital for observation.

Miss Kerth was arrested at Union Station last night when she inquired the way to the Y. W. C. A. She told a policeman that she had eloped from Mount Vernon with a showman and had been deserted by him at Cape Girardeau. She was being held for the Federal authorities.

LOSES LIFE IN SAVING OTHERS

Chicago Steel Mill Employe and Rescuer Killed by Gas.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Sheldon Lacey, 21 years old, an employe of the Illinois Steel Co., at the South Chicago mill, gave his life yesterday to save 25 fellow workers. The men were in a washer room, when a broken bolt caused a rush of waste gas into the room and threatened their lives. Lacey seized a valve at the point where the bolt had released it and shouted to the men to run.

The last man to leave the room, Peter Monciochi, turned and saw Lacey fall, overcome by gas. He ran to Lacey and dragged him to the door before being overcome himself. Four other men were overcome in dragging Lacey and Monciochi from the entrance. When a doctor was summoned Lacey was dead and Monciochi died a short time later.

SHIPS AT PANAMA START ON VOYAGE AROUND CAPE HORN

Closing of Canal Necessitates Sending Passengers Across Isthmus by Train.

PANAMA, Oct. 6.—Owing to the blockade in the Panama Canal, due to earth slides, a dozen vessels at Balboa and Cristobal received orders today to proceed to their destinations around Cape Horn and have departed.

Major-General Goethals, Governor of the Panama Canal Zone, who is a passenger on board the steamer Cristobal from New York, today was notified by Col. Harding, engineer of maintenance, that the Secretary of War had approved the closing of the waterway until Nov. 1.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—The 220 passengers on board the steamer Finland of the Panama-Pacific Line, now at Colon en route to California, will be transferred to special trains Sunday across the isthmus from the Atlantic to the Pacific to board the company's steamer Kroonland at Balboa for the trip to San Francisco.

The Kroonland, bound for New York with 455 passengers, among them Mrs. William Howard Taft, with her daughter, Helen, is due at Balboa Saturday, and her passengers also will proceed by special train across the isthmus the following day to embark at Colon on the Finland.

AUTHORITY ON ORIENTAL RUGS TELLS OF IMMENSE PROFITS

Former Salesman for New York Dealers in Suit Also Explains How Antiques Are Made.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Paul M. Allo, an authority on Oriental rugs, made public yesterday many of the secrets of the trade, and revealed the immense profits made by dealers, in a suit for commissions against Benguiat brothers, Fifth avenue dealers, before a jury in Supreme Court Justice Goff's court.

Allo, who was a head salesman in the Benguiat establishment for about 13 years, sued for 1 per cent on rug sales of $830,000, on the ground that he was engaged at a salary of $35 a week and the commission. The Benguiats contended that Allo was to receive only a weekly salary. The jury returned a verdict in Allo's favor.

In his testimony Allo told of one polonais rug bought in Paris for 80 francs which sold in New York for $12,000. In another case the dealers bought an Indian rug for $50 and, after making $400 worth of repairs on it, they held it at $15,000. He testified that new rugs were made to appear old through the use of pumice stones, which wore down the fabric. In certain rugs there were 800 knots to a square inch, and it sometimes took an hour to cover an inch in the ageing process, he said. In filling up holes in old rugs and making them whole again, Allo said it was necessary to take the same number of stitches that were taken in the original, and then remove traces of repairs by the use of pumice stone.

BEAUTIFUL HAIR, THICK, WAVY, GLOSSY AND NO DANDRUFF

Draw a moist cloth through hair and double its beauty at once.

Save your hair! Dandruff disappears and hair stops coming out.

Immediate?—Yes! Certain?—that's the joy of it. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after an application of Danderine. Also try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

You can surely have pretty, charming, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will just get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.—ADV.

POST-DISPATCH MAN VIEWS DENTS IN GERMAN LINE

English Artillery Advanced at Gallop Under Cover of Curtains of Smoke and Waves of Gas to Support Infantry, but the Wind Changed, Blowing Smoke Away, and Germans Engaged Them in Terrific Duel.

By Karl H. von Wiegand.

A special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and the New York World.

(Copyright, 1915, by Press Pub. Co.)

WITH THE ARMY OF CROWN PRINCE RUPRECHT OF BAVARIA (by courier to Berlin and The Hague), Oct. 3.—The first phase of what Lord Cavan, commander of the English Guards division, in the order of the day to his troops characterized as "the greatest battle of all times," is closed.

Upon the ground of personal observation, after a tour along the front, from a point in the Champagne, south of Vousieres to a point north of La Bassee, I can say the object of the offensive, that is, to break through the German lines and roll up its flanks, has failed. I found but two good dents in the German line, one in Champagne, the other here. The deepest of these is here, near Loos, which was perhaps three and a half kilometers wide (about two miles). Smaller gains were made at several points in Champagne by the French.

The price paid by the French and English is estimated by Germans around 100,000 dead, wounded and prisoners. I saw enough to know that the losses are staggering. As near as I could get any expression, it would seem the Germans estimate their losses at not quite 40,000.

The Germans frankly admit that the French in Champagne and the English near Loos overran the first line and succeeded in taking a considerable number of prisoners. Capture made by the Germans aggregate 211 officers and 10,721 men, as well as many machine guns. From what I have seen immediately behind the front, there is no indication that the Germans consider their lines endangered. Otherwise they certainly would move some of the vast amount of valuable material which is within easy cannon shot of the front.

I have talked with numerous troops which bore the brunt of the fighting in this offensive, and, much to my surprise, never in the entire war have I found troops in better humor and spirits. Near La Bassee, immediately under the English guns, several hundred soldiers just returned from the trenches were bathing in gigantic sugar vats. Outside, the big guns, which were droning one shot after another, had nipped a tall smokestack of a factory but it was insufficient to bring it down. Another shell went through the adjoining building, but this did not bother the soldiers floundering in the vats like sportive boys.

Not far away a number of improvised sawmills were cutting boards which soldier carpenters were nailing together for timbering the trenches. Each regiment has such a sawmill. In the same place a big machine was turning wood into so-called "wood-wool," or excelsior, in vast quantities, which is used for straw. A narrow railway takes this direct to the trenches. A captain of engineers told me that, so far, over 1,000,000 worth of wood had been used in the La Bassee section in timbering the trenches.

This was but one of many evidences of the marvelous organization behind the German lines, which, much as I have seen of it, never ceases to arouse wonder.

The French and English offensive against the German line between La Bassee and Loos began, as elsewhere, with artillery fire that none can find words to describe. It leveled the first German trenches, from which those who could be were withdrawn, but a portion of the fire directed immediately back of the trenches made it impossible for many to retire. These threw themselves flat on their faces in the bottom of the trenches or crawled to bomb proofs.

Germans Were Dazed.

In some sections a sudden cessation of this long, uninterrupted fire, which made the Germman trenches like a volcano, was followed by a storming charge. The enemy in many places having to dash but a hundred yards, were in the German trenches before the dazed occupants had a chance to recover their senses. Ghastly hand-grenade fight now began in the labyrinth of trenches. Bomb proofs which were not destroyed by shell were jammed with soldiers who had crawled into them to get out of the hellish artillery fire. Into these the English and French threw hand grenades.

In another place, close by, also south of Loos, an artillery preparation of hours was followed by a gas attack. First a huge cloud of black smoke, causing great irritation to the eyes and throat, came from the English and French line, followed immediately by a wave of chlorine gas; then another smoke wave, then gas, alternating at intervals of from eight to 12 minutes, which drove the Germans back at a few points.

A sudden change of wind, however, prevented the full effect of these measures. Behind the dense smoke curtain English field artillery advanced at a gallop, coming up ready to dash across bridges and over trenches in support of the English infantry. It evidently expected that a big hole would be made in the German lines.

As the English and French advanced on the German second line, the smoke cloud split and swung off, leaving the massed artillery in full view. The Germans could hardly believe their eyes at first, but then began to concentrate big gun fire on the English artillery with terrible effect.

Dazed, perhaps, and somewhat surprised when the English took the first trenches, the Germans soon recovered their senses and the reserves received the English with a terrific fire. The Colonel of one of the Bavarian reserve regiments said that they gathered 1120 dead English on the sector in front of his regiment in a space of 1200 yards wide and 200 deep.

The fighting was of a desperate character, in which artillery, machine guns and hand grenades developed unusually ghastly and grewsome features.

From Trench to Trench.

Men fought from trench to trench, and, where these had disappeared, from the edge of shell crater to shell crater. The biggest of these often was more than seven feet deep, affording excellent cover.

In places shells fell where the dead had been buried, scattering fragments of their remains to where men were lying on their faces fighting. Numerous officers and men told me they never had seen such a grewsome battle-ground.

When one German artillery detachment had caught the English charge and English shells had landed among the Germans, high explosives had torn men to pieces. Decapitated heads, headless trunks, fragments of arms and legs here and there, the dead of today lying among the dead and fragments of dead of weeks ago, upheaved by shells, marked the battlefield.

In some crowded bomb proofs into which hand grenades had been thrown through the doors the sight is said to be too ghastly for words.

From the moment the English in the Loos section pierced the first German line and successfully penetrated two kilometers farther, the attack appears to have lost initiative and direction. The German artillery concentrated its fire to prevent the English reserves from coming up in support. The English artillery attempted to do the same to prevent the German reserves from coming forward, but failed to check them.

Tributes to Allies' Bravery.

German officers and men pay splendid tributes to French and English bravery and daring, but the unanimous opinion is that the English lost their heads after rushing the first line.

A private of the Royal Berkshire regiment, who was among the prisoners, told me that, out of his regiment, only 18 men were left, that the regimental commander fell several days before the offensive began and that the Major who took over the regiment was killed by a shell at the very beginning of the attack. That only 18 are left out of the entire Royal Berkshire regiment is evidently exaggerated, and is not credited by German officers, who usually place no great weight on prisoners' statements.

I talked freely with prisoners, all of whom said they could not complain about the treatment they had received so far. All of them were comparatively cheerful.

English orders and instruction, even to the care of prisoners and dead, which I saw were worked out with neatness, clearness and comprehensiveness of details that caused the Germans to express the greatest admiration and acknowledgment of unsurpassed thoroughness; but all agreed that from the moment the first object had been attained, that of overrunning the first line, confusion set in.

In one corps headquarters Gen. von F—— asked me to go down to the first trenches of his line, if I had any doubts about the situation or the spirit of the troops. On his line I saw my first "stink bomb" used by the English. About 16 inches in diameter, with a handle like a broomstick, one can be shot or thrown but a short distance. It gives out an overpowering, sickening odor.

The German losses in Champagne appear to have been heavier than around Loos. One corp commander at this end tells me his losses have been only 2500.

The first phase of the battle is closed. What the second will be, none of the German high officers will hazard a prediction. Concentrated attacks on the part of the British and French have ceased. Single attacks in small sectors continue sporadically, especially at night. Yesterday I was within two and one-half miles of Arras, then came up to near Loos. Almost complete quiet reigned, even the restless fliers being absent from the sky.

Today the guns began droning again. From low thunder-like muttering in the distance the sound grows to a louder roar near by. The French and English appear to have endeavored to repeat the German-Austrian feat of breaking Russian lines at Tarnow in May, but with different results. The Germans and Austrians succeeded in breaking through the Russians on a width of 40 kilometers (20 miles) and a depth of 20 kilometers, which started the Russian ball rolling backward.

Jonathan Apple Queen Exhibitor at Fair Here

MRS. W G CURD

MRS. W. G. CURD of Saverton, Mo., an exhibitor at the St Louis Agricultural Fair, is known as Missouri's Jonathan Apple Queen, because of the quantity and quality of the apples produced in her orchards. These apples have won blue ribbons for Mrs. Curd at many state and county fairs.

Formerly Dick Dalton, who is related to Mrs. Curd by marriage, was known as the Apple King of Missouri, but Mrs. Curd now proudly boasts that she has eliminated Dalton as a contender for honors in the Jonathan apple line. Her Jonathans captured all first prizes at the San Francisco Exposition and at the Missouri State Fair at Sedalia.

BRITISH SENT GAS AND SMOKE AGAINST GERMANS

Gains in La Bassee Region Not Commensurate With Efforts, Associated Press Man Says.

By Associated Press.

LILLE, France, Oct. 2 (by courier via London, Oct. 6.)—In view of the tremendous preparations, the amount of ammunition used and the number of troops employed in the great attack along a front of less than 20 miles from La Bassee to a point south of Arras, the Anglo-French gains are not considered to have been important.

The most important British gain was to the south of La Bassee Canal, in an easterly and southeasterly direction where the Germans were thrown back from two-thirds of a mile to nearly two miles along a front between a mile and a half to two miles and a half in extent.

This was the main British attack and is declared to have been carried out by five divisions against four infantry regiments and one battalion of sharpshooters.

In addition to their principal gains, the French succeeded in taking some ground to the northeast of Arras, near Beaurains, south of Arras, and at one or two points farther south. Beaurains, which was utterly destroyed, is still part of the German lines.

Along this entire front, as in Champagne, the attack was preceded by a terrible artillery fire, which began Sept. 24, and increased steadily in intensity until the morning of the 25th, when the attack commenced.

British Release Gas.

Before attacking the British sent alternate waves of asphyxiating gas and dense smoke across the field, first releasing the gas for about ten minutes and then the smoke for a slightly shorter time, and repeating this procedure several times. It was impossible to see a tree 20 feet distant through the smoke clouds.

Many old British line regiments took part in the attack, but there also were a great many regiments of the new Kitchener army.

The German troops in places recaptured the lost ground. This was especially true to the east Givenchy, where two companies, which had broken through the German lines, were driven out or exterminated. These counter attacks were carried out in almost every instance with hand grenades, as nearly all the fighting took place in the trenches, which were too narrow for the use of the bayonet.

The German division corps and army commanders unite in declaring that the French and British losses were very great and that the German losses, while heavy, were small, considering the character of the fighting.

Germans in Good Spirits.

In various trips along the front, the correspondent of the Associated Press has never before encountered such high spirits among the German troops as prevail in this army. Neither officers nor men exhibit any signs of anxiety, or even uneasiness about the situation. On the contrary, the feeling appears almost one of elation.

British prisoners with whom the correspondent conversed were also in excellent condition, mentally and physically, and their equipment was of a nature which was commented on frequently by German officers as "luxurious."

The British prisoners appear to be far superior physically and are better equipped than the French. A great number of the latter were wearing their new steel helmets, many of which show marks of shrapnel bullets, and, in some instances, rifle bullets, which would have been fatal without their headgear.

The German commanders, while expecting further Anglo-French efforts, profess to believe that their antagonists "have played their last big trump." They declare that the losses of the British reached 50 per cent of the forces engaged.

AMERICAN INDICTED IN CANADA

Albert Kaltschmidt of Detroit Accused in Dynamiting Case.

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 6.—The Essex County grand jury has returned an indictment against Albert Kaltschmidt of Detroit, charging him with conspiracy in connection with the dynamiting of the Peabody overall factory at Walkersville, Ont., several months ago and with an attempt to destroy the Windsor armory. The Walkerville plant was manufacturing uniforms for the British army at the time of the explosion.

Kaltschmidt is president of a Michigan salt concern and has repeatedly denied the accusation made against him.

RECOVERY FROM GRIP

The form of influenza popularly called grip lasts but a short time, is seldom fatal but causes suffering and misery out of all proportion to its importance.

The reason is this. When the acute stage of the grip is passed there often remains a neurasthenia that persists for months if not properly corrected. The patient is moody, in poor spirits, suffers lack of appetite and vigor and feels indisposed to work or even to enjoy life. Warmth and quiet alone give comfort and these not for long at a time. Sleep is restless and does not refresh the nerves which are always at high tension.

The best way to correct this aftereffect of the grip is to build up the blood and there is no better blood builder than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

As soon as the revitalized blood courses through the system you are aware of its soothing influence. Gradually the color returns to the pale cheeks, appetite and digestion improve and you are on the road to health.

The free book, "Building Up the Blood," contains a chapter on the after-effects of the grip. Send now for a copy to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at the nearest drug store or by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes $2.50.—ADV.

TRACTOR PLOWING IS DEMONSTRATED AT ST. LOUIS FAIR

Exhibition of Good Roads Building and Horse Show Are Other Features of Day.

This was tractor day at the St. Louis Agricultural Fair. Its principal attractions were demonstrations of tractor plowing in a field near the grand stand and a demonstration of belt work at the tractor headquarters.

The greater part of the forenoon was taken up with an exhibition of good roads building and with the horse show, which began at 10:20. The horse show included two sections of the $3000 saddle stake, classes for year-old stallions, 16 cavalry horses, 36 combination, three-gaited horses, 17 artillery horses, 47 horses to storm buggies, and of saddle stallions, ladies' harness horses, gig horses and saddle geldings.

In the cavalry horse exhibition, "King Mack," owned by S. H. Prince of Boston, won first prize; "Sun Dance," owned by P. Wrey of Bowling Green, Ky., second; "Gingerbread Man," owned by Lieut. Col. E. S. Stanley of St. Louis, third.

In the early hours crowds visited the agriculture and horticulture exhibits and watched the judges at work trying to select prize winners from among the dairy cattle, sheep, hogs and poultry.

The day's racing program, starting at 2:30, includes events in the 2:24 pace, the 2:17 trot, three running races and a mule race.

The secretary of the fair, when asked today by a Post-Dispatch reporter for the official turnstile count of yesterday's attendance, refused to make the figures public. Monday's attendance, however, was given out by the fair officials as more than 25,000. On that day about half of those attending were school children, who were admitted free. The attendance yesterday, however, was small, and 5000 would be a liberal estimate.

Traveling Men's day was observed yesterday. Visitors arrived early for the morning stock-judging, and remained for the balloon ascension and parachute leap at sundown.

The fair was modernized mainly by two features—the appearance of giant motor tractors in the infield, and the suffragist speeches in front of the suffragists' tent. Mrs. Alice Curtice Moyer-Wing was the principal speaker.

While several good harness and running races were carded in the afternoon, the majority of the persons on the grounds were interested in the farm implement displays on the hill. At 4 p. m., when the most spirited heat of the 2:19 trot was run, only 72 persons were in the field and grand stands. Possibly 400 more were grouped in the space between the grand stand and the track.

Horsemen Bet Among Selves.

Several horsemen made pools on the race results among themselves, but persons not known to them were refused the privilege of betting. These men gathered in the rear and to the right of the grand stand, and settled their wagers after each contest.

Today every form of tractor from small machines to giant engines capable of drawing two dozen plows were shown. One tractor which has attracted attention is guided by reins, like a horse, a third rein being used to stop the engine. Starting is done by the usual cranking method.

Dairy cattle judging is under the supervision of P. M. Brandt of Columbia, Mo. A prize herd of 30, owned by William Galloway of Waterloo, Io., has arrived. It consists of 17 head of pedigreed Ayrshires, said to be the first ever shown in Missouri, and 13 head of Holsteins, which will compete with the Wilco dairy herd owned by E. J. and C. H. Krause of St. Louis.

The management has announced that although tomorrow is "Big Thursday," no extra charge for admission will be made.

N. B. REAM ESTATE $5,658,526

Financier Had Been Estimated to Be Worth $40,000,000 to $100,000,000.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Norman B. Ream's estate totals only $5,658,526. It was supposed to be worth from $40,000,000 to $100,000,000. W. W. Miller yesterday gave the State Comptroller a copy of the Ream will which has been suppressed since last February, and named the amount stated as the value of the estate.

"I assure you the figure I have named is the value of Mr. Ream's entire estate," Miller said in reply to a reporter's question. "It includes the assessed value of all stocks and bonds he owned, as well as all real estate he owned in Connecticut. He owned no real estate here."

VEILED PROPHET'S PARADE DELIGHT TO EYE FOR COLORS

Huge Crowds on 6 1-2 Mile Line of March Pleased by Cleverness With Which Float Ideas Were Carried Out.

The Veiled Prophet street pageant last evening was a delight to the eye, by reason of its color, its freshness of material and the cleverness with which most of the ideas were carried out. In these respects it was better than in any recent year, perhaps better than in any previous year.

Those who sat or stood waiting for the parade, wearing a moderate amount of wraps, found the weather ideal. The sharpness which brought this morning's frost did not seem to get into the air until a later hour. But persons with sensitive throats noted that the work of smoke prevention in St. Louis has still some distance to go.

One fault of previous parades had been the inability of many persons to read the titles, borne on banners ahead of the floats. It was announced that lighted banners would be used last night, but for some reason this was not done, and the banners, which were carried by horsemen, were often in such deep shadow that they could not be read.

Prophet's Float Attractive.

None of the other floats had so much sheer beauty as the delicately filmed chariot in which the Prophet himself rode. The brightness of color and the skillful arrangement of the lights attracted as much attention as the bowing figure of the Prophet himself.

"Myths and Legends" was the title float, and it bore the miscellaneous material of mythology, dragons, knights, griffins and fairies. Then came the 20 floats illustrating particular subjects. The first few were of Greek origin, and the blinking and centrally located eye of Cyclops was one of the most striking features of these easily recognized wonder-tales. Cyclops himself looked rather too benevolent, for which some papier mache artist is to blame.

While the floats were of a character to appeal particularly to children, they seemed to be as heartily enjoyed by adults. The line of march, six and one-half miles long, was lined thickly with visitors and city folk, and downtown streets were densely packed.

On Washington avenue and along Broadway policemen had to use persuasion, and occasionally had to hint at using their clubs to keep the throngs back within the required distance of the curb.

Many Spectators in Windows.

On the streets west of Jefferson avenue, which, as city residents know, afford the best view of the parade, windows were filled, sidewalks had double and triple lines of spectators, and many stands and rows of chairs, on lawns and terraces, furnished revenue to individuals and societies.

On intersecting streets automobiles and trucks were parked, from which merry parties viewed the pageant.

The floats, in order, were: The Second Labor of Hercules, Golden Fleece, Second Voyage of Sinbad, Cyclops, Three Golden Apples, Cerberus, The Wooing of the Maid of Beauty, Kambalu, Pandora, Cinderella, Beauty and the Beast, Blue Beard, Good King Arthur, Star and Lily, Puss in Boots, Fair One With the Golden Locks, Evangeline, Hiawatha, Rip Van Winkle and Hansel and Gretel.

While it would be impossible for a float to tell its own story to one who knew nothing of the legend illustrated by it, most of the floats were so designed as to remind the spectators of half-forgotten tales.

Puss in Boots was one of the most general favorites, and Puss, a heavy-set and dark-furred figure, purred approval of the applause, and mewed at the children whenever a momentary stop in the procession occurred.

The Evangeline float was one of particular beauty, with oxen, Indians and prairie schooner forming the picture of the Arcadians' progress through the wilderness.

As in past years, the floats moved along street car tracks and were electrically lighted from the trolley wires. The bands—16 of them—interspersed in the line, eschewed national airs of every sort and played popular tunes and light opera selections.

The parade, which has established a reputation in past years for running on time, had some seemingly unavoidable delay downtown and did not get to the back door of the Coliseum until 40 minutes after the scheduled time.

WOMAN WHO WAS SUSPECTED OF STEALING HANDBAG RELEASED

Mrs. Dora Pruett Declared She Found It and She Restored It to Owner After Arrest.

Mrs. Dora Pruett, a widow, 40 years old, of 4442 Olive street, who was arrested Monday on suspicion that she had stolen a handbag at a theater near Grand avenue and Olive street from Mrs. Inez L. Butterfield of Chicago, has been discharged by the police. She declared that she found the handbag, and restored it to Mrs. Butterfield after her arrest.

The bag contained a railroad ticket, which Mrs. Pruett gave to a policeman with the statement that she had found it on a sidewalk. Her address was obtained in this way and Mrs. Butterfield called on her and asked for the bag.

According to Mrs. Pruett, Mrs. Butterfield told her she had lost the bag in a downtown theater. She said she did not believe the bag she found was the one Mrs. Butterfield lost and refused to give it up. Mrs. Butterfield caused her arrest, and then said she did not wish to prosecute the case any further, as she had to leave the city. Besides the railroad ticket, the bag contained $3.

B'NAI BRITH LODGE TO INITIATE 1000 NEW MEMBERS SUNDAY

The St. Louis lodge of B'Nai Brith, a Jewish fraternal and benevolent organization, will initiate 1000 new members Sunday afternoon in Moolah temple, 3815 McPherson avenue. As the result of a membership campaign the lodge has gained 1100 members in less than a year, making its total membership more than double what it was before the campaign was started.

A picked degree team will perform the secret rites of the order. After the initiation there will be a banquet at which 2000 men are expected. Dr. Leon Harrison will deliver an address on "The Obligations and Duties of the American Jew."

B'Nai Brith has contributed largely in the past to Jews suffering anywhere in the world from any great calamity, such as the Galveston flood, the San Francisco earthquake and fire. At present it is sending money to alleviate the sufferings of Jews in the European war zones.

MEXICANS TO BE PUNISHED

Gen. Carranza Will Investigate Killing of Americans at Matamoros.

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, Oct. 6.—Orders have been issued by Gen. Carranza for a thorough investigation into the alleged shooting of American soldiers near Matamoros, and assurances have been given to John Belt, acting special agent of the State Department, that in the event of guilt being established those responsible will be severely punished.

This was the substance of a reply given to representations of the United States, made through Special Agent Belt Saturday. Gen. Carranza's reply was couched in friendly terms and indicated surprise as to the picture of conditions on the border that had been presented. He said every effort had been made to maintain friendly relations between the American and Mexican people, and that such a policy would be continued.

CHICAGO'S SUNDAY LID WON'T EXTEND TO EAST ST. LOUIS

Officials Take View That People Have Indicated They Want Open Saloons.

The announcement that Chicago's Mayor has ordered enforcement of the State law requiring saloons to close on Sunday has called attention once more to the extraordinary manner in which the State law has been openly and systematically violated in East St. Louis for 70 years. Mayor Mollman said this morning that he would not consider the matter of Sunday closing in East St. Louis before the first of the year.

The State closing law was enacted in 1845 and provides that "no tippling house shall be open" on Sunday, interpreting the Sabbath as being from midnight to midnight. It provides a maximum penalty of $200 or six months' imprisonment for violation.

The revised code of East St. Louis, adopted in 1908, has a similar provision, with a penalty of a fine of from $5 to $50. Either the State or city officials can bring action under the State law.

Won't Interfere at Present.

Mayor Mollman said the East Side liquor men paid saloon licenses under an existing custom which permitted them to keep their places open on Sunday. He declared he did not intend to interfere at present.

He denied a report that he had made a verbal promise to the saloon men that he would not molest them for violating the Sunday lid and denied that he had said the brewers, in return, advanced money to pay the city's debts and restore its credit. He declared that the only license fees paid in advance were collected by his predecessor, Mayor Chamberlain, and that the $45,000 so collected was expended before Chamberlain relinquished office.

Thinks People Don't Want Lid.

City Attorney Joseph McGlynn, when asked what his department intended to do in the matter, replied that "he had no feeling on the subject." He said he would prosecute cases in which arrests were made, but declared he believed a majority of the people in East St. Louis did not want a Sunday lid.

Assistant State's Attorney Daniel Webb said it was the policy of his office to work in harmony with the city administration and that it would not take action of its own motion unless there were some outrage against "moral decency," in a case where a majority of the community chose to disregard a Sunday closing statute.

The assistant State's Attorney was asked under what interpretation of law a majority of a community could decide to disregard a State law.

Ready to Assist Mayor.

"If every man, woman and child in the community voted to set aside a State law," he said, "they could not lawfully abate it the slightest bit. The position our office takes in the East St. Louis matter is that the Mayor should be allowed to work out the problem himself and we stand ready to assist him at any time he calls upon us."

In response to a telegram from the Post-Dispatch, Attorney-General Lucey of Illinois declared there was no question that the State law was applicable to East St. Louis. He said the State's Attorney and his own office had power to act, but that his office acted in such cases only upon an insistent demand from a community where the officials refused to act.

WATCHMAN SHOOTS STRIKER; SAYS HE ATTACKED HIM

Boilermaker Seriously Wounded at Plant of John O'Brien Company at 2:40 A. M.

Albert Savignac, boiler maker, 32 years old, of 1434 North Twelfth street, was shot in the abdomen at 2:40 o'clock this morning by John Tobin, a private watchman, employed at the John O'Brien Boiler Works, Eleventh and Mullanphy streets. He was taken to the city hospital in a critical condition.

Tobin told the police that he and Daniel Bagley, another watchman at the works, were making their rounds when Savignac attacked Bagley with an open knife. He said that when he went to the assistance of Bagley, Savignac made a lunge at him and that he shot in self-defense.

Jewell Germain, a huckster, 36 years old, of 1712 North Fourteenth street, who was with Savignac, was arrested as a witness. He said that he knew of no previous trouble between his companion and the watchmen and that he did not see Savignac draw a knife. Bagley gave the police a knife which he said he had taken from Savignac's hand after the shooting.

The watchmen told the police that there had been some labor trouble at the boiler works and that Savignac was a striker.

GRAY HAIR TURNS ITS NATURAL DARK COLOR AFTER APPLYING SAGE TEA

When Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens So Beautifully that Nobody Can Tell; Takes Off Dandruff.

Almost every one knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and luster to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also cures dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drug store for the ready-to-use product—called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy"—you will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Some druggists make their own, but it's usually too sticky, so insist upon getting "Wyeth's," which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is the best remedy for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and to stop falling hair.

Folks like "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur" because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly, says a well-known downtown druggist. You dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This requires but a few moments. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two is restored to its natural color and looks even more beautiful and glossy than ever.—ADV.

PURE MILK FUND STILL $232 SHORT OF $5000 MARK

Supply to Many Babies Must Be Continued to Keep Them on Road to Health.

CONTRIBUTIONS.

Previously acknowledged ... $4707 85

The Post-Dispatch is not privileged to acknowledge today further contributions to the Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund, and it probably will be denied this pleasure during the remainder of the season in any near approach to the volume characterizing the school vacation period of the campaign, when daily returns from the army of youthful supporters of the cause of the poor babies are imposing.

The total of $5000 which it has from the first been the hope to accumulate, and thus set a high mark at which to aim in 1916, is unlikely to be attained, according to present information and conditions. But there is not the disappointment that usually attends falling short of earlier ambition, for the deficiency is today only $232.15, which probably will be reduced somewhat before the formal close of the undertaking until the winter is past.

The bill of the St. Louis Pure Milk Commission for September is $454.60. This is slightly below that for August, the previous work of the organization having put the tenement district infants in finer physical condition to endure the hot spells of last month. It is this cumulative improvement that makes the ministrations of the Pure Milk Commission, begun at the outset of the warm weather, effective in holding down infant mortality.

There remains a lengthy list of homes in which the health-giving milk is a necessity if the good heretofore accomplished is not to fail in its purpose, for babes at present thriving upon the diet are not to be denied it without return of the perils in force until the ills besetting them are entirely routed. A shortage of even the comparatively trifling sum named may occasion some danger of this nature and hence the earnestness of the Post-Dispatch in urging completion of the $5000 aggregate.

Advertising Club to Elect Officers on Oct. 28.

The Advertising Club of St. Louis has adopted a new method for the election of officers, to be held Oct. 28. Instead of having a "hot campaign" on, as was the case last year, the nominating committee has selected two men to run for each office and members may choose one of the two by ballot. The candidates are as follows:

For president, M. P. Linn and H. M. Morgan; for vice presidents, of which there are three, George Walker, J. Ferd. Oberwinder, L. Will Shelly, Edward Mead, Dr. L. D. Le Gear and D. R. Williams; for secretary, Paul Hutchinson and George E. Gayou; for treasurer, M. E. Holderness and Arthur Sherwood.

Express Company Employe Found Unconscious on Sidewalk at 4:30 A. M.

John Whorley, 29 years old, of 4043 Lexington avenue, an employe of the Jamison Express Co., Third and Elm streets, was found unconscious on the sidewalk at Natural Bridge and Fair avenues at 4:30 o'clock this morning. He was taken to the city hospital, suffering from a deep cut over the right eye and probably a fracture of the skull.

When revived Whorley refused to give the police any information about himself further than that he was on his way to work when he lost consciousness.

She Says Simple Laxative Is Better Than Castor Oil

Case of Chronic Constipation Yields to Mild Laxative Compound.

MRS. MARY AUSTIN

Writing from The House of the Good Shepherd, at Sunnyside Av. and 50th St., Seattle, where she is the guest of her life-long friend the Reverend Mother, Mrs. Mary Austin, widow of a wealthy San Franciscan, who lost everything in the fire of 1906, says she experienced speedy relief from the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and that she found this gentle, pleasant-tasting laxative more effective than several doses of castor oil.

The active principles of certain laxative herbs are combined in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to act on the eliminative organs in an easy, natural way, without griping or other discomfort. Its freedom from opiate or narcotic drug of every description, combined with its gentle action and positive effect, make it the ideal laxative for family use. Druggists everywhere sell it for fifty cents a bottle.

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin should be in every home for use when the occasion arises. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 454 Washington St. Monticello Ill.

BULGARIANS IN TRI-CITIES EAGER TO JOIN COLORS

Newspaper Office Besieged for Information After Notice to Reservists Is Published.

Hundreds of Bulgarians employed in the tri-cities have been besieging the offices of Naroden Glas, a Bulgarian newspaper at Granite City, for information about the war situation in the Balkans. The editor, Evan Stechanoff, told a Post-Dispatch reporter today that practically every one of them was eager for their country to take up arms against Servia and Greece.

There are about 1500 Bulgarians in the tri-cities, most of them living in what is known as Hungary Hollow, Granite City. Stechanoff said fully a third of these are reservists subject to first call for military service and many of them are veterans of the last two Balkan wars. All of the reservists are expected to respond to the first call to arms.

A notice published in the Naroden Glas yesterday warns all reservists to be ready to return to Bulgaria. It was in the form of an edict from the legation at Washington and said:

"The royal legation in Washington hereby notifies all reservists, officers, noncommissioned officers and soldiers now located in the United States, that passage to Bulgaria is open through Colon, Rotterdam, and German and Austrian ports. The royal legation offers reservists transportation through the above route at their own expense at the earliest possible moment. Ships will leave each Tuesday."

The notice caused the greatest excitement among his compatriots, Setchanoff said. The statement as to the route to be used was understood by them to mean that their country is in alliance with Germany and Austria.

The editor declared that he and others have been collecting funds and that practically all the Bulgarians in the settlement would respond to the call, reservists first and second call men later. He said he believed only a few of his countrymen would remain in America once they realized there was a chance to fight Greece and Servia, their bitterest foes since those nations in the war of 1913 wrested from Bulgaria much that she had gained in the war against Turkey.

Although most of the men in the Tri-cities district are regularly employed in the factories and have their families with them, Setchanoff declared they will be glad to leave everything and go back home to fight.

100 MEN ARRESTED IN PARADE CROWDS AS PICKPOCKETS

Deputy Constable and Waitress Among Those Held—Visitor Just Married Loses Certificate.

Among those arrested in the Veiled Prophet parade crowds suspected of picking pockets, last night, was a woman who said she was Miss Louise Harris, 30 years old, a waitress, of 2735 North Spring avenue.

She was at Sixth street and Washington avenue about 8:30 o'clock, when Samuel Farris of Jeffersonville, Ill., seized her hand and accused her of having taken a purse and $44 from his hip pocket. She declared she was innocent and invited a search. She did not have the purse or money when policemen reached her.

John McCarthy, 29 years old, a deputy Constable, living at 1627 Franklin avenue, was one of a hundred men arrested in the downtown crowds by detectives who were searching for pickpockets.

Among the victims of pickpockets were Albert Jornes of Protection, Kan., who lost $15 in cash and a check for $25; William Ripley, 4423 Penrose street, $15; Robert C. Asher, 1313 Temple place, $25 scarf pin.

Dell Thompson and Mattie Johnson of Winslow, Ind., were married by Justice Slater in the afternoon and at night Thompson was robbed of his marriage certificate while he and his bride were on a Market car.

BANKS' USURIOUS CHARGES TOLD OF BY COMPTROLLER

John Skelton Williams, Addressing Kentucky Bankers at Frankfort, Says 1020 Institutions Admitted Demanding an Average of 10 Per Cent or More on Loans

WOMAN PAID $1 TO GET $3.50 FOR WEEK

He Declares Reports in Office From Wheat and Cotton Sections Are Like Stories of Oppression in Russia.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Oct. 6.—John Skelton Williams, Comptroller of the Currency, defended today before the Kentucky Bankers' Association his efforts to force national banks to reduce their interest charges to borrowers during the days of stress in the financial and business world which followed the outbreak of the European war.

Of the 7615 national banks in the country, Williams declared, 1020 have sent in detailed reports showing that they have received an average of 10 per cent or more on loans. He cited, without giving names, instances in which the rate ran up to 40, 60 and 1000 per cent. In one case—that of a woman who borrowed $3.50 for six days—he said the bank charged $1, or 2400 per cent.

"These banks," said Williams, "are authorized by the Government. To an extent, at least, they have behind them the sanction, the prestige and the protection of the great American nation—and lending $3.50 for six days to a washerwoman or a laborer's or a farmer's wife, at 2400 per cent.

"As somebody once said of druggists' profits on powdered chalk, it gets out of the range of percentage into larceny from the person. Three hundred per cent will make anarchists silently, faster than all the I. W. W. apostles who can bawl. When national banks chartered by the Government disappoint and deprive toil of its just reward, and stimulate resentment, we have prepared and fertilized the soil for a fearful crop of disaster. We cannot persuade ourselves or make others believe that it is right or safe for banks to charge 100 per cent a year, while the producing people about them are kept poor. I know of such banks. I do not intend to stand for them if I can help it. The country will not stand for them."

Williams said he invited Senate investigation of his actions on the conduct of his office.

Asks for Co-Operation.

A majority of the national banks "are now conducting their business on a high and honorable plane and are charging fair and reasonable rates on loans," Williams said. He predicted that a well-thought out, carefully constructed, conservative system of rural credits for the development of agriculture would come presently and said that in the meantime he expected to do all possible to protect borrowers of all grades against rapacity. He asked the cooperation of all banks further to improve conditions.

"These banks know," he said, "and you and I know, that such rates are disreputable and without excuse, whatever the security for the loans may be. The bank that lends at such rates is destroying its constituency and is at the same time committing slow but sure suicide. Some reports from the South and West, the Northwest and the Southwest, especially in the wheat and cotton sections of the Southwest, are blood-curdling. They are like stories from darkest Russia, of the oppressions inflicted upon the peasantry. The reports received at the Comptroller's office show indisputably that in some states and sections borrowers and especially small borrowers, have been and are being subjected to extortions and exactions which the average man would consider impossible in this enlightened age."

Williams devoted much of his time to answering criticisms of his action in regard to lower interest rates by Senator Weeks of Massachusetts, in a recent speech before Michigan bankers. He declared that Senator Weeks had said that the banker himself was the man to determine interest rates, and in reply read a list of banks which showed an average rate of more than 10 per cent. It included two banks in Illinois, six in Minnesota, two in Missouri, 23 in Georgia, six in Florda, 21 in Alabama, two in Louisiana, 315 in Texas, 17 in Arkansas, three in Tennessee, 90 in North Dakota, 25 in South Dakota, 18 in Nebraska, five in Kansas, 38 in Montana, 14 in Wyoming, 37 in Colorado, 25 in New Mexico, 300 in Oklahoma, 12 in Washington, 10 in Oregon, 13 in California, two in Utah, one in Nevada and 33 in Idaho.

In one Southwestern state, said Mr. Williams, 131 banks reported that they charged a maximum rate of interest from 15 to 24 per cent, 67 banks a maximum between 25 and 60 per cent, 22 banks a maximum between 60 per cent and 100 per cent, 18 between 100 and 200 per cent, and eight between 200 and 2000 per cent.

"Most of these disgraceful rates," said the Comptroller, "were for comparatively small loans." The legal rate in the State, he pointed out, was 6 per cent and the maximum authorized by special contract, 10 per cent.

Williams reviewed the financial situation through the first year of the European war. He said that this country had not only avoided a financial crash, but had wiped out the floating debt of $350,000,000 due to Europe Jan. 1, 1915, and absorbed between $750,000,000 and $1,000,000,000 of American securities that were held abroad, and now is in condition to help finance the whole world at the conclusion of the war.

He presented as a fact that the United States was now in position to buy back the American securities held in foreign lands, if they should be offered, but that "Europe has come to realize that America is the most stable country on earth" and that investors there cling to American securities as likely to be the best real values, "as the American dollar has become the world's standard of value because it commands the world's faith."

Williams cautioned his hearers that the time may be near when this nation will need its resources and "when even our unprecedented and unequaled strength will be taxed."

"At the close of this great war," he said, "it will be our task to finance the world. We may be the one affluent Power. The strain on us will be enormous. We may have to bear, too, the burden of providing for our own defense. We have learned from observation and from comparison forced upon us how inadequately prepared we are. We are asleep among hungry and armed nations in a home crowded with gold and food, with our doors wide open and not even a gun on the premises. We will have to take care of ourselves and of countries, Governments and peoples abroad. The one sure foundation, not only of our financial and business structure, but for the government and civilization itself, for safety in war and growth in peace, is in the prosperity and contentment of the individual.

That Weak Back

accompanied by pain here or there—extreme nervousness—sleeplessness—may be faint spells—or spasms—all are signals of distress for a woman. She may be growing from girlhood into womanhood—passing from womanhood to motherhood—or suffering from an ailment that oftimes leaves wrecks of women. At such times women should take a tonic and nervine prescribed for just such cases by a physician of vast experience in the diseases of women.

DR. PIERCE'S

has successfully treated more cases in past forty years than any other known remedy. It can now be had in sugar-coated, tablet form as well as in the liquid. Sold by medicine dealers or trial box by mail on receipt of 50 cents in stamps.

Miss Elizabeth Lordahl of Berkeley, Cal., in a recent letter to Dr. Pierce, said: "I was completely broken down in health. I was aching and had pains all over my body, and was so nervous that I could scream if anyone talked to me, but I had the good fortune to meet a nurse who had been cured by Dr. Pierce's Prescription. I have never had an occasion to consult a physician since—am in excellent health."

Enjoy life! Remove the liver poison and other injurious matter which is keeping your head dizzy, your tongue coated, breath offensive, and stomach sour. Don't stay bilious, sick, headachy, constipated and full of cold. Why don't you get a box of Cascarets from the drug store and eat one or two tonight and enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced. You will wake up feeling fit and fine. Cascarets never gripe or sicken like salts, pills and calomel. They act so gently that you hardly realize you have taken a cathartic. Mothers should give cross, sick, bilious or feverish children a whole cascaret any time—they act thoroughly and are harmless.—ADV.

PRISON SYSTEM IS CRITICISED IN MINORITY REPORT

Republican Members of Investigating Committee Confirm Charges That Warden Receives $3 a Day for Board of Six Convict Servants.

SON GETS FREE RENT FOR PRISON STORE

Grocery Company That Contributed to Democratic Campaign Fund Said to Have Furnished $90,000 Supplies Without Bids.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 6.—A minority report of the two Republican members of the committee appointed by the last Legislature to investigate conditions in the Missouri Penitentiary and in State offices, has been prepared, reiterating the criticisms made by a firm of expert accountants and published exclusively in the Post-Dispatch May 28. The minority report was forecast in the Post-Dispatch Sept. 13.

The minority members, Representatives Almon Ing of Poplar Bluff and Frank M. Harr of Kahokia, refused to sign a majority report, prepared by Representatives Frank H. Farris of Rolla, Rich H. Correll of Clark and Noah W. Simpson of LaBelle, in so far as it referred to the penitentiary and to the office of State Auditor Gordon. The minority members signed the report of the investigation of the offices of Secretary of State Roach, Treasurer Deal and former Superintendent of Insurance Revelle.

The majority report, it has become known, will seek to "whitewash" all officials, but will contain criticisms of the laws governing the insurance department. No grounds for criticism of Secretary of State Roach or Treasurer Deal were found by any members of the committee.

Charges Against Warden.

The committee employed a firm of expert accountants to examine the books of all departments. The findings of the accountants, which are confirmed by the minority report, included these charges:

That Warden McClung receives $3 a day for board of six convict servants, and that there is no law authorizing such payment.

That such payment is made by delicacies and supplies from the prison commissary, conducted by Carl McClung, a son of the Warden, who also conducts a private store in the prison, having free rent, free light and free labor.

That the Goddard Grocery Co., which was a large contributor to the last Democratic campaign fund, furnished the prison with a total of $90,000 of supplies in two years without bids.

That meat contracts have been awarded to Armour & Co., when lower bids were made by other packing companies.

That traveling expenses of the Warden and other officers seemed to be too high.

That, although the plumbing supplies for a new cell building were furnished by the Rumsey Manufacturing Co., of which Col. Horace S. Rumsey of Gov. Major's personal staff is a member, there is no contract with the company.

There were other minor criticisms.

The minority report on the State Auditor's office reiterated charges contained in the accountants' report, which was published in the Post-Dispatch June 15. These were:

That Mrs. Oma Gordon, wife of the State Auditor, was employed as a clerk at a salary of $1800 a year, but that she seldom visited the office.

That traveling expenses of the Auditor and employes seemed high.

That Olga Meals, a clerk in the office, at a salary of $1800 a year, also received $600 a year as clerk of the State Board of Equalization.

Entire Services Due State.

The minority members said in their report that they believed an $1800 clerk should devote his entire time to his duties.

Referring to the employment of Mrs. Gordon, the minority report stated:

"It is the opinion of the minority members of the committee that Mr. Gordon is exhibiting the viciousness of nepotism as practiced in the State Capitol in its worst form."

The majority report of the committee probably will be filed with Gov. Major within a few days. Representative Frank H. Farris, chairman of the committee, said that it is almost completed.

The committee is divided along partisan lines, and the spirit of partisanship is reflected in its actions. The Democratic members made no searching investigation and the majority report will excuse the actions of the officials, all of whom are Democrats.

Representative Ing of the minority is a candidate for the Republican nomination for Attorney-General. In the minority report he brought out only the criticisms found by the expert accountants. When the committee hearings were in progress he made little effort to inquire more deeply into the official matters than did Representative Farris of the majority.

HUNDREDS VISIT AUTO SHOW AFTER PROPHET'S PARADE

About 2000 Go to Forest Park Highlands Despite Counter Attractions.

Despite the counter attraction of the Veiled Prophet's parade and ball, about 2000 St. Louisans and visitors to the city attended the Automobile Show at Forest Park Highlands last night. Many hurried ther after seeing the parade.

Those who went to the show had even a better opportunity than on the opening night to inspect the cars on exhibition and to ask questions about them, as the exhibit spaces were not so crowded.

There has been much speculation since the advent of the multiple-cylinder cars—"eights" and "twelves"—as to the trend of manufacturers in the matter of cylinder construction. A canvass of the automobile show was made by a Post Dispatch reporter and interesting figures obtained. There are at the automobile show 17 exhibitors showing six-cylinder cars exclusively. There are nine showing only four-cylinder cars, 13 are exhibiting both six and four cylinders and three are showing, four, six and eight cylinder cars. Three are showing eights only and one is showing sixes and twelves. The summary is that 25 exhibitors are showing four-cylinder cars, 33 are showing six-cylinder cars and six are showing eight-cylinder cars.

Figures from the Automobile Chamber of Commerce indicate that there will be about 750,000 four-cylinder cars built in the United States this year. Among the largest manufacturers of fours, all of whom are represented by exhibits at the St. Louis Automobile Show, are the Ford, Overland, Maxwell, Studebaker, Chevrolet, Dodge, Reo, Allen, Oldsmobile, Hupp, Case and Kissel.

George P. Dorris, vice-president of the Dorris Motor Car Co., predicted that eventually the public favor will return to the four-cylinder car.

The Grand Motor Car Co., which handles the Auburn Six, is showing for the first time the Auburn 6-40 7-passenger car, which has 120-inch wheelbase. The car is finished in black with red wheels. It sells for $1375. The five-passenger six touring car which sells for $1050 is also shown. A. O. Heisel, president of this company, sold a 6-40 Tuesday night to William Hubele of 1224 Marsans avenue and Wednesday closed an agency contract for 10 cars with the Weaver Automobile Co. of Herrin, Ill., who drove a demonstrator home.

New Series Saxon Line.

The new series Saxon line, consisting of a roadster and touring car, is being demonstrated at the show by the Frye Motor Car Co., which is also exhibiting the Paige line. A Paige 46 was delivered last evening to Peter Goeddel. S. W. Kidd, district manager of the Paige company, is assisting in the display.

A novel exhibit is the Hollier eight-cylinder car, which sells at $985, in the space of the Johnson Automobile Co. The metal hood has been replaced by a glass hood, which shows the twin construction of the motor in a very interesting way. The Johnson Automobile Co. is also showing for the first time the new Empire six-cylinder car.

The Meyer Motor Car Co. has on display the new Apperson eight-cylinder car. The company is also showing the Apperson six, "Jack-Rabbit." A. H. Meyer, president of the company, closed a contract last evening for the Apperson line for the entire State of Arkansas with J. E. Cox of Little Rock.

The Velie Automobile Co. is being assisted at the automobile show by E. F. Flannigan, from the Velie factory. The Velie 40, the Velie "Biltwel Six," a five-passenger car, and the Biltwel Six, seven-passenger car, a five-passenger sedan, are in the exhibit. The sedan has a novel seating arrangement. The seat revolves so that the extra passenger may face either way and disappears when folded down. A Velie 6-40 was sold Tuesday night to J. Spingate of Maplewood.

The Dodge, with sedan top, is the feature of the display of the Tate-Gillham Motor Car Co. The Dodge roadster and touring car also are shown, as is an open chassis.

The Haynes exhibit at the automobile show is distinctly Irish. Manager J. E. Newell in describing it says that the predominant colors on three of the Haynes cars are green, Irish green and real Irish green. The roadster is in Shamrock green and the three seats are shamrock-shaped, the center seat being behind the two front seats. Six dealers from out of town were at the exhibit Tuesday afternoon. R. G. Gray, technical man from the Haynes factory, is lecturing on Haynes construction.

New Chandler Coupe on Exhibit.

The Lewis Automobile Co. received a new Chandler coupe, the first ever produced by the factory, by express Tuesday afternoon and installed it last night. It is a four-passenger car finished in gray whipcord. Other cars in the exhibit are two touring bodies and a limousine and the new convertible sedan.

The Scripps-Booth feature at the show is the new light coupe and a very handsome little car.

The Milburn Electric is another of the big companies which has made a reduction in the price of electric cars, the Milburn selling at $1485. The exhibit consists of a cushion-tired coupe and another coupe with pneumatic tires. Both are finished in gray whipcord.

The highest priced electric cars at the show are the Rauch & Lang, exhibited by the Leach, Brouster & Co. The Rauch & Lang has the streamline strip, giving the streamline effect to the body. One of the cars is finished with Coronation cloth and sells for $2850. Another has double control, royal blue body coupe with streamline stripe in lighter blue and wheels in light blue, and sells for $3050.

The Grant Motor Car Co. of Kansas City installed its exhibit yesterday. Two Grant touring cars selling at $795 are shown. C. E. Hathaway, manager of the company, will arrive today and while in St. Louis will arrange for representation here or open a branch office in the early spring.

The Kardell Motor Car Co. is showing for the first time the new Reo the Fifth, a four-cylinder car, and the Reo Six, both of which were rushed from the factory for the St. Louis show. The six has the new Belgian sheer-line type of stream-line body, the only exhibit of this kind at the show. They are also showing the Monroe roadster.

Only a Dream.

"Mortmain," the heart-rending drama now being exhibited at New Grand Central, is only a dream.

PHILIP ROEDER'S WILL FILED

One Son, Oliver, Gets No Bequest—Employe Given Share in Company.

The will of Philip Roeder, president of the Roeder Book and Stationery Co., filed for probate yesterday, cuts off one son, Oliver, without a bequest, although three shares of stock in the book company are left to his son, Erwin. Julius Muench, the attorney who drew the will, said he did not know why this action was taken, but assumed it was because sums of money had been advanced to Oliver by his father. The will gives no explanation of the matter.

The rest of the estate, estimated as worth $35,000 above all claims, is divided among four other children of the testator, one of whom, Philip Roeder Jr., died a month ago. He was to have received property at 1311-15 Carr street. Joseph W. Wood, an employe of the book company, is to get three shares of stock.

St. Louis Woman Suffers 15 Years

Mrs. Rosa Bennett Escapes Operation After Taking Wonderful Remedy.

Mrs. Rosa B. Bennett of 2606 Olive Street, St. Louis, Mo., was ill with stomach troubles for nearly fifteen years. She had a great deal of medical attention and took many treatments. She was advised to undergo an operation by one specialist.

Instead she took Mayr's Wonderful remedy and found swift relief. She wrote:

"I was a sufferer for about fifteen years and I tried everything. I doctored with different doctors and each one would give my trouble a different name. One said that I would never be any better until I was operated, on and another one said I had ulcers of the stomach. I could get no relief.

"I took Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. "Now I can't praise your medicine enough."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much of whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee—if not satisfactory money will be returned.—ADV.

HOW TO KEEP OUT WIND-DRIVEN RAIN BUILDERS' PROBLEM

Discussion Participated in by Painters and Decorators at Association Meeting.

How to prevent rain from beating through the walls of brick structures during severe storms was discussed yesterday at the meeting of the Building Industries Association. During the seven-inch rain and windstorm of Aug. 21-22, thousands of houses in St. Louis were damaged by the rain beating through the brick walls.

Expert builders, painters and decorators attended the meeting and participated in the discussion. It was suggested that, in Cleveland, hollow walls were constructed in some buildings, and had been found effective against heavy rains. The expense of a hollow wall is so great, it was agreed, that such a method of preventing storm damage in St. Louis would be impractical.

S. M. Lederer, president of the Pickel Stone Co., reported that he had caused an inspection to be made of 40,000 pieces of property in St. Louis, and that in every brick house inspected the water had been driven, not only through the plaster in the walls, but through the brick as well.

The decorators attending the meeting said that the houses damaged by the rain could not be redecorated until the walls had thoroughly dried. If redecorated too soon, they said, the new decoration would be ruined by the dampness. Thousands of walls have not yet dried sufficiently to permit redecoration.

The association discussed the proposed municipal bond issue. It favored an issue of $6,000,000 in bonds for River des Peres improvement; $4,000,000 for sewer improvements and extensions; $400,000 for a municipal farm; $200,000 for a central material plant; $1,000,000 for bridges and viaducts; $200,000 for a tuberculosis hospital; $750,000 for a municipal garbage plant; $100,000 for municipal stables, and $300,000 for the zoo.

It opposed a proposed bond issue of $2,600,000 for park extension and improvement; $250,000 for a pageant stage in Forest Park, and $1,000,000 for municipal docks. It went on record as favoring the appropriation of $1,300,000 to buy free factory sites for manufacturers establishing plants in St. Louis.

It Pays to Select Your Tenants.

In handling real estate nothing can take the place of care along this line.

The uncertain sort of tenant is easy to find. He is always answering the call of the window sign of "To Let." He is easy to please. Even a rather high rental does not frighten him away.

But the STAY-AND-PAY tenant is not so easy to secure. He is surer of what he wants. He does not take the first house or apartment or store that he finds. HE WATCHES AND ANSWERS "TO LET" ADS.

And to secure him for your tenant is a good day's work—a good week's work.

Property that is advertised adequately is rarely rented injudiciously.

The Post-Dispatch prints more of these "to-let" offers than its two nearest competitors.

BAKERS TELL WHY THEY OPPOSE BREAD-WRAPPING BILL

Measure Would Work Hardship on Small Concerns, Committee of Aldermen Is Advised.

Bakers and grocers appeared yesterday at a public hearing before the Public Welfare Committee of the Board of Aldermen and opposed the bills to compel the wrapping of bread and publication of its weight on labels.

Mrs. E. T. Senseney, representing the Consumers' League, urged the adoption of the bread-wrapping bill. Representatives of the largest bakeries said they now offer wrapped bread to those who prefer it and that less than 5 per cent of their customers will accept it. Wrappers, they said, make bread soggy if put on while it is being placed in delivery wagons, still warm. It was also said there are 600 small bakers who could not afford to buy bread-wrapping machines, which cost between $1800 and $2600 each.

Morris Freund led the opposition to the labeling bill. He said the weight of bread is regulated by the price of flour and that competition is keen enough in St. Louis to compel all bakers to give the maximum possible weight.

MAN BURNED BY GASOLINE SEPT. 21 DIES IN HOSPITAL

Laborer Said Woman Threw Oil on Him; She Says Stove Exploded While Being Filled.

Raymond Kovich, 28 years old, a laborer, died last night in the city hospital of burns suffered Sept. 21 in his home at 1412 Wash street.

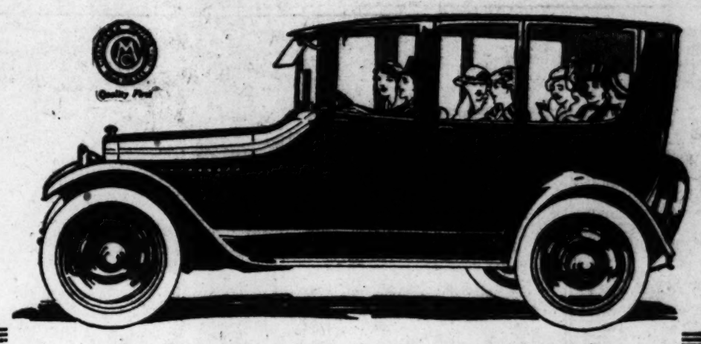

Although the police reported Kovich's injuries were due to an explosion of a gasoline stove, he told a Post-Dispatch reporter at the hospital on two occasions that Mrs. Minnie Schumacher, a negro, had thrown a cup of gasoline on him and had then set fire to his clothing. They had quarreled, he said. She was not arrested.

Mrs. Schumacher was burned about the hands and was in the hospital a few days. She denied his story and said his injuries were caused by an explosion when she attempted to fill the tank of the stove. An inquest will be held.

Chalmers 7-Passenger Palanquin

A Limousine for $350!

This startling statement is absolutely true in effect.

If you buy a Chalmers Six-40 seven-passenger touring car at $1350 (or own one now) you can get the famous Chalmers Palanquin closed car equipment for only $350 extra.

The Palanquin transforms the Six-40 seven-passenger body into a luxurious, artistic, aristocratic closed car. It affords at the price of one motor car all the service, style and comfort which heretofore have been made possible only by the purchase of a touring car and a limousine at a cost that ran into the thousands.

THE Palanquin (pal-an-keen') was the last word in a luxurious closed equipage used by Oriental nobility before motor cars came into general use.

We have adapted the comfort and luxury of the Palanquin to motor car service.

A Perfect Closed Car

This closed car equipment is so perfect, so much finer than anything else of its kind, that we have given it a new and distinctive name. It is not to be confused with the makeshifts you may have previously seen.

The Palanquin equipment is built with the Six-40 seven-passenger touring body and blends into it perfectly. It fits it exactly. Each touring body is specially arranged to take the Palanquin and when installed it is built right into the touring car.

Twin Bodies Designed Together

The Chalmers Six-40 seven-passenger touring body and the Palanquin were designed together to give maximum comfort to seven people in an open or closed car—at practically the price of one.

Chalmers designers have made it possible for every owner to enjoy closed car comfort, and have forever done away with the expense of purchasing and maintaining both a touring car and limousine.

The Palanquin can be quickly put on or taken off in your own garage without the expense of a shop expert. The change is simple and easy, as both bodies are properly ironed so that anything but an exact fit is impossible.

When not in use it can be readily taken apart and placed in a small corner of your garage.

A Beautiful Creation

Chalmers designers have given an appealing beauty to the Palanquin. It is distinctive, aristocratic, luxurious. Blending perfectly, as it does, into the graceful lines of the Six-40 touring body, it presents a charm that pleases the most fastidious owner.

The wide windows are of heavy plate glass, curtained with substantial silk, and four of them may be opened if desired. Simply pressing a convenient switch, lights the whole interior so a newspaper may be easily read.

Plenty of Room

The interior is arranged to give seven adult passengers plenty of room, even when heavy wraps or coats are worn or carried. There is no rumpling of delicate attire.

The doors are unusually wide and swing out of the way, permitting easy entrance and exit without soiling the apparel. Both front seats are enclosed and the owner may drive with perfect comfort.

When only five passengers ride the extra seats may be folded in out of sight, allowing a generous amount of luggage to be carried.

Valuable Discovery in Complexion Beautifier

Because of its peculiar power of absorption, also because it serves every emollient purpose, ordinary mercolized wax is perhaps the most valuable complexion beautifier discovered within recent years. If one uses this she needs no toilet cream. Some use powder afterward, but this is not necessary. This rule for applying mercolized wax has been found very satisfactory: Wash the face with warm water, drying lightly. Before thoroughly dry, anoint the face with the wax, but don't rub it in. The favorite way is to use before retiring, allowing it to remain on all night and washing it off in the morning with warm water. All druggists have this wax in original one-ounce packages.

For the removal of a wrinkled or flabby condition there's nothing better than to bathe the face in a solution made by dissolving 1 ounce powdered saxolite in ½ pint witch hazel. Beneficial results are quickly noticeable.—ADV.

BECK BATTED FOR BECK AND CARDS LOST FIRST GAME

Stupid Work on the Part of Mr. Huggins Gives Rickey's Men an Edge.

SNYDER HAS AN OFF DAY

Cardinal Star Completely Outshone by Agnew, the "Fall Series Fiend."

By W. J. O'Connor

Here's a fair example of wasted effort as put forth yesterday by the Cardinals:

Eighth inning—Smith beat out a hit to Lavan. Betzel was safe on Wellman's wild throw to second, trying to force Smith. Dolan bunted perfectly, but something delayed Smith between second and third and he was forced, Agnew to Austin. Stupid running here, by a kid. Miller's walk filled the bases. Long singled through Austin, scoring Betzel. Then Beck, who hasn't been in a ball game for months, batted for Beck and popped to Howard. Snyder rolled to Austin. One run.

Two hits, an egregious error and a walk netted Hug's wasteful vassals one run. That typifies the potency of the Cardinal attack all season. That's why they're only a game or so removed from last place.

Get Up, Hug, and Explain.

It is incidental that the Cards lost, 3—2. They were out-played, out-generaled and out-gamed. But the bulk of the blame rests nowhere but on Hug's thin shoulders.

His strategy in allowing Beck to bat in the eighth, when Zinn had proved that he couldn't see Wellman's stuff with a spyglass, was the quintessence of managerial folly. The tieing run then was on third, to score on a long fly. A hit would have busted up the old box score.

In the next inning, Hug sent Roche up for Doak, and Jack lammed a liner to center that Walker made a leaping catch of, cutting off a sure triple. That drive would have tied the score in the eighth and possibly have won, as Walker was playing a deeper field in the ninth than he did in the eighth. He was in, in the penultimate round to cut off a run at the plate on any fly within throwing distance.

Browns Have Speed.

However, there's no reason to detract from the beauty of the Browns' attack. They stampeded on the bases and in all swiped four hassocks on Messrs. Snyder and Doak. Two of them should be charged to Doak, who allowed the enemy long leads; two to Snyder, who threw the ball in the dirt under the strain of trying to outshine Agnew.

How impossible! The fall series is promoted annually for the benefit of Mr. Agnew. He always stands out like the kohinoor among emeralds. He can't go wrong because it's always his turn to star.

His play on Smith in the eighth was almost a boner. Dolan's bunt was a high bounding ball that almost looked like a hit. It would have rolled foul if left alone, but Agnew grabbed it and, in a panic, heaved to Austin.

Smith should have been camped on third. He had a week to get there and would have been safe had he hit the dirt. But the youngster lost his bearings completely and came stumbling into the bag a few minutes after the ball reached there. Nobody was more surprised than Austin when the out was registered. The play really wasn't on.

Smith's Newfangled Slide.

Earlier in the game Smith cost the Cards another run. He was on first in the fourth when Betzel's drive to left got away from Shotton and rolled to the fence. It went to the spot generally recognized as Tommy Long's groove for triples.

Smith scooted around and began to slide shortly after he passed third. Pratt's relay to Agnew was low and Agnew muffed the ball with perfect midseason precision. However, there lay Smith, five feet from home, the force of his premature slide spent and he wallowing like a walrus in the Sahara. Agnew effaced him easily. Strike-outs by Dolan and Miller left Betzel to perish on third base.

There was something smart about the Browns' attack. Rickey had his men running, and it was speed on the bases that won. Shotton's steal in the first frame availed nothing, as Howard, Sisler and Pratt fanned, but there was a run in the third as the result of a theft.

Walker Scores Pratt.

Two were gone when Pratt singled. He bolted for second and was safe. Walker then slipped a single through Doak and Pratt high-tailed for home. Walker stole second, but Austin fanned.

Shotton's single, another by Howard, a sacrifice and Pratt's squeeze bunt yielded the second run in the fifth, while the winning marker was stolen deliberately in the seventh. Shotton got a life on Hornsby's boot. He went all the way to third on Howard's sacrifice, Beck to Miller, some happy hiking. Sisler's grounder was booted by Miller, and Shotton counted. That was all, but enough.

The Cards floundered around like they always have done under a strain, especially in the memorable Boston series of 1914. If Hugh Fullerton ever put his numerical merit test to work on Mr. Huggins we'd hate to read the result. Especially that part which comes under the heading, "Value to His Team."

Tobin to Oppose Giants.

Johnny Tobin of the local Federal League club, "Lefty" Leifield of the St. Paul team and Jule Ens, a shortstop from the Texas League, have been signed by Johnny Brock to re-enforce his Alpen Brau team for its game with the St. Louis (colored) Giants at Brock Field, Sunday. Brock hopes to stop the Giants' winning streak with this array.

ERTLE TO BATTLE JIMMY PAPPAS AT COLISEUM, OCT. 12

St. Paul Bantam, Who Won From Champion on Foul, Has Good Reputation.

Johnny Ertle, the St. Paul bantamweight boxer, who arrived in St. Louis Monday morning fresh from a victory over bantamweight champion "Kid" Williams, the latter losing on a foul, held a conference yesterday afternoon with Tommy Sullivan of the Future City Athletic Club, as a result of which a match was arranged between Ertle and Jimmy Pappas, the Atlanta (Ga.) Greek, who boxed Jimmy Murray of Brooklyn an eight-round draw here Sept. 14. The bout will take place on next Tuesday night at the Coliseum, under the auspices of the Future City A. C.

The weight agreement calls for 115 pouds at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of Oct. 12. Each of the boxers posted $100 guaranteeing weight and appearance, while Tommy Sullivan posted a like amount as a guarantee that the club would fulfill its part of the contract. Benny Mannion of South St. Louis was named as custodian of amounts posted.

Ertle will do his training at the Business Men's Gymnasium, while Pappas will do his at the Future City A. C. Both boxers announced that they would begin work today.

As a preliminary to the match between Pappas and Ertle, Sullivan expects to arrange a match between Harry Kabakoff and Jimmy Murphy. Kabakoff is the youngster who recently graduated from the amateur ranks at the Columbian A. C. and has been doing such sensational work since then as a professional, while Murphy is the bantamweight pride of the South Broadway A. C.

Charles Ellis of Pittsburg won from James Lamothe of Cincinnati, at Pittsburg, 50 to 13, in 53 innings.

R. S. Hascall, representing Milwaukee, nosed out William Kalthoff of Cincinnati in a league match at Cincinnati. The score was 50 to 48.

Hugh Heal, the Toledo player, defeated George Felton of Boston, 50 to 46, at Boston.

SPORT SALAD

BY L. C. DAVIS.

Father William.

"YOU are old, Father William," the young man said,
"And your hair has become very white;
Yet every blamed thing you have carefully read
In regard to the world's series fight."

"Very true, very true," said the wretched old man,
"I'm ninety years old to the day;
But I used to play marbles with Paddy Moran,
And I hope he'll win out in the fray."

"You are old, Father William," continued the youth,
"But don't try to stuff me like that;
A man of your years should adhere to the truth—
You are surely much older than Pat."

"In the days of my youth," Father William replied,
"With Pat I played hookey from school;
Full many a time have we gleefully hied
For a plunge in the old swimming pool."

"Come off, Father William," the young man said,
"You are trying it on pretty strong;
Though Patrick may have some gray hairs in his head,
You've certainly got him in wrong."

"Not at all," said the sage, as he polished his specs,
"Together we both were brought up;
And Patsy Moran was a very old man
When Heck was a wee little pup!"

Foolish Question No. 9,999,999.

Well, who's going to win the world's series?

The Browns drew first blood in the fall festivities.

The second hearing in the case of Sam Agnew vs. Cardinals will come up at Sportsman's Park today. George Sisler for Pltf; Leon Ames for Deft.

See the Colonel.

WALTER CAMP addressed the Business Men's League today. His subject was: "What Shall We Do With Our Sons?" Well, there are lots of openings on the Browns. In fact, we might say there are some glaring openings.

We had a chat with our old friend the Veiled Prophet, at the ball last evening. The old gentleman hinted that he thought the annual parade given in his honor had kind of outlived its usefulness and that the money could be spent to a better advantage in boxing up the River des Peres and completing the free bridge.

New Stuff.

Manager Fielder Jones of the St. Louis Feds recently pulled one of the most unique plays ever attempted in baseball. He offered to return part of his salary to the management. There's no danger of any of the other managers stealing his stuff on this proposition.

MANAGER MORAN held a conference with his players yesterday afternoon and told them what he knew about the Red Sox. It took him about two minutes.

A Narrow Margin.

The Whales won the championship of the Federal League by a nose. And in the matter of noses be it known that the whale isn't a bit like a shark.

It is now said that the Philadelphia fans are worrying about the weather. Give us a pennant and we'll take a chance on the weather any old time.

President Wilson will be the guest of honor at Saturday's game. The management has kindly consented to let the President come in free of duty. Baseball is a necessity.

Speculation on the probable outcome of the world's series is purely a matter of guess work and one guess is as good as the other. But we must say that right now it looks as though the manager of the next world's champions will be an Irishman.

The Veiled Prophet explained to us that, after thinking the matter over, he decided it were better to not tip off the winner of the world's series, as it might encourage gambling on sure things, which is very unsportsmanlike

MIDDIES IMPROVE AFTER SKAKE-UP OF BACKFIELD

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 6.—With several material changes in the make-up of the team, the naval academy eleven had a fast and encouraging practice Tuesday afternoon. After a long signal drill and practice in details of the game a sharp practice was held against the scrubs.

The most notable change was in placing Orr, a slender fourth-class man at quarterback, while Captain Miles stayed out of the scrimmage during the afternoon. Orr ran the team with much judgment and speed, the proper men in the back field were Von Himbourg, Westphal and Vail. Vail dropped a nice infield goal from the 25-yard line for the first score and a little later a fine forward pass from Vail to Martin ersulted in a touchdown after the latter had run 50 yards.

TOURNEY LEADERS PAIRED TODAY IN CITY GOLF EVENT

Miss Semple and Mrs. Edwards Will Contest in Third Match Round at Westwood.

One of the most prominent contenders for the local women's golf championship is sure to suffer a fracture of title hopes, today. Miss Grace Semple, State champion, meets Mrs. A. N. Edwards, low medalist of the present tourney and also for the State qualifying round in the spring, in the feature contest.

The player that survives this match should figure in the final round. Both are playing good golf at present and yesterday won their matches with ease. Mrs. Edwards defeated Mrs. C. C. Pangman 7 up and 5 while Miss Semple won over Miss Sara Wiener, 8 and 7.

There also seem to be several other inviting matches but in each one of the two contestants appear to have a slight advantage of her opponent. Mrs. E. Lansing Ray, the present city titleholder, meets Mrs. Sterling Edmunds, while Mrs. Albert Terry will be forced to play Miss Laurie Kaiser, Mrs. L. P. Aloe, who tied for second low medal score on Monday, plays Mrs. F. E. Newberry.

Favorites All Win.

Yesterday's matches resulted in a manner that had been expected, not one upset being created. The matches were generally won by big scores. Four of the Class A contests, however, were not decided until the eighteenth green. Today's pairings:

Championships.

Mrs. A. N. Edwards vs. Miss Grace Semple.
Mrs. F. E. Newberry vs. Mrs. L. P. Aloe.

PRESIDENT DECLINES RED SOX BID

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—President Wilson yesterday declined an invitation extended by Representative Gallivan of Massachusetts to attend one of the world series baseball games in Boston.

The President already has promised to throw out the first ball in Saturday's game at Philadelphia, but he thinks he should not go as far away from Washington as Boston at this time.

WEIGHT MAY HURT KELLY'S CHANCES IN BOUT TONIGHT

St. Louis Welterweight Has Agreed to Make 138 Pounds at 3 O'clock.

REESE'S RECORD IS GOOD

In Bouts on the Pacific Coast He Has Beaten Some Good Boys.

By Harry S. Sharpe,
Referee for the Future City Athletic Club and the Post-Dispatch's Boxing Authority.

Leo Kelly of this city and Loiue Reese of Los Angeles, Cal., are to weigh in this afternoon at 3 o'clock for their eight-round bout at the Future City Athletic Club tonight. When the match was made it was agreed, according to announcement, that they would weigh in at 138 pounds, and it is to be hoped there will be no failure on the part of either to keep the agreement and avoid such an affair as developed last week when the "Zulu Kid" refused to enter the ring unless Jimmy Murray got on the scales, though the latter had done so at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and, at that hour, weighed 117¼ pounds. This match was made at 118 pounds, but the Zulu stood out at the last moment for ringside weight, while Murray claimed to have understood it to be at 3 p. m.

The significance of the weight agreed upon between Kelly and Reese lies in the ability or inability of Kelly to do it. If he can, and does, it is positive evidence that he has done some hard traning, though whether he can be strong at this weight is a question that may be answered tonight.

Is It Too Low for Kelly?

During the present year Kelly has been boxing at weights varying from 142 to 148 pounds at 3 p. m., though it has been claimed for him by his manager, Ed Smith, that he could make 138.

During the past summer Kelly boxed a 12-round bout with Jack Britton at 142 pounds, and it was reported that he weakened as the result of too low a weight. It may be, of course, that he endeavored to make it in too short a time.

The lowest Kelly has made for any of his local bouts during the past summer was when he made 145 pounds ringside for Harry Trendall on June 29. Kelly was defeated, and the writer recalls that Kelly said after the bout that the strain was too great and that he would not make that weight again for anyone. Now he is said to be making 138 pounds at 3 o'clock for Reese, and he cannot possibly take on more than three or four additional pounds before entering the ring.

Reese claims that 138 pounds at 3 o'clock is virtually catchweight for him, as he can easily box at 135.

If the men enter the ring in condition, this match should furnish some excitement. Both are of rugged build, slugging, rather than scientific boxers, and well able to assimilate punishment. Reese has been working out regularly since his arrival in the city, and has created a good impression among the local colony of boxers, some of whom are of the belief that he will prove too fast for Kelly.

The semi-final bout of eight rounds will be between Bud Clancy of this city and Jack Coridona of Kansas City. The men are middleweights.

GRANT SUPPLANTS BERRY AT QUARTER FOR PENN

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6.—The ragged exhibition previously given by the University of Pennsylvania's varsity and the fear that Pennsylvania State has a scout in the city caused the coaches to do the unheard-of thing of having secret practice on a Tuesday. It has never been the rule to close the gates of Franklin Field until the latter part of the season.

Most of the afternoon was devoted to a signal drill that took in a lot of new plays. So far this season the Penn team has not used a real trick play, but several of that kind were given the men today.

A half hour's offensive scrimmage with the scrubs showed a great improvement in the varsity over yesterday. Ray Grant was placed at quarterback by Coach Dickson, for the greater part of the scrimmage, in place of Berry, whose playing has fallen off lately. Grant is going better every day.

George Thomas, tackle of the Lafayette team for the past two years, appeared on the field today for the first time and played on the scrubs. Capt. Harris had more than he could handle in trying to keep him out of the plays.

St. Louis-Cincy Baseball Series Is Declared Off

Redland Amateurs Unable to Obtain a Park Suitable for Inter-City Series.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 6.—The proposed amateur series between St. Louis and Cincinnati, which was slated for next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, at Redland Field, was called off today, being impossible to get the park.

WRAY'S COLUMN.

Favorites Are in Disgrace

EVER since George Stallings' machine ran down and backed over the dope, last year, mangling "form" out of all semblance of recognition, there has been a growing distrust of "favorites." The eye opening given the "form" players in baseball when the Braves went over, brought to the notice of sport followers the fact that popular choices are, more often than not, bad picks.

The public has been practically unanimously wrong on all the big fights of the world, in the last 25 years; golf, tennis and baseball of the last few seasons have run true to form only occasionally; while what racing upsets have done to the public pocketbook is incalculable.

Red Sox the "Dope" Winners

THE lack of confidence in the "dope" this year is responsible, more than Alexander the Great, for the fact that few men accustomed to take a speculative interest in sporting results, are willing to properly support the palpable "form" of the coming world's series.

In normal times the Red Sox would be easily the betting favorites in the coming series, despite the mighty Alexander. Today they are held at even money, with little of that being risked.

Considering that the Red Sox form a mighty well-balanced outfit, that the club has a truly great pitching staff, that it won "out in the light" in a league believed to be stronger than the National and that the Phillies, for nine-tenths of the route, were hard pressed, even with the mighty Alex to help, to outfoot a weak-appearing bunch of contenders, the Red Sox should be 3 to 2 choices.

But Mr. Fan is now perfectly "hep" to the low percentage of actual winners among those that figure to "cop;" and he wisely stays off the proposition. It's the very best place to stay, Bo.

The Capacity Outlook

THERE is now every reason to believe that 21,000 persons will attend each series at Philadelphia and that 45,000 will be on hand at each of the first two Boston contests.

Revised figures in the hands of Old Man Dope indicate that the maximum "gate" at Philadelphia will run about $50,000, and at Boston $94,000 for each performance.

This would make the total receipts for the four games $288,000.

It would insure a maximum pot for the players of $155,520.

It would guarantee the owners $103,680 for four games only.

All of which should interest the loan agents of the allies.

The Real Lightweight Champion

FREDDIE WELSH, alias Fred Hall Thomas, of Pontypridd, Wales, until the recruiting sergeant came to that burg, may be the world's champion technically, but there's a strongly rooted belief that he will never get into the ring with Charles White, alias Anchovitz, the Chicago Yid.

The Windy City boy, with the name like a delicatessen relish, has been accumulating a record for hard hitting that stamps him as the probable winner of any contest over the derby route, against any scrapper in the world able to do 135 pounds.

This, of course, is presuming that White himself can still scale that low. He looked a big boy when he fought Callahan here, and he is probably creeping out of the lightweight division. At that, he is no further outside the American pale then is Freddie Welsh, who won his title at the English, not the American weight.

Another Old-Timer "Done"

Last night White added to his recent string of knockout victories when he stopped that good trial horse, Matty Baldwin, the first time that hero of 250 battles was ever kayoed.

Baldwin is growing passe, it is true; but he has been a great little scrapper and a genuine lightweight. He is one of those good boys who have battled harder and oftener and accomplished much more than men like Ritchie who have actually held the title.

Since last March White has had an astonishing knockout record, considering the quality of the men he has put away. Here is the list:

March 17—Sammy Robideau, one round, Philadelphia.
May 4—Eddie Murphy, 11 rounds, Boston.
May 12—Hal Stewart, six rounds, Fort Wayne, Ind.
May 25—Fred Yelle, three rounds, Boston.

Welsh Much the Cleverer.

FREDDIE WELSH has fought White twice. The first time Freddie was not in condition and White deefated him in a no-decision bout. The second time Welsh was in shape and lightning fast. He rather showed up the Chicagoan at boxing.

Welsh will do that with most lightweights, in a short fight or as long as he retains his strength. Nobody can hit White a decisive punch, while his defense is in good working order.

Welsh, however, is old and, no doubt, slowing. There is a certain round where he would tire and in that round over would come the White hook, with the sleep effects that usually follow.

Whether this round is inside the permissible 20-round limit, none knows. But against a strong, rugged opponent like White, few believe Welsh today is good enough to last the distance.

Princeton Rooters Hopeful

THE showing of the Princeton Tigers this year, under "Speedy" Rush, has caused some hope at Nassau that this season will see the Tigers champions. The Princetonians, thus far, have beaten Georgetown, which subsequently trimmed the Navy, and then Rutgers, the juggernaut of Foster Sanford, which has been working since July for the express purpose of mowing down the black and orange warriors. A touchdown and a field goal defeated the Rutgers men.

And Sanford has SOME eleven.

Its first game this year it rolled up the record score of 53—0 on Albright College eleven, and was thought to be the dark horse team of the junior colleges.

With Yale and Harvard below par this season, seemingly, it looks like the Tigers' year to shove their best foot forward. The opportunity is there to be seized.

Yesterday's Fight Results

Richmond, Ind.—Ray Jeffries outpointed Cuban Lawrence, eight rounds. Kid Goodman and Slats Gusweiler boxed an eight-round draw. Jack Cronin knocked out Kid Leo, three rounds.

Baltimore—Kid Williams defeated Dutch Brandt in a fierce 10-round battle, Brandt taking an immense amount of punishment gamely.

Boston—Curtains for the veteran Matty Baldwin. Charlie White knocked him out in two minutes and 47 seconds after the first bell rang.

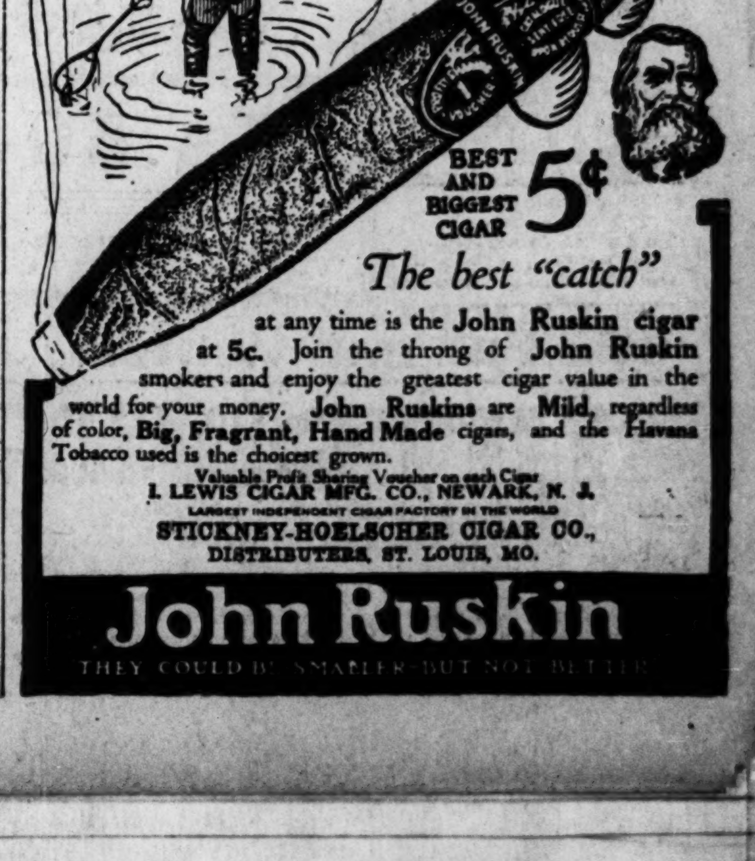

Philadelphia—Silent Martin and Willie Baker, draw. Jack Toland beat Jimmy Devine. Frankie Conway bested Young Dougherty—all six rounds.

New York—Jack Dillon easily whiped Jim Savage, 10 rounds, knocking him down three times.

Shenandoah, Pa.—Eddie Revoire and Jackie Clarke, 10-round draw.

Norristown, Pa.—Joe Welsh beat Johnny Miller, eight rounds. Jack Redman beat Buck Mullard; six rounds. Eddie Roland knocked out Young Ervin, four rounds. Kid West stopped Charlie Myers, two rounds.

TICKET SCANDAL IS BREWING FOR PHILADELPHIANS

Police Official Makes Demands That Quaker Management Cannot Meet.

NO REST FOR RED SOX

Carrigan's Team Will Probably Play Thursday and Then Shift to Phils Park.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6.—With but two days remaining until the opening contest for baseball supremacy of the world, the National League champion Phillies hoped to complete their regular playing schedule in a double-header with Brooklyn today and set about final preparations for the struggle with the Boston Americans.

It was expected that Manager Moran would send Alexander and his other star pitchers, none [illegible] has been seen in action [illegible] al weeks, to the mound. [illegible] prevents the games [illegible] ed off. Thursday, Mo[illegible] vote to secret practice.

There is a fee[illegible] ice in the Phillies' camp as [illegible] sult of the series. Capt. Lude[illegible] red that he feels sure his team w[illegible] come out victors, although he admitted it would be a close race. Alexander and Chalmers are almost certain to win their games, he believes, while both Mayer and Rixey stand an excellent chance to humble the Bostonians.

Phils Held at Even Money.

"The strength of their opponents in all departments was not lost sight of," Luderus added, "and most anything can happen in such a short series."

Philly stock also has gone up in the estimation of the betting fraternity. While the few bets that were placed several days ago were laid at odds of 13 to 10 with the Red Sox the favorites, several wagers were placed last night at even money.

In an effort to give as many fans as possible an opportunity to see these games, the Philadelphia club found it necessary to greatly curtail the allotment of tickets for the newspapers and public officials, who in former years had received large blocks.

Considerable resentment at this action was expressed by a high police official, who declined to accept his allotment, declaring that he wanted all the seats he requested "or none." Notwithstanding the management of the club has taken every precaution to guard against tickets falling into the hands of speculators, several agencies are taking orders. They are not making any definite promise, however, as to whether they will be able to fill them in every instance. Distribution of the tickets probably will not begin until Thursday morning.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—A workout on Friday morning preceding the first game of the world's baseball championship will be the only opportunity which the Boston Americans will have for practice on the field of the Philadelphia Nationals. Owing to the postponement of yesterday's game between the New York and Boston American League clubs it will be necessary for the Red Sox and the Yankees to play two games here today and one tomorrow in order to complete their schedule. This means that the Red Sox will not have a day's rest before the beginning of the world's series. Manager Carrigan of the Boston club has made no protest.

Alex Is Only One Feared.

"I realize that we must face Grover Cleveland Alexander in the opening game Friday," said Carrigan, "and I also know just how wonderfully clever is the curve-ball genius of the National League. It seems we must beat Alexander in the first game, and we have devised a means which we think will accomplish it. Should we beat Alexander in the opening game, the rest will be a lot easier than I have figured. If we fail, it will give us a line on Alexander, which will make his second game doubly hard to win. Outside of Alexander I do not think any of the Philly pitchers compare with my men."

Philadelphia Pitchers and Fielders Must Perform Better Than They Did During Season to Equal the Red Sox

Hugh Fullerton, in Today's World's Series Analysis, Finds a Seven Per Cent Deficiency in Phillies' Hurling and an Eight Per Cent Lower Fielding Rate.

By Hugh S. Fullerton.

	Value in Offense	Value in Defense	Value in Season	Value in Series
Lewis	774	663	762	749
Whitted	789	652	770	752
INFIELD AND OUTFIELD VALUES.
Red Sox' Infield	2991	2874	2999	2906
Phillies' Infield	2936	2729	2841	2803
Red Sox' Outfield	2375	2091	2331	2320
Phillies' Outfield	2285	1993	2229	2219

WITH the comparative figures of Whitted and Lewis, left fielders of the rival teams, we reach the finish of the study of the regular teams, and with rather surprising results.

The fact that Philadelphia's outfield shows so well when studied in comparison with the famous Red Sox trio is astonishing, and shows that Moran's team has a lot of strength for which it has not been given credit. While the Red Sox outfigure the Phillies by a rather heavy margin, both in the infield and the outfield, it is not enough to offset what advantage may be gained through comparison of pitchers alone.

The Phillies are not outclassed. We find that their pitchers will have to pitch about seven per cent better than the Red Sox to equalize the difference in hitting power, and that the fielders will have to do about eight per cent better than they do regularly to bring them to the Boston standard, unless the Red Sox fall off that much in their work.

The figures show neither team is likely to hit as hard as it does in season, because the opposing pitchers "dope out" to cut down its batting and reduce the attacking strength all round.

Whitted Close to Lewis.

But to the final comparison of the regulars. There is a big surprise in those figures. You would not suspect that Whitted, cast off by the Boston Braves, ranks so closely up to Duffy Lewis this fall that there is small choice between them. Neither did I until I studied the dope carefully and analyzed each man's work.

When you come to figure an individual ballplayer you must make allowance for his disposition, if that tends either to enhance the value of his work or to detract from it.

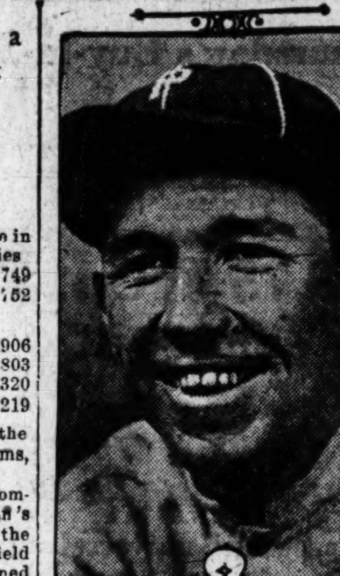

Whitted is an odd ballplayer. He has disposition. Last year he was one of the most valuable of the Braves. He was the happy disposition, the fellow who turned serious situations into a joke, who laughed off rows between players, smoothed over difficulties, stood between some of the athletes and Stallings, often taking the scoldings of the irascible manager upon himself to shield some more sensitive person. Stallings used him when he wanted to vent his ire upon the team, and Whitted grinned and passed it off with a jest.

On the Phillies' team he has been invaluable in keeping up the team spirit during discouraging times. He has cheered the players along, furnished the "pep" and the punch that some of them needed, and made Moran's way easier by his tact in straightening out those little internal clashes that so often injure a ball club.

Whitted Is Dangerous.

Whitted is a dangerous man on the attack, resourceful, quick to switch his plan, and he can hit. He bumps that old grapefruit to the tune of about .280, gets on a lot of times and is one of the top-notchers in run scoring for his team.

His fielding is not brilliant, but it has been satisfactory, and with a steady job assured he has really done better work this year than he did last. On the bases he is not a speedy man, but he is tricky, trying to outguess pitchers, and he steals a fair number of times, principally by catching the other team unprepared. He is just a little above the average in mechanical ability for outfielders; he watches batters closely and he works hard and fights all the time. It is his spirit and punch that make him compare so well with his rival.

GEO. WHITTED.

Whitted Appears to Have Edge Over Lewis in World's Series Valuation

Duffy Lewis is one of the problems of the series. We have come to be so accustomed to referring to Boston's wonderful outfield that at times we take it for granted that it is flawless. Carrigan does not figure things that way. He sits down there on the bench and sees a lot of things that are forgotten by the fans. There was a time late this season when it seemed as if Lewis would be benched and that Henriksen would get a steady job in left field. It was rumored through the American League that the change was certain, but it did not take place, as Lewis braced considerably in his work, especially in his hitting.

Lewis is not the greatest outfielder. He is scarcely above the average as a mechanical fielder, but he has strong points as against his weak. His ability to throw and to cut off hard drives that go foul after crossing third base on the Boston grounds, and to retrieve the ball before it gets into that embarrassing corner is one of his strong points which will come in handy even on the new Braves' ground. He has a rather short field near the foul line and he can get to almost anything inside the barrier. He has nerve and courage in going against fences and stands for fly balls.

Lewis Can Hit Ball.

One thing is certain—you never can say Whitted isn't trying, and that charge was brought against Lewis late in the season because he seemed to lack his old confidence and looked discouraged. I know that a lot of ballplayers who hold iron-clad contracts did not try hard this year beyond protecting themselves. I have seen outfielders deliberately stop batted balls, let them fall to the ground, and then toss them back to the infield instead of trying to scoop them cleanly and make a play. I heard Lewis accused of this, but his own teammates indignantly denied it. They said "Duf" just had a little slump in his work.

He can hit. He is one of the best of his kind of hitter, and is liable to clean up at any time with a terrific smash to left. He hits the left-handers well, and he hits good pitching. I have before me the clipped scores of a dozen games in which Boston made very few hits off opposing pitchers and Lewis in almost every case was one of the few who scored hits, especially up to July 15.

That is an interesting feature of doping these fellows. I took all the box scores of the season and sorted them in reference to number of runs made by the Red Sox—shut outs, one run, two runs, and so on. Then I studied through each man's record to see what kind of pitching he was hitting, and whether he hit the good ones, the bad ones, the left-handers, and so on. There were some revelations in the process. Then I took the opponent's scores in the same order and studied the pitching of the Red Sox from that angle, studying what kind of batters hit them and what kind they fooled.

In that way one gets a pretty fair line on the ability of the men against all sorts and conditions of pitchers, and it will be a surprise to you to see how well Whitted has done against classy pitching.

Whitted ought to hit fairly well against Boston's pitchers, and be one of the chief contributors to Philadelphia's scoring. Not that he will hit hard, or that the Phils will score many runs, but he is liable to deliver the timely blow that may settle a close game.

Tomorrow we pass along to the catchers, and reach the more important stage of the dope.

HARVARD COACHES GIVE SPECIAL DRILL TO LINE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 6.—Harvard's varsity football squad was herded into the baseball cage yesterday afternoon because of rainy weather. After a lengthy blackboard talk, the forwards of teams A and B faced each other and struggled through a long, defensive drill. Particular attention was given to Wiggin at center and Duncan and Dadmun, the guards, the trio which the Aggies so mussed up on Saturday. Both guards are playing their first year with the varsity being ineligible last fall, while Wiggen was center on the 1913 team.

The remainder of the regulars who rested up yesterday appeared in togs again and were pushed hard. Before the squad was dismissed three elevens ran through signals on the freshman gridiron to accustom the backs and the ends to handling a wet ball.

Tells Two Stories of Robbery.
Patrick Powers of 6733 Garner avenue, in reporting to the police yesterday afternoon that he had been robbed of $272, told two different stories. He first said that two men slugged him at an alley on Seventh street, between Lucas avenue and Morgan street. Later he told about having been robbed in a rooming house near Jefferson avenue and Olive street.

FOREIGN-BORN TELEPHONE USERS ARE MOST POLITE

West End Women Get Cross Right Away When They Don't Get Their Number Quickly.

FEW SAY "THANK YOU"

"Yes" Susceptible of Many Tones and Meanings, "Listener In," on Bell Lines Finds.

An expert has listened to the voice of St. Louis—or rather to the voices of St. Louis—and has given an interesting estimate of their qualities and shortcomings in the October issue of the Southwestern Telephone News, published by the Bell Telephone Co. in St. Louis.

In gathering his material the writer "listened in" on the telephone lines at various central exchanges in different parts of the city. He reaches the conclusion that the foreigners using the coin boxes in the poorer sections of the city are the most polite and patient under all circumstances and conditions.

As to West End women who use the telephones in their homes, he says: "The women are polite if they get their number quickly and correctly, but if they don't, then look out! They become cross right away."

Office Girl Impersonal.

The girl employed in an office, he finds, makes a sharp and short call for the number, but she is decidedly impersonal. She will repeat the number in the same tone she used in the first place. If she has to wait she is neither sour nor sweet about it. He finds also that the average business man is more patient at the telephone than the average West End woman. Telephone employes, he says, enunciate more clearly than others, but do not seem to be any more patient on polite.

Here is what he has to say about one class of calls:

"The outgoing calls from newspaper offices are above the average in courtesy and patience. The reporter and the operator have dealings over the telephone many times and on many happy, vexatious and important matters. They understand and respect each other. Both have to work with speed and intelligence and both do their best, night or day, rain or shine, sick or well, and are generally game and good-natured about it."

And yet he yields the palm to the foreign-born residents, of whom he says: "No getting away from it, take them by and large, all in all, the year 'round, the new citizens of this republic, the ones with their naturalization papers at home in the family Bible, are the true Princes of the province of politeness when it comes to using the telephone." In this connection he specifically names the German, Italian, Frenchman, Greek, Russian and Jew.

Many Meanings in "Yes."

In listening in on the wire he found out something interesting about one of the shortest words in the language.

"Yes," he says, is the word most generally used in answering central, a short word of only one syllable that 'yes,' yet it is susceptible of many tones and meanings. t can be divided into three syllables, each of one letter. It can be made to convey impatience, sarcasm, anger, kindness, indifference, gentleness, extreme politeness and extreme discourtesy. In the first 40 calls that morning the 'ma'am' was added to the 'yes' once. The 'ma'am' is supposed to add politeness to the reply, but it does not always do so.

"The inflection of the voice, not the word, carries the real and the greatest politeness over the wire.

"That word 'yes.' Subscribers do many things to that short and expressive word. They speak it in tones that make it sound like 'no!' They change the 'e' to 'a.' They change the 'e' to 'a' and drop the 's' entirely, making it 'ya.' They also change the 's' to 'h' and it comes over the wire as 'yah.' A simple, straightaway word is 'yes,' but the human voice uses it to conjure with. The subscriber makes it express anger and delight, annoyance and good will, impatience and cheerfulness, doubt and confidence. It is changed from a word to a grunt; from an expression to an exclamation. Under the spell of the voice it becomes as startling and repellant as an oath or as soft as a caress.

"Out of the first 40 calls there was one 'please, ma'am.' Sounds mighty polite, doesn't it? But there was a 'yep' in response to central's questioning repetition of the number that carried with it more cheery good will and human kindness and inspiration for happiness to all who heard it than any 'ma'am' or 'please' could carry. As that wise old philosopher of another century said: 'Tune thy jolly voice and all the daughters of the year shall dance.'"

Women Keep Lines Busy.

The writer's "listening in" observations convinced him that few women, even those of the West End, say "ma'am" or "thank you" when addressing the operator and that "please" is not always a pleasant word, but under some circumstances may be used with as sarcastic an accent as to be a reproach.

Here is another of his discoveries:

"A man's conversations over the wire are generally short and clear cut. A woman will hold the telephone for half an hour at a time, often for an hour. She is responsible for most of the 'line is busy' answers that central has to make to the long-suffering folks who make it short when they use a telephone."

V. P. BALL GREAT SPECTACLE AND ENTERTAINMENT

Dancing Exhibition and Concert Precede Introduction of the Queen for 1915.

SPECTATORS ARE EARLY

The 1915 Veiled Prophet's ball, like the parade which preceded it, was, first and chiefly, a great spectacle. To see its purely spectacular part, thousands sat and hundreds stood in the Coliseum for as long a time as a theatrical production takes. And there was something to see all the time.

Afterward, there was dancing for those who wished to dance. It continued until about 1:30 o'clock this morning. But for the majority of the Prophet's guests, the spectacle was the thing. It began a few minutes after 9 o'clock, when the matrons and maids of honor were escorted in stately processional to their seats near the Prophet's throne. It continued in an exhibition of the art of dancing, by a half-dozen young women and an instrumental concert, and it reached its climax, at 11 o'clock, in the introduction of the newly chosen Queen, Miss Jane Shapleigh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Shapleigh.

Floor Clear at 11:30.

After the queen's coronation, the Prophet's lancers, in which only the costumed members of the Prophet's retinue and the young women of the court took part, completed the essentially spectacular part of the event. Not until 11:30 was the floor clear for dancers from the crowded first balcony, or sector of the Coliseum floor.

By the time the last of the 22 parade floats had passed the Washington avenue entrance, at 8:40, with the circuit of downtown streets still to make, the seats in the first balcony were filled with men and women in evening dress, and the second balcony seats were nearly filled. No especial requirements as to costume were made in the second balcony, but not a few dress suits and handsome gowns were seen there.

The tarpaulin-spread central arena formed an ellipse, with both ends cut off. The end toward Locust street was occupied by the Prophet's throne and the seats of the Prophet's court. The end toward Washington avenue was used for entrance and reception purposes, and by the time of the Prophet's arrival this space was so filled that acquaintances had to be content with bowing to each other from a distance.

A few minutes after 9 the procession of maids and matrons, each on the arm of an escort, began. When all had been seated on the crimson-carpeted platform, the Queen of last year's ball, Miss Elsa Zelbig, appeared on the arm of Mayor Kiel. Handclapping marked time to their advance to the throne, where the young woman took the seat which, at the 1914 ball, she occupied beside the Prophet.

An Oddly Pretty Effect.

Then the lights began their cross-cross play on the floor, and a youthful figure in knee pants, with a broad sash, pirouetted in. It was Miss Florence Glover, assistant to Mlle. Eva Swain, the ballerina of the evening, and a moment later Mlle. Swain appeared, in conventional ballet fluff and whiteness. The two danced a number from the ballet in "Hamlet," in which the possession of a bouquet is the subject of gestures and steps. The shadows, cast in every direction by the whirling figures, formed an oddly pretty effect. At some moments the rays so converged that the danseuse, in her white garb, seemed to be moving through a rainbow.

A few moments later Misses Millicent Bishop, Emily Bartlett and Elsie Begeebing were performing a Greek dance.

There were three more dancing numbers by Mlle. Swain and assistants, and another by the three young women. The "pizzicato" dance, from "Sylvia," was perhaps the most taking of the numbers. After the program had ended, at 10:20, there was a delay, and the entertainers returned, this time in gypsy costume.

Prophet's Arrival Heralded.

A bugle call, at 10:40, heralded the arrival of the belated Prophet. He was drawn into the arena on a vehicle bearing the inner part of the float on which he had traversed the streets, and he remained on his exalted seat until the steps to the throne were reached. Then, escorted by the Mayor and B. F. Bush, he started to lead the cavaliers, peasants, knights in armor and other members of his train, about the arena. The line was so long and its pairs had to walk so close together, that some of the trains worn by maskers in feminine garb, were considerably trodden under foot.

Ascending to his throne, the Prophet greeted the Queen whose reign was about to end. Then, as the court distributed themselves about the platform, the lights began to play about the main entrance. A whistle, a bugle call, and the three special maids, with shimmering trains, entered in turn.

Each of the three had as much light, as much time for her march and as thorough and exclusive attention, as if she were the queen herself. Miss Anne Collins, escorted by George Capen, appeared first, and it was not until the Prophet had greeted her that the light was turned back to the doorway. Then Miss Ella Curlee, escorted by Carl Langenberg, walked to the front, with the same deliberation and attention, and then Miss Marie Church, on the arm of Breckinridge Jones.

When the light sought the doorway for the fourth time, everyone knew it would next beam on the chosen Queen. When Miss Shapleigh, with smiling face and golden coiffure, entered with Mr Bush, there was applause from those who knew her, and those who did not know, but who admired and, for the moment, envied her. Her double train was borne by graceful children.

Prophet Dances With Queen.

The coronation caused more handclapping, and then a quaint Oriental conceit was carried out. Four Moorish slaves, in flowing robes and turbans, carried a square of purple cloth to the middle of the arena, and deftly spread it, then they sat down, one on each corner of the cloth, and remained there, holding it in place, while the Prophet and three of his train danced the lancers with the Queen and the three special maids. All around them, the maskers of the Prophet's court performed the old-fashioned and rather stiff movements of the square dance. They were encored twice, and then, as some of the masked figures drifted away, presumably into the land of legend, others remained to dance longer.

In one set were four matrons of honor—the four golfers, someone called them—Mrs. Charles W. Scudder, Mrs. Albert Todd Terry, Mrs. E. Lansing Ray and Mrs. Sterling Edmunds, who are playing in the tournament at Westwood Country Club this week. Dancing with them were Sinbad the Sailor, a Roman Soldie rand two female impersonators dressed in transparent skirts. It was an amusing spot in the gay scene.

The strains of "Araby" began, the rope at one end of the arena was lowered and a man and girl stepped in and began dancing beside the Prophet's courtiers. A moment later, dozens of pairs from the floor were one-stepping and those in the first balcony were making their way to the floor or to the cloakrooms.

Colored lights were cast over the dancers, making some of the plainest costumes appear the gayest, and neutralizing the tints of some of the most brilliant gowns.

While there were dances a plenty through the 16-number program, probably the greater number did not remain to dance. The presence of many guests who do not dance, or who do not care to dance in so large a gathering, is a development of the last few years. When the ball was held on the Merchants Exchange floor, practically everyone in evening dress used to dance. Since the ball has been held in the Coliseum, the Prophet's line of march has been longer and the entertainment program before his arrival has been made more elaborate year by year. Now this has become, for many, the "whole show," and guests watch professional dancers in preference to dancing themselves.

Queen of the Veiled Prophet's Ball

MISS JANE SHAPLEIGH.

MISS JANE SHAPLEIGH, crowned as Queen of Love and Beauty by the Veiled Prophet last night, is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lee Shapleigh, of 3636 Delmar boulevard. She was born and reared in St. Louis and was educated at Mary Institute, where she was graduated with the class of 1913, of which she was president.

She is one of the few auburn haired young women who have been chosen to be Queen. Another recent one was the 1913 Queen, Miss Adaline Capen.

The queen's gown was of lace over a shimmering foundation of cloth of silver. The skirt was full and short and had a fuller overskirt of the lace that fell in points at each side.

A long court train of cloth of silver swept from the shoulders and extended beyond the edge of the royal robe that is worn for that one evening by the Veiled Prophet's queens.

NEW MODELS ARE SHOWN IN GOWNS AT V. P. BALL

Short Skirts and Full Effects Prevail in Styles Illustrated on Floor.

BY FRANCES CABANNE SCOVEL.

THERE is no other occasion in the year where the change in style can be as easily noted as at the Veiled Prophet's ball.

The promenade of the matrons and maids of honor from the entrance, around the room and up the center of the long hall to the throne platform is a fashion show in itself, and last night the difference in the modes, as compared with the past year or two, was almost startling.

The cherished silhouette that the fashion artists sang about for several years was no more, and so puffy in effect were the gowns, especially those of the maids, that one could hardly tell whether the wearers were coming or going, except by the way the feet were pointed.

Miss Elsa Zelbig, queen of last year, wore more regal than on the night of her crowning. She wore one of the most beautiful gowns in the hall. It was of cloth of gold, with an overskirt of fine gold lace—quite full, and stiffened in some way so that it stood out all around. The full short skirt was finished with a ruching of the lace, and from the high waist line in the back fell a court train of flame-colored velvet, that ended with a four-inch band of ermine. Where the train began, between the shoulders, was an arrangement of gold gauze like a large butterfly, that formed part of the bodice.

Miss Jane Shapleigh, the new queen, and the second titian-haired girl chosen for that honor, wore an exquisite gown of silver tissue, with an overskirt of lace.

The skirt, like all the others, was short and full. From the shoulders fell a train of cloth of silver, and over it she wore the royal robe that all the queens wear for one membrable evening.

The three maids, Misses Church, Curlee and Collins, all wore white. Their skirts were short and full, and all had diaphanous trains that swept from the shoulders.

Prophet in Short Gown.

Almost all the gowns were so short-waisted and short-skirted that not a trace of the form could be seen—nothing but heads and feet. Even the Prophet appeared in a short skirt, for the first time in the history of the pageant.

His robe has always been a gorgeous affair that reached almost to the floor, so last night, when the very up-to-date Prophet arrived, the change from his ponderous robe to the very modern short tunic he wore was as surprising as the shortness of the maids' frocks.

Miss Church's gown was of chiffon, with a glint of silver cloth showing through. The bodice was made entirely of strands of iridescent beads, and the train was of strips of chiffon and satin.

Miss Curlee's gown was of tulle, with a short bodice of cloth of silver. Her train was of tulle bordered with silver.

Miss Collins wore white lace and tulle, with full overskirts bordered with two-inch bands of silver and a petticoat of silver. Her train was made of a piece of tulle that began on the left shoulder and widened as it fell. It was bound with silver and where it reached the floor there was one large silver rose.

Among the matrons of honor, Mrs. Eugene D. Nims' gown was one of the most noticeable. It was made on Grecian lines of opal studded tulle, with a court train and a girdle of moonstones. It is whispered that it was one of the handsomest gowns at the ball and cost almost four figures.

Mrs. Shapleigh, the Queen's mother, wore pale blue silk, with trimmings of lace, and Mrs. Collins, who sat next to her, was in coral-colored velvet trimmed on crystals.

Mrs. B. F. Bush had on a remarkable gown of yellow brocade, with short wired paniers at the hip line. It, too, had a long narrow train from the shoulders. It was extremely in style and extremely becoming.

Maids' and Matrons' Modes.

Miss Mary Dee Jones, one of last year's special maids, wore a lovely gown of blue, the short velvet skirt edged with white fur. Mrs. Walker Hill wore a topaz-colored gown of brocaded satin, and Mrs. Frederick D. Gardner's gown was made with a close-fitting bodice of crystals, from which fell a full overskirt of tulle, bordered with fur over white satin.

In one of the boxes was Miss Jane Taylor, the Queen of three years before, with her mother, Mrs. Daniel G. Taylor; Miss Eleanor Scott, who has just returned from California, and Mrs. Auguste Chouteau. Miss Taylor wore a gown of pink velvet, with a short bodice made entirely of pink crystals. Miss Grace Taylor, a younger sister, who is a debutante this year, was one of the maids of honor and wore a white tulle frock.

In another box was Miss Adaline Capen, the Queen who was retired last year, when Miss Zelbig was crowned, and whose younger sister, Miss Isabel Capen, is a debutante, and was a maid last night.

Mrs. Trueman Post Riddle and her son, the Rev. Truman Post Riddle of St. George's Episcopal Church, New York, who is home on a visit, were in another box. Mrs. Riddle had on a gown of black beaded net and about her shoulders she wore a scarf of rose point lace almost a yard wide, that reached almost to the floor on either side. Her daughter, Miss Emily Riddle, was a maid of honor for the second time.

BURGLARS ROB SEVERAL HOMES; FAMILIES OUT SEEING PARADE

While the Veiled Prophet's parade was in progress many homes were ransacked by burglars.

A fire believed to have been started by matches in the hands of burglars, caused about $1000 damage to the home of Charles Dooley, 4150 Lexington avenue, at 8:50 p. m. When firemen responded to an alarm sent in by a pedestrian who had seen flames in the front room they found the front door had been forced with a "jimmy." When the Dooley family returned from the parade they missed several articles of jewelry, a garden hose and a toy bank containing $5.

Jewelry valued at $150 was stolen from the home of Ernest F. Aehle, 5142 Page boulevard. A Christmas watch presented to Mrs. Al Conkey of 721 Goodfellow avenue was among several articles of jewelery stolen from her apartment.

Other homes looted were those of Fred W. Franke, 2126 Allen avenue, where jewelry valued at $25 was taken; Fred Hausette, 4259 North Twenty-first street, jewelry valued at $25 and $6 in cash; Samuel Lang, 1423 North Eighth street, clothing and $6 in cash; Edward Horn, 1835 Rausachenbach avenue, jewelry and silverware valued at $150 and a bank containing $12 and 100 pennies; Mrs. Edith McCurdy, 4600 Washington boulevard, clothing valued at $50.

Rheumatism Advice

Here is a prescription for rheumatism used all over the U. S. for many years and said to be the surest known remedy: "One ounce of Toris compound and one ounce syrup of Sarsaparilla. Put these two ingredients in half pint of whiskey. Use a tablespoonful before each meal and at bed time." Put the sarsaparilla in the whiskey and let stand for two hours before adding the Toris. So it is better to mix at home. Get ingredients at any drug store. Genuine Toris comes in sealed yellow packages put up by Globe Pharmaceutical, Dayton, Ohio.

Corns and Callouses

Don't endure foot agony. Here is quickest and surest remedy known: "Two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in warm foot bath." This gives instant relief; corns and callouses can be peeled right off. Equally effective for aching or sweaty feet and sore bunions. It acts through the pores, removing the cause. Large box of Calocide twenty-five cents at any drug or general store. Prepared at Medical Formula laboratories, Dayton, Ohio.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Pros and Cons of Annexation.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The writer of this letter is a resident of Webster Groves, and naturally is very much interested in the contemplated annexation of the suburbs to St. Louis.

Mr. J. Porter Henry writes you a letter under recent date which he elaborates with arguments, but the vitality of the letter is contained in the wording of the concluding paragraph: "If annexation will preserve this distinction without harm to the suburbs, all suburban citizens of the city of St. Louis should rally to the scheme."

Mr. Editor, an enormous majority of us suburbanites sold our homes in the city because we were dissatisfied with city life, and have excellent reasons to offer for so doing. We are intensely contented with our present homes and we are thoroughly justified in handling the theory of annexation with a feeling of delicacy.

The thought that our beautiful suburb might become "cityfied" along the lines of our past experience is quite abhorrent. There is no question as to how the suburbanites stand in their loyalty towards St. Louis, but I do not believe that we should sacrifice our magnificent type of life we are now living in our suburban homes simply to swell the population of St. Louis.

I believe most all suburbanites are holding their ultimate stand on this issue in abeyance. If its advocates can demonstrate that it is a good thing for us we will certainly support it, but if they cannot do so they should not expect us to do so.

The argument advanced as to how much can be saved in taxes, insurance, transportation expenses, etc., can have very little effect because it is hard to find a citizen in the suburbs who is not willing to stand this extra expense in return for the sublime privacy and refined surroundings he enjoys.

In conclusion, if annexation to St. Louis will not jeopardize my present perfect contentment I am for it, but if I conclude it will I am emphatically against it. Yours for good government always.

CHARLES N. VAN BUREN.

"National Right."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The idle gabble about voting not being a "national right" continues. What is due women is simple justice. By an infamous law we tax women, who have no vote. I believe all good men are willing to be fair to all women.

OPTIMIST.

Family Restaurants Downtown.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

With the effort to establish night life in the downtown districts, it might be well to consider what might be inducements or means to that end. Nothing would provide greater attraction and allurement to most folks than conservative dining. While night life would seem to appeal only to the young and gay, I know of many a housewife who would delight in a frequent dinner downtown with the theater or a tour of the downtown shopping districts, if it were possible to be served a well-cooked table d'hote meal at reasonable price where one would not be compelled to pore over the bill of fare encountering the big bear all housekeepers agree is ever the same, i. e., "What shall we have to eat?" So, to revive night life in a large measure let first-class restauranteurs cater to the many women who would bring families and meet husbands downtown to enjoy a meal served to them table d'hote without the great annoyance of planning it and of selecting items on menus to compose a substantial meal without making it prohibitive in price.

ONE OF MANY.

In Regard to Car Stops.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

It would be a great injustice to all of the people in St. Louis to lessen the car stops. I live in South St. Louis, on the Broadway line, and since this new system has been put into effect our home workers have to start from five to seven minutes earlier every morning. We get our evening meal from five to seven minutes later; it takes at least four or five minutes to walk one block; it would take the car just one-tenth of that time to go this same distance.

When all conditions are favorable, the public are the losers on this proposition. Now, how about unfavorable conditions, when the thermometer registers below zero, and we have six or eight inches of snow on the ground, and in rainy weather and in the summer time, when it is 104 in the shade? How does it help the old and the feeble, the thousands who are sick and the many thousands without perfect limbs, and the thousands of mothers with infants in their arms? If a person should signal the car to stop and the bell was out of order, the next stop is three blocks away; such is our case now. The car stops on Bates street, and the next stop is Ellwood. This would be a pleasant walk to accommodate the railway, which very often happens.

C. J. BROWN.

ATTACKS ON PUBLIC WELFARE.

The report that many German-Americans in New York had pledged the withdrawal of their funds from banks participating in the Anglo-French loan is followed by a report of the organizing of German-American banks in leading American cities.

The reports show the extremes to which fanaticism will lead men. The withdrawal of deposits by German-Americans as a protest against the loan will accomplish nothing; the loan is assured. The only effect of the movement will be to endanger or destroy banks in which these pledged depositors have money. The movement is merely destructive. The men engaged in it will tear down the institutions they have built up. They will attack the vital interests of the country. Many German-Americans who are shareholders or officers in ostracized banks will suffer and even the depositors may lose money, if consequences flow from this foolish policy.

Of course, in cities where there are German-Americans in considerable numbers there are banks now controlled by German-Americans. As a rule, they are strong and flourishing institutions. The effect of opening new banks for German-Americans alone, if the effort succeeds, would be merely to destroy or weaken banks already established. This destructive work would probably be accomplished without compensation, because a bank founded on a policy of ostracism and clannishness is not likely to thrive. It would not appeal to the general public, whose good will is necessary to permanent prosperity.

We do not believe that the mass of sensible German-Americanship will follow wild financial leadership of this kind. They have never aligned themselves with atacks on the public welfare.

Ferrero describes the war as "history's most awful whirlwind." Let us pray that history may never repeat itself.

HUMBUG IN THE CRONE CASE.

If Mr. Crone is deserving of a parole, let the matter be determined with a minimum of humbug. Nearly a score of the persons whom he swindled have been led to believe that the issue is a parole or their impoverishment. They have been persuaded that if he is not sent to prison, his friends will raise the funds to make restitution and accordingly they have signed a petition to the court for his release.

The willingness of Mr. Crone's friends to come to his relief is measured by the actual sum in cash or negotiable obligations they have made available for his victims at this date, while he is still threatened with imprisonment. They will, of course, give nothing after that danger is removed and he is released.

SPEAKING TONIGHT.

Col. Roosevelt and Col. Bryan are going to speak tonight on the same subject at different places. Sometimes it is fortunate that you can't be in two places at once. Since both of these places are remote, we have just about reconciled ourself to missing both treats.

If they were both going to speak right in the same hall just around the corner—well, our feelings about it, which some few others may share, are pretty well described by a true story that Tom Ochiltree used to tell in Texas, and old Judge Boothe is still telling in Mississippi, and Judge Dyer will probably be telling around here at a few Pike County banquets. It seems they were getting ready to hang a fellow down South—his name was Jim Harris and it was a mighty popular hanging with a good crowd. The Sheriff, doing his best to make the entertainment a success in every way, paused on the scaffold before adjusting the black cap and told the condemned man he would give him 30 minutes to make a speech. "What for?" said Jim. "I don't want to make no speech." A fellow in the crowd spoke up: "Jim, if you don't want to speak, will you give me your time?" Jim turned to the Sheriff and asked him, "Who's that party that wants my time?" "Why, that's old Skid Snively—he's a candidate for the Legislature," answered the Sheriff. "All right," said the condemned, "let Skid have my time, but hang me first. I have heard Skid speak before."

These Colonels, Roosevelt and Bryan, are candidates and we know their old speeches by heart.

The charity problem is one of the greatest. In his last days Father Phelan began to think that the building of large charitable institutions had the effect to increase the number of paupers.

WAR TIME POLITICS IN BULGARIA.

An instructive glimpse of internal conditions in Bulgaria is given in the Post-Dispatch's story of a conference between King Ferdinand and the leaders of five different parties of the Sobranje. These leaders include some of the most powerful men in Bulgarian civil life. Several of them are former Cabinet officers.

M. Gueshoff, who told the King that he "disapproved in the most absolute manner of the policy of making common cause with Germany," is no less a personage than the Premier of Bulgaria during the war of the Balkan league. M. Malinoff declared that if this policy is continued, "the disturbance which it will provoke will be very serious." He was entrusted with the formation of a Cabinet only two years ago, but failed to retain his majority because of the machinations of the present pro-German Premier, M. Radoslavoff. Dr. Daneff, who expressed agreement with all his colleagues stated, was Bulgarian delegate at London when the peace of 1913 with Turkey was arranged, and occupied the unhappy position of Premier when the King forced the war with Greece and Servia.

M. Stambulivski, the outspoken old Populist, showed how the King has committed the country to the German side against the popular desire when he declared "you alone are the author of this policy and you alone will have the responsibility for it. The country will not have a policy of adventure, such as cost it so dear in 1913. It can only lead to disaster and may cost you your head."

With words of such boldness have patriots of all times spoken to tyrants.

All these men have a large following, and are said even now to command a majority in the Sobranje, which the King refuses to assemble. This explains Bulgaria's course of strange hesitancy. Russia's ultimatum was designed to aid her sympathisers in the country, while Ferdinand was trying to decide whether it was worth risking his head to help Germany.

He really would risk his head. The dissatisfaction with his "policy of adventure in 1913" was so great he went into exile for three months, during which his abdication was several times reported.

GERMANY YIELDS TO REASON.

The expectation, the honor and the desire of the American people are satisfied with Count von Bernstorff's final note on the Arabic case.

The message is excellent in spirit and clear and specific in wording. It frankly and fully disavows the sinking of the Arabic. It repeats assurances that precautions have been taken to avoid such occurrences in future. Despite the submarine commander's statement that he thought the Arabic was trying to ram him, the German Government accepts in good faith British testimony that ramming was not attempted or intended, and with expression of regret offers indemnity for the American lives lost.

The conclusion of the negotiations is more than a great diplomatic victory for President Wilson; it is a victory for Germany—a victory of wisdom, humanity, justice over war madness—a victory for civilization. The President has served Germany as well as America in thus, by reason and patient diplomacy, restoring the reign of law and right on the seas. Germany as well as other nations will reap the benefit of his achievement. The President has been a true friend of Germany.

Our German-American friends should be much more gratified over the situation than their American fellow citizens. In view of what has been accomplished, their hostility to President Wilson is incomprehensible. They should be heartily grateful to him for the patience and skill with which he has avoided hostile relations with Germany and has saved them from the cruel position in which such relations would have placed them.

ANOTHER VACCINATION "ACCIDENT."

Two more school children have fallen victims to compulsory vaccination. At Burlington, N. J., Frederick Perks and his brother, Charles, aged 5 and 7, died from tetanus last week. The physicians who attended them said that it was impure vaccine virus, not lack of care, that started the disease. The boys' mother is a trained nurse.

The official, responsible and accountable bodies to whom these infants deaths are chargeable are the Board of Education of Burlington and the State Board of Health of New Jersey, who made the rule that no child could enter the public schools unless previously vaccinated. There might not be an epidemic of smallpox in Burlington within the next century. And a visitation of that disease, under modern conditions, might not be attended by fatalities. But all this is problematical. What is certain and irretrievable is the fact that two children, right at the opening of their lives, have been killed by official red tape.

The people of Burlington, N. J., will doubtless be interested in the recent Supreme Court decision, quoted in the Post-Dispatch of Aug. 28, to the effect that a healthy child, though unvaccinated, is no menace to others, and that to deprive such a child of education is wrong and unjust. The court granted a mandamus to the parents, compelling the school authorities to admit the child to school.

If the net result of submarining is the enmeshing of the submarine, undersea fighting will not be so much the thing.

THE PRESIDENT A SUFFRAGIST.

In consistently refusing to recommend that Congress shall grant votes to women, President Wilson has followed a very old American principle.

The qualifications of those entitled to vote, not only for state but for United States officers, were left to be fixed by the states. In selecting members of Congress the Constitution merely says that persons shall have a right to vote who already have a right to vote for the members of the State Legislatures. As to those who may participate in the choice of President and Vice President, no qualifications at all are prescribed. A state's members of the Electoral College are to be "appointed as the Legislature may direct."

But once, as has been often pointed out, has there been a departure from this principle. To make permanent the results of the Civil War, it was declared that no state should limit the right to vote on account of "race, color or previous condition of servitude."

A high ideal was embodied in this provision. But its practical workings have involved difficulties justifying extreme reluctance in adding further prohibitions on the states' control of suffrage.

So Mr. Wilson has wisely withheld his aid in giving woman's suffrage further momentum as a national issue. But woman's suffrage as a state issue is an entirely different matter. New Jersey will vote on such an amendment this fall. As a citizen of that State, Mr. Wilson frankly discusses the merits of the question on which, as President, he has preserved a reticence disappointing to the leaders of the women's movement. He says:

> It does not seem to contain any elements of danger; and if it does bring benefits, so much the better.

Speaking of the possibility that these benefits may not be as great as hoped for, Mr. Wilson still sees good in the success of the movement. For with adoption

> A great question which is now diverting the attention of the people from other vital questions will have been removed from the arena of discussion.

The President says "other" vital questions. He does not intimate that suffrage itself is not a "vital question." His statement Tuesday makes it certain that he will support the New Jersey amendment and definitely enrolls him in the votes-for-women ranks. His attitude at this opportune moment vastly aids the cause in that and other Eastern states.

SOCRATES ON OUR CHANGING TIMES.

SOCRATES: You all know Crites, I suppose.

Glaucon: Truly.

Socrates: What do you think of him?

Glaucon: I think he is a kind of a kicker.

Socrates: I think so, too. I lunched with him yesterday and he kicked pretty hard about the town. I said nothing until he fully exposed the state of his mind, and then I told him what I thought of the town. It seemed to me that the thing he had overlooked was the somewhat changeful nature of these our times. This is an old city as American cities go, and it does not leap the gulf between what has been and what is to be as lightly as some people are disposed to think it ought. Crites was one of those people. While he knew we were suffering industrially in a way from some cause, he did not know what that cause was nor had he made any very searching effort to find out. I asked him if he did not think the trouble here chiefly for some time has been that there is not the demand there has been for some of the things we manufacture, whereas we have not yet gotten around to manufacturing things for which the demand is increasing. I told him this was true of patent medicines, in which we one time probably led the world; that if was no doubt becoming true of beer, in which we have been one of the luminaries of the mildly alcoholic firmament; and that anybody could see it in buggies, which we formerly made here on quite a celebrated scale. He said he did believe there was something in that, and when we got to looking into it piecemeal we found it so true that we wondered nobody had said so.

Polemarchus: I can see it.

Socrates: Good! I think Crites did, too. I told him it would encourage him to go out to the Automobile Show and see how seriously our one-time manufacturers of buggies are going in for the making of automobiles. There is no reason why we should get left on this great industry, and I don't think we will. There isn't anything in the climate which makes automobile manufacturing any different here than it is in Detroit, and in a few more years we will have recovered at least some of the ground we have lost. For the same reason that Ford is building an assembling plant over a huge area in St. Louis, other manufacturers of automobiles will find this city valuable to them for the purposes of manufacture and distribution.

Thrasymachus: No doubt.

Socrates: Crites saw that. He was right cheerful the rest of the time I was with him. I think he will stay here. I told him it was only a matter of getting around to the fine manufacturing which is to be the thing of the future from the rough manufacturing which was the thing in the past. We are in the period of transition. It will not last long. Once we are out of it we will make Cleveland and our other rivals quake. Geographically speaking, they are all where they are, and we are where we are. Don't forget that.

Glaucon: Gads, no!

Socrates: Very well. Now let us mingle with the festival crowds and see if we can tell who is a pickpocket.

Mrs. Louis Straus' receipt for midget dill pickles: 300 small pickles, half peck of onions, are salted with three pieces horseradish, the latter cut into small pieces; let stand over night, each in a different pan, and next day dry each pickle, onion and horseradish thoroughly, and then mix spices as follows: Whole peppers, allspice, mustard seed, red peppers, a few bay leaves. Fill up the jars, layer by layer, and use plenty of dill. Boil enough white wine vinegar to cover all, the first day pouring over cool, the second day warm, and the third day boiling. A. Y. Z.—John C. Ivory was an extensive dealer in real estate until the latter 70's. He laid out additions of property and was progressive. He left a large insurance to his wife, One daughter was a writer of poems. He had a number of children.

SCOTCHMAN.—There is no supreme head of all Freemasons. A Jew may go to the highest place in the Blue Lodge, Royal Lodge Chapter and Scottish Rite. He excludes himself from the Commandery of Templars, because that is a strictly Christian organization and therefore not consistent with his religion.

STANDARD READER.—Supplement 2: Freemasonry opens wide her doors to men of all religious creeds and faiths. Hebrews and Christians, Moslem and Parsee, and Protestants and Catholics, all meet around her pacific altars.—Allocution of the sovereign grand commander of the Supreme Council, 33d degree of the A. and A. S. R. of Freemasonry, October, 1913.

BOZEMAN.—"Rum, Romanism and Rebellion" was uttered by Rev. Dr. Samuel Dickinson Burchard, Presbyterian, in campaign of 1884, when Blaine and Cleveland were candidates for President. Oct. 29, 1884, a party of New York ministers had called upon Mr. Blaine in Fifth Avenue Hotel to assure him of their support. In a short speech Dr. Burchard said: "We are Republicans and don't propose to leave our party and identify ourselves with the party whose antecedents have been Rum, Romanism and Rebellion." When asked why he did not meet the remark at the time, Blaine said he was so busy in thinking of what he was to say himself that he heard not a word of the three R's. Blaine's father was a Scotch Presbyterian and his mother a Catholic. All the children of that union were Catholics except James G., who was brought up a Presbyterian.

ROSE.—The rose is aristocratic and does not grow so well when associated with other plants. Rich soil, sunshine and plenty of moisture are necessary. Clay should be mixed with the soil and there should be plenty of cow manure. Rotted potatoes are said to be good fertilizer. Protecting roses against the severe cold should be done by Nov. 20. The earth should be heaped up around each plant to a depth of from two to three inches in order to provide drainage away from the center of the plant, and from four to six inches of straw manure should be placed over the entire surface of the bed. Free or standard roses should be wrapped with hay or straw. The rose garden of the Missouri Botanical Garden is so arranged as to be a guide to the amateur rose culturist. This garden is composed of the varieties which do best in this climate, and they are plainly labeled that all who visit may read. The arrangement is also best suited to rose culture.

JOE.—As to Scandinavia (Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Iceland), the Scandinavians were there 2000 B. C.—Montelius says 3000. The Teuton, or Teutones, were a tribe of Northern Europe, of whom the Romans first learned 100 years B. C. Many writers suppose that the Teuton were a Celtic tribe, a branch of the Helvetia. The French are a mixture of Arabians and Lugurtans from North Africa, Celts, Phoenicians, Greeks, Romans, Teutons, Norsemen. The Germans were tribes of Germania, the country bounded by the Rhine on the west, the Baltic on the north, the Vistula and the Carpathian Mountains on the east, the Danube on the south. The English are a mixture of Celts, Romans, Saxons, Scandinavians. The Iberians are the first recorded people of Spain (1100 B. C.) They were short, dark, hairy. Whence they came is disputed. After ages of war with the Celts the two races fused. A third race of aboriginal cave-dwellers is thought to have fused with the Iberians. Italy was first inhabited by various tribes, speaking Etruscan, Sicel, Ocean, Messapian, Volscian, Sabellic, Latinian, Sabine, Umprian, Gallic, Ligurian, Venetic. A large force of Gauls settled in Italy in 300 B. C. The early Russians were Slav and Finnish tribes, who were joined by Northmen invited to the country as a result of tribal quarreling. As to Greece, the Hellenes are said to have entered the country from the north in successive bands. The period of the Mycenean civilization has been placed at 2000-1000 B. C.

Two Lives

Mocking an honest man's honest love, a woman sinks to the lowest depths only to find regeneration when she realizes her folly and accepts the affection once scorned.

By Maud Cobb.

"DO you see that couple crossing the road?" asked Hammersley at the club. "That's Benson and his wife. Curious story. She was Anna Devine, you know."

"You mean the famous actress, Anna Devine?" inquired old Saxton, whose reminiscences of 20 years ago were always entertaining and frequently indiscreet.

"That's she," said Hammersley, nodding.

"But I thought she went down and out!" exclaimed Saxton. "Disappeared from public ken. All sorts of stories told about her."

"Right enough. But look at them!" said Hammersley.

The woman clung to the man's arm, and, as they passed under the club windows, it was plain enough that they were desperately in love with each other.

"It's a curious story," repeated Hammersley, "and I don't know quite which it illustrates more, the power of men and women to rise on stepping-stones of their dead past, or the regenerating force of love. However, here you are:

"Anna Devine used to spend her summers at a famous place in the North woods, now torn down. It's only a memory with us who used to go there. But we had gay times there, and Anna was always the merriest of the lot of us.

"There was a young fellow, a guide, just an ordinary, simple woodsman, but made like a Greek god. 'Apollo,' we used to call him. He took the name good-naturedly, and probably never heard of Apollo before. Anna Devine was struck by his appearance, as any woman would be.

Anna Mocks Poor Jim.

JUST for a joke she determined to make the young fellow fall in love with her. We were all in the secret—in fact, she confided it to us. He was engaged to a country girl, which made it less justifiable. Well, gentlemen, it was a mighty interesting play. Anna and the guide used to go off fishing together, and it wasn't more than a day or two before we could see that the plot was succeeding by the look on the young man's face when they were together. So matters went on for a week.

"The climax came sooner than was expected. Anna had staged the scene, merely telling us to be at a certain spot at a certain ntime. Sure enough, when we arrived, Jim Quantock was on his knees before Anna, pouring forth a flood of rapture and all that. And Anna was as demure as a saint—until she looked up and spotted us.

"Then she burst into a peal of such mocking laughter that Jim was aghast. How she let loose on him! Fury succeeded mockery—and all the time it was a game. She asked him how he could have the presumption to aspire to marry her, how he could dare to violate his duty as a guide, a mere hired servant—she rubbed that in—and tell her such nonsense. When she got through with him he was as limp as a rag. He was just standing with open mouth, amazed at the transformation.

"Then he looked up and saw us, and he spotted the game. He doubled his fists and stepped toward us. I can tell you I didn't feel particularly happy just them, with six feet of muscular manhood advancing on me. And I was the nearest. However, he stopped short and turned upon Anna. And the speech he made, while it lacked the fluency of the actress, didn't lack dramatic effect. He told her that no woman in any class would trick the man who loved her. His scorn seemed to shrivel up the actress. And when he went on to denounce her, telling her that the day would come when she would regret the honest love she had thrown away, Anna just stared at him with wide, terrified eyes, and said not a word.

"Then he turned on his heel and strode away into the forest. Anna turned to me with a pitiful smile.

"'I guess he spoke the truth, and I don't often bear it,' she said. 'Will you kindly take me back to the hotel?'

"We heard afterward that the young fellow's fiancee had broken off the engagement on account of the infatuation. I don't blame her, for everyone in the village was talking about it. Some blamed Jim and some the actress, but everybody agreed that the other girl was right.

Five Years Passed.

"WELL, time went on, and from that day Anna's nature seemed to change. I saw her act that fall and I was amazed at her performance. Gone was all the old charm that had captivated thousands. She seemed a mechanical creature going through a mechanical part. The subtle power was lost forever.

"Anna didn't come back to the hotel the next summer, but I saw her the summer after. By that time she was only the ghost of her former self. She had held on for a year, but then it had been realized that her charm and power were gone. She was leading stock companies in the country, and she was destined to sink lower than that. I think she came to the hotel out of bravado. Jim was gone. He had disappeared from the village immediately after the scene two years before.

"Five years passed. Anna Devine was now playing subordinate parts in small companies. Sometimes a manager would advertise her name and she tried to come back, but she never could. She was gone—all that had been was gone, and in place of her was a woman who was strange even to herself. I guess it was about this time that she began taking drugs.

"Well, gentlemen, as Mr. Saxon has said, she was down and out. I saw her once dancing in a Bowery theater. Her very name had been forgotten by the fickle public. The words of the young guide might have been a curse destined to drag her down. She was gone in art, and going in body and soul. The thin and made-up creature whom I saw dance before an audience of sailors had no resemblance whatever to the Anna Devine who had charmed Broadway five years before.

"The end was approaching, and Anna realized it. She had run through her money, she was living in a cheap furnished room somewhere in a squalid part of the town. She had already bought the carbolic acid. She was sitting upon the edge of her bed, gathering courage to take the draft, when the door opened and Jim Quantock strode in.

Anna, His Inspiration.

HE dashed the bottle from her hand. For a few moments Anna did not know who he was. Then, somehow, among all her memories this one came back to her.

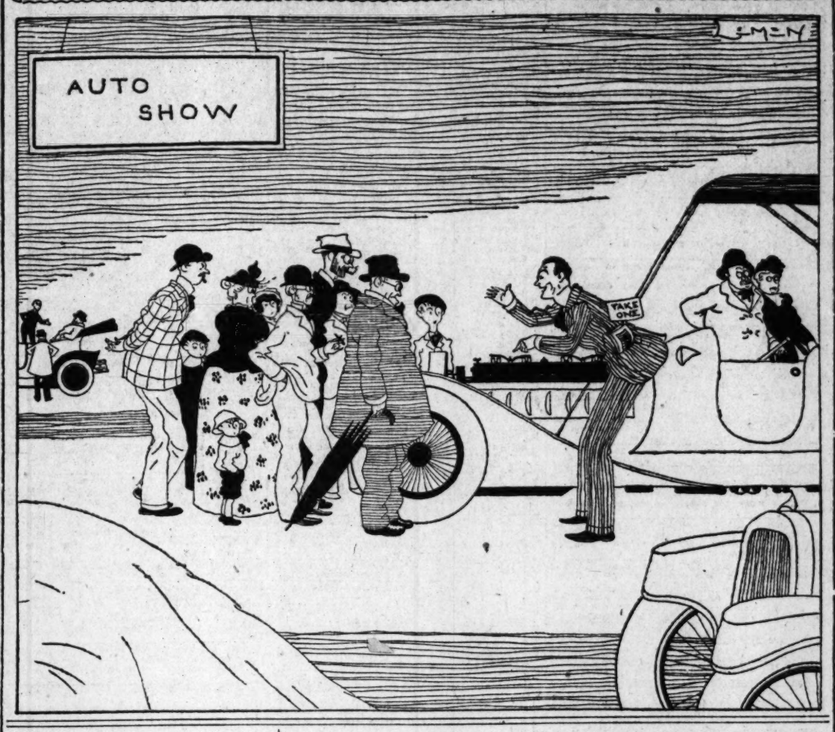

"'I guess you spoke the truth when you said I would regret it,' she said, and suddenly reached down for the bottle again. But Jim was upon his knees before her, just as he had been that day in the woods, and telling her again that he loved her.

"In those five years he had made himself an educated man, and a prosperous one. He had a lumber yard in town that was paying handsomely. He had spent half the time at school and the rest in business. First he had made himself an educated man, then he had built up his fortune. And through it all Anna had been his inspiration.

"Well, that's all, gentlemen. You'll keep the matter sacred, I know, because—well, you see, I'm about the only old acquaintance whom Mrs. Quantock hasn't entirely dropped. And I'm due there at dinner this evening. I oughtn't to have told you, I guess, only I don't like to hear it said that Anna Devine went to the bad. You ought to see their kids. Any woman who can raise a pair like them has done her best in this world, I guess."

A Class in Greek

The Girl Who Is Jilted

By SOPHIE IRENE LOEB.

SPURNED by the man who once promised to marry her, a girl shot herself during his marriage ceremony to another girl.

"He's to blame for this!" she cried.

Her act no doubt has not only caused suffering for herself but to her relatives and friends. And where is the gain? When, oh when will girls realize that revenge is like Dead Sea fruit? And it gets them nothing. To fix the blame brought this girl nothing but misery.

SOPHIE IRENE LOEB

Hundreds of young women in this great big splendid world eat out their hearts (though not going to the extremes of this one) just because some man has proved faithless. It is only because such girls do not look at things with a clearer vision. They see only their own grievances and hug them very close. They assume the feeling of martyrs, and every thought is given over to mourning. For what? Perhaps for a worthless individual. I venture to say that in 90 per cent of such instances where girls have been jilted the man in the case was not worth a bit of worry, and would have proved to be the wrong husband.

The secret sorrow that is the result of clinging to an attachment that is gone cannot be estimated. There is nothing so dead as a dead love. The sooner you recognize it, the better. The man who has cruelly cast you off is capable of meaner acts. Let him go and say "good riddance." Perhaps you think it is not easy, but it is easier than you think. To take a firm stand in a case like this is the saving of yourself. You will never regret it.

At all events, there is one thing to remember: If you are pining for the love which every human being craves the old adage will ring true, "There are as good fish in the sea as ever were caught." Perhaps you can't see them, being blinded by the one that has seemed biggest in your eyes, yet they are there just the same.

It is all folly to continue on the old-fashioned theory that the man you have set your heart upon is the one man in the world that you can be happy with. Human hearts are more elastic than you think. Hundreds of women have nearly died of grief over some one who has died, or has left them, and behold, in the course of time they are beaming over with a new happiness, the result of a new-found love. If you want to prove this go down to where the marriage records are kept, and read the names of the divorcees who have remarried and have found better mates.

Thank your luck stars that you have escaped a similar experience which the very jilting has saved you from. Of course the wound is painful. But it is more a hurt to your pride than anything. It is the wise young woman who lets the dead past bury its dead; who forgets revenge and smiles, even though it be through her tears.

For there are so many, many men in the world.

Athletics in China.

THE following item from a Chinese journal would indicate an increasing fondness in China for athletics: "Under the supervision of the Ministry of Interior the temple of agriculture is being converted into a beautiful park. In the forest of evergreen trees an inclosure has been built to keep 140 deer from the summer palace in Jehol. There will be tennis courts, football grounds and lily ponds. Several pavilions have been erected at different points in the large compound inside the temple grounds, some built according to old Chinese fashions and others in accordance with modern forms.

"The museum in which ancient sacrificial instruments are kept will also be open to the visitors."

United States mints in 1910 sent out $141,500,000 in coin.

TRY THIS IF HAIR STARTS FALLING

At this season of the year many people find their hair coming out at an alarming rate and often fear baldness. This may very easily be the ultimate result if proper scalp treatment is not taken at once. All excessive loss of hair can be almost immediately stopped by the use twice daily of a little Parisian Sage which invigorates and nourish the slowly dying hair roots into a renewal of healthy normal action. New hair quickly grows on the thin spots, old hair stops falling and the difference is apparent in a few days by the very look of the hair itself taking on new life, luster and beauty. Parisian Sage can be obtained from Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., or any good druggist. It is not expensive.

Princess Rosalie

Sandman story of a very careless little girl, who, no doubt, had the same fault very many other little girls have.

By Mrs. F. A. Walker.

LITTLE ROSALIE was the loveliest Princess in the land. Everybody loved her for her sweet ways and tender heart. But Rosalie had one fault, and that was carelessness. The good Queen could never make her see how much nicer it would be for a Princess to be always neat and tidy. When Rosalie dressed the whole palace was in a turmoil to find the many things she had left scattered around. Shoes, stockings, ribbons and handkerchiefs would be found in all kinds of out-of-the-way places. The poor Queen grieved over this state of affairs. She finally decided to visit Rosalie's fairy godmother and ask her what she must do.

Now, this good fairy loved the little Princess dearly and was anxious to help the Queen. "I can only cure her by taking her away," said the godmother, "and if you say, I will send for her tonight." The Queen was distressed to hear that she had to part with her child, even for a time, and at first she could not make up her mind to let her go, but after the fairy talked to her for some time, she consented. While Rosalie slept that night in her snowy bed she was carried through the air by the moonbeam fairies.

THEY traveled as fast as lightning, so by the time the sun peeped over the hills they had their precious burden lying sound asleep in a strange little house her godmother had built for her. Now, this house stood on its roof. Everything inside was in the state of the greatest confusion. When Rosalie woke up the next morning she looked around in fright. Where was the palace? Where was her mother? Oh, what would she do? The things in her room were so queer, too, for the chairs, tables, bureaus, washstand and all stood upside down, until the poor child thught she was in some dreadful dream.

Half stunned with fright, she rushed into the garden in hopes of seeing someone who would show her the way back to the palace. But the gardner was even stranger than the house and its furnishings. Every tree and plant grew with its roots in the air, and the leaves and flowers bloomed in the ground. Poor Rosalie, in despair, sat down and began to cry. After a few minutes she was startled by a noise in the bushes, and before she had time to run a little man walking on his hands came toward her. He had a very kind face, so Rosalie took courage and asked him where she was. "My little friend," said the man, talking through his ears instead of his mouth, "you are in Topsy-Turvy Land. Until the beautiful Princess comes and arranges all this disorder no one is allowed to leave." Little Rosalie was struck with shame and sorrow, for it was she that had brought all this confusion to these good people. "What must the Princess do?" asked Rosalie eagerly.

"BE orderly herself," said the little man with a moan. "A spell has been cast upon our land since her birth, and it is only through her it can be broken." Rosalie for the first time in her life felt the importance of having a place for everything, and everything in its place. She at once hastened back to the strange little house, where she worked very hard sweeping, dusting and fixing the helter-skelter furniture. When bedtime came Rosalie was very tired, and as soon as her head touched the pillow she fell fast asleep.

Again the moonbeam fairies came, and all through the night they carried the little Princess in her downy bed over tree tops, mountains, and seas until once more she was safely in the palace Rosalie the next morning ran to her mother and told her of her strange adventure. The Queen listened with loving interest, and she felt sure now her little daughter had been cured of her careless ways.

Some New Recipes

Macaroni Soup—Boil 1 package macaroni, or spaghetti, broken in small pieces, in a large kettle of boiling salted water, about an hour. Put in colander and rinse with cold or hot water, hot water preferred. Empty 2 cans condensed tomato soup, without diluting, in clean kettle, add macaroni, heat and serve.

Chicken Fricassee—Prepare a nice chicken, joint it, dividing the wings, side, back and breastbone. Let them lie in salt water half an hour. Remove them to stewpan with quarter of a pound of nice salt lean and fat pork cut up in little pieces. Barely cover with water and simmer very carefully for three hours. When sufficiently tender take out chicken and add a tablespoon of flour which has been mixed smoothly with a little cold milk. Add a little finely cut or green parsley, sage, thyme or summer savory, and stir gradually into liquor. Keep stirring till it boils to prevent lumping. Pepper and salt to taste. Then replace the chicken and boil it for a few minutes in the gravy. Garnish with green tops of celery.

Spanish Fricasee of Chicken—Cut up a chicken or fowl, weighing about 4 pounds, in pieces for serving; put in a kettle with 5 cups of boiling water and simmer until chicken is tender. Remove meat, cool, then roll each piece in seasoned flour and fry a delicate brown in fat. Wash and cook in the liquor 1 cupful of rice. Fry in 2 tablespoons of butter, 1 tablespoon of chopped onion and red and green pepper. Add to rice with 1 teaspoon of salt and 1-8 teaspoon of pepper.

When rice is tender turn onto a platter, arrange on it the pieces of chicken and garnish with parsley.

WOMEN SAVE $5 BY USING GASOLINE

Dry clean your dresses, suits, silks, yokes, gloves, draperies, etc.

Save $5 to $10 by doing your own dry cleaning. Here is a simple and inexpensive way to clean and brighten children's coats, suits, caps, woolen garments, Swiss, lawn, organdie and chiffon dresses, kid gloves and shoes, furs, neckties, ribbons, silks, satins, lace, yokes, silk shirt waists, draperies, rugs, in fact, any and everything that would be ruined with soap and water.

Get two ounces of solvite at any drug store and put it in two gallons of gasoline, where it readily dissolves. Then put in the goods to be cleaned. After a little rubbing out they come looking as clean and fresh as new. You will find nothing fades, shrinks or wrinkles, requiring no pressing.

Any woman can do home dry cleaning in a few moments at little cost and save lots of money. It is as simple and easy as laundering and you can't make a mistake. Your grocer or any garage will supply the gasoline, and your druggist will sell you two ounces of solvite which is simply a gasoline soap. Then a wash boiler or large dishpan completes your home dry cleaning outfit.—ADV.

Law for the Laity

By Henry G. Wensel Jr.

Personal Property.

ALL classes of property not real property are personal property. This includes stocks, bonds, cash and goods and chattels of every description. The law requires certain agreements relating to personal property to be in writing, to wit:

1. An agreement by its terms not to be performed within one year from the making thereof.
2. A special promise to answer for the debt, default, or failure of a third party to perform certain requirements.
3. An agreement made in consideration of marriages, except the ordinary "engagement."
4. The conveyance or assignment of a trust.
5. A new promise to pay an outlawed debt or one discharged in bankruptcy.
6. A contract for the sale of personal property of $50 or more, where part or all of the property is not turned over at the time or part of the price paid.

Title in personal property is transferred by mere delivery if such is the intention of the parties; a written conveyance is not necessary as in real property. But personal property may be mortgaged as well as real property. A mortgage of personal property is called a chattel mortgage. It should be in writing and recorded in the county where the property is situated.

The law regarding conditional sales of personal property—or, as they are commonly known, sales on the installment plan—requires the seller to file a copy of the contract in the city where the buyer resides, or, where the buyer resides outside the State, then at the place where the property is.

In the event of failure to meet installments the buyer may recover the goods, but must hold them for 30 days. Within this time the purchaser may regain the goods by paying up in accordance with the terms of the contract.

To Protect the Birds.

Warning signs painted in English and Japanese will probably be erected on a number of smaller Hawaiian islands which have dense bird populations. There have been some shameful massacres thereabouts in late years in spite of the governmental prohibition.

Who Owns Manhattan.

THIRTEEN families own one-fifteenth of all Manhattan real estate, according to the "society to lower rents and reduce taxes on homes." The society's figures show that one-twentieth of New York City's budget goes for the benefit of these land owners, while their payment of taxes out of ground rents amounts to only $3,841,071.16. The families mentioned are the Astors, Vanderbilts, Rhinelanders, O. B. Potter properties, J. P. Morgan, E. H. Van Ingen, Wendels, Goelets, Ehrets, Gerrys, Charles F. Hoffman estate, William K. H. Martin and Eugene Hoffman.

VIOLENT BREAK TAKES PLACE ON STOCK EXCHANGE

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"The process of calling the reckoning for the infatuated speculation by the 'outside public' got well under way today. It did not have its effect at once, in fact prices for some of the 'war industrials' indulged in another hysterical advance this morning, in which a few of them rose 5 to 10 points.

"This demonstration was timed to the much exploited announcement, in this morning's newspapers, of what professed to be the first fruit of the new era of great steel trade combinations—the Midvale steel amalgamation for the making of war munitions. The reported plan for absorption of other companies was of large enough dimensions to impress Wall street at an ordinary time. But nothing short of another 'billion dollar trust' with another $200,000,000 underwriting, would really have served in the present mood.

Market Is Weak.

"What happened, therefore, was that although a few stocks made a pretense of being carried along on a wave of immense enthusiasm, the actual selling movement elsewhere was, if anything, stimulated. The advance seemed at first on the face of things to hold, notwithstanding sharp declines in some industrials less favored than others in the combination rumors.

"In the sweeping downward movement of prices, many of the war stocks most favored by the excited public fell 5 to 16 points, declines of 7 to 9 per cent being common. Volume of trading was very great while this break was going on, the closing out of speculative accounts through stop orders and exhausted margins, being so rapid that brokers on the floor could scarcely keep track of what was happening.

"In the final hour came the usual rush or repurchasing orders—largely, no doubt, from previous speculative sellers—and once again a part of the extreme midday losses were recovered. But the market closed again in great disorder, and with no clear indication of the next trend of things.

"Not the least noteworthy incident of the day, however, was the firmness of the standard investment shares, in face of the collapse of the industrials.

Some of the interior banks were again in the market today for paper. A few transactions were reported during the day, but Nor did the change any particular demand or time funds either for far ones. Most of the banks say that the commercial inquiry for money has not yet shown any appreciable increase. Collections in some sections of the Southwest are quite satisfactory.

Solid Gold Wedding Rings, $3 to $25. JACCARD'S on Broadway, cor. Locust.

SHARP BREAK IS RECORDED IN THE COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—There was a good deal of reactionary sentiment around the ring at the opening of the cotton market today, and first prices were barely steady, at a decline of 10 to 13 points, under rather heavy offerings, which appeared to be inspired by the relatively easy cables and the failure of the weather map to show any frost in the belt. At the decline to 12.63c for December and 12.86c for January, or about 35 points under yesterday's high records, there was a big commission house demand, however, and prices later rallied, with January selling back to 13c on covering by some of yesterday's sellers and fresh buying encouraged by expectations of a bullish weekly weather report at midday.

Notwithstanding private predictions for colder weather and frost in the Southwest, offerings continued heavy during the early afternoon, with December selling off to 12.55c and Jan. to 12.70c, or about 24 to 28 points net lower. Spot houses reported sellers on this decline, which also reflected further Wall street and commission house liquidation. The closing was irregular.

The December option opened ⅞c higher—at $1.02—then mounted to $1.06⅜. May gained 1c on the initial trade at $1.01¾, then rose to $1.06. Trade was simultaneously active on the upturn.

Reports of Wall street buying—and assertions that large amounts of wheat have been contracted for export as soon as shipping room is available, were the factors back of the advance.

In the late trade prices mounted violently to 6c a bushel over yesterday's closing. Final figures were at the top level. Corn closed strong.

Foreign news was less bullish than yesterday and Liverpool spot wheat prices were unchanged. The Liverpool cable said:

"The wheat market started firm as influenced by America, but later eased as a result of a natural reaction with a pause in the demand. Spot market was firm unchanged. Cargo market is regular. Winters crened 3d higher and later eased unchanged from yesterday. Manitobas were ½d lower. Plates and Indians 3d higher. Native offers are increasing, but are still small. English country markets were strong and supplies light. Argentine estimate is better than expected. Australian advices are highly favorable and India weather favorable for seeding."

The Price Current said:

"Believe the Government report of Aug. 1 does not give a correct estimate of winter wheat crop as finally harvested throughout the territory where an excessive shortage occur

The Jarr Family

Written for the Post-Dispatch

By Roy L. McCardell.

Mrs. Jarr Sends Mr. Jarr Exploring and Even Finances the Expedition.

"WHERE is mamma?" asked Mr. Jarr when he came home the other evening and his little girl and boy opened the door for him.

"She's in the kitchen," replied the children in unison. "We are going to have ice cream for supper. We went out and got it at the store—a whole quart!"

After kissing the children Mr. Jarr proceeded to the kitchen and likewise saluted his cheerful helpmeet.

"Where's the girl?" he asked, looking around in surprise.

"What girl?" asked Mrs. Jarr.

"Why, the girl that was here yesterday to take the place of the still absent Gertrude," replied Mr. Jarr. "It looked to me as though the deal was sure to go through. You both seemed to be so perfectly satisfied with each other."

Mrs. Jarr sniffed and turned to her cookery.

"Yes," Mr. Jarr went on, "you offered to give her more than you had ever paid any girl, you said, because you liked her. She said she'd come to you for the wages, though it was less than she had ever worked for, because she liked you."

"Oh, that one,' said Mrs. Jarr. "I wouldn't have had her if she had come for nothing."

"But you said"——

"You don't suppose I was going to let her get the best of me, do you?" interupted Mrs. Jarr. "I knew she wasn't coming."

"I'm glad it's no disappointment to you then," said Mr. Jarr, "but I thought she liked the place, because she was fond of children and only cared to work for refined people like us. She also said she'd bring an apron in the morning and a wrapper so she wouldn't have to wait for her trunk"

Mrs. Jarr smiled knowingly. "They all talk that way," she replied. "That girl didn't intend to come and I knew it."

Mr. Jarr inquired what psychic insight had made Mrs. Jarr know the applicant for Gertrude's vacant post would not be on the firing line at the time appointed. But Mrs. Jarr's only reply was that she had felt it in her bones. This is the reply the female of the species is wont to give. She never permits the male of the species to get any clear insight into the feminine phychic processes.

"But if you are so awfully cast down, because that stuck up, talkative, overdressed creature, with her superior airs, didn't come to take the place, suppose you try to get me a good girl?" added Mrs. Jarr.

"Oh, maybe I could," replied Mr Jarr, rushing in where angels fear to tread.

"Where?" asked Mrs. Jarr.

Mr. Jarr faltered. He realized the rapids were below him. "You'd be angry at me if I told you where I could get you a girl," he said finally.

Mr. Jarr muttered that maybe Gus had some friends who might know of a good girl. "Gus, at the cafe, at the corner, you know," he added, fatuously.

Mrs. Jarr knew of Gus at the cafe at the corner. Well did she know of him. He was her particular bete noir. But now if his Satanic Majesty conducted an employment bureau Mrs. Jarr would have been beholden to him for that priceless jewel—a good girl.

"You see, it's this way," Mr. Jarr explained, seeing that he might mention the obnoxious name of Gus, in the open season. "Gus has an employe named Elmer"——

"Don't I know that He was one of Gertrude's beaux. He is the fish-faced bartender there," interrupted Mrs. Jarr. "What has he got to do with it?"

"Well, he cut his hand and is not working, and he is going to visit his sister in a nearby town," Mr. Jarr explained. "And I heard him say (he was talking to a friend as I passed) that his sister had three grown daughters and her husband was out of work"——?

"Yes, yes!" cried Mrs. Jarr, "that would be the very thing. Run right out and see if Elmer has gone to visit his married sister yet. If he has, find out where the place is and write or telegraph to him. Oh, if I only could get a nice girl from some small town to train and keep away from other servant girls, who only spoil them and get them to leave good places to take other positions where they'll have shorter hours and get more money. Oh, if I only could get a girl like that, so if Gertrude ever did come back I could shut the door in her face!"

Mr. Jarr hemmed and hawed, and, although he had his hat, he still loitered in the offing.

"Why don't you go?" asked Mrs. Jarr. "Oh, I suppose you have no change. Here is half a dollar!"

And for the first time in their married life Mr. Jarr proceeded to Gus' man trap on the corner financed by his war bride, so to speak.

Some One Responsible.

AN angry man entered the water offices the other day and fiercely announced to the clerk:

"Sir, you can send up and take your old gas meter out of my house."

"This is not the gas office."

"It isn't."

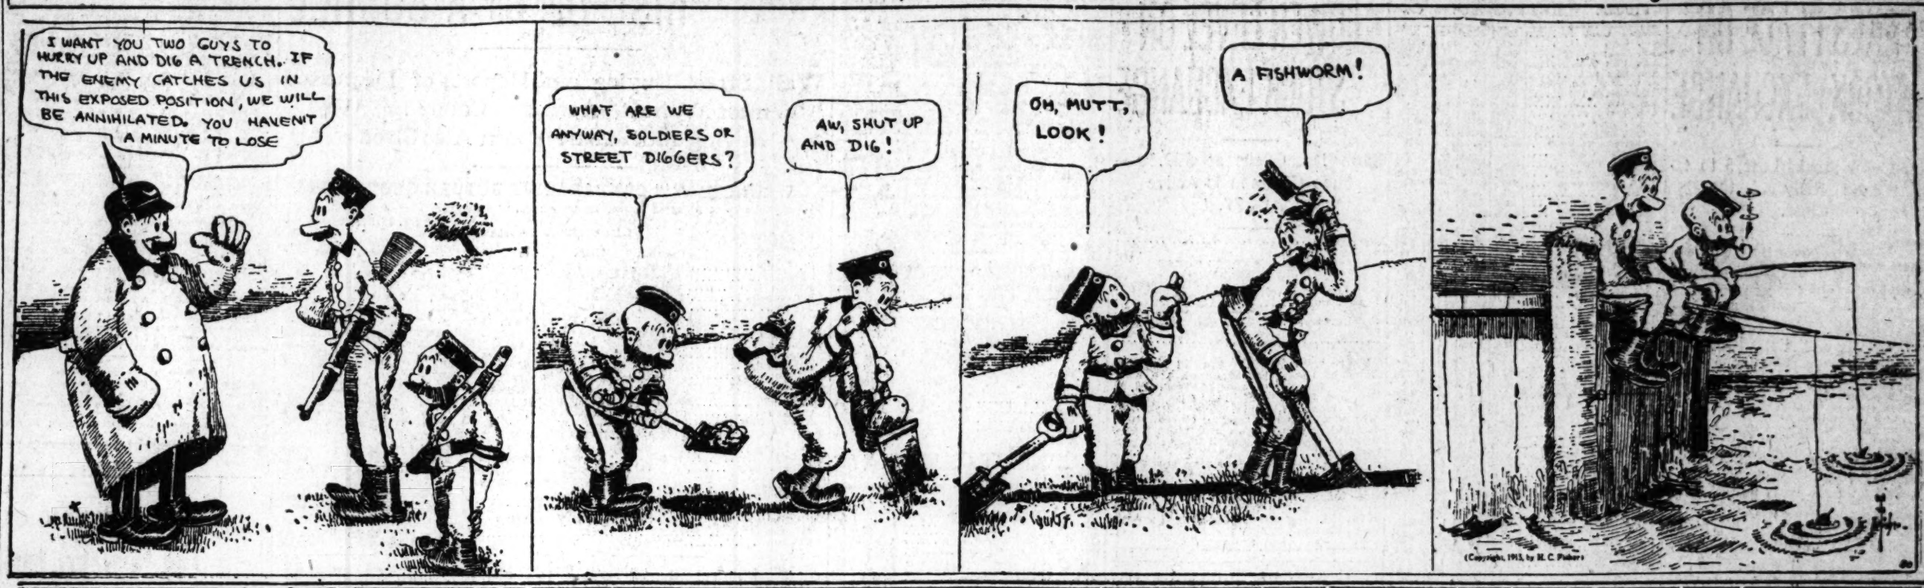

"No, sir; this is the water office."

"Oh, it is! Well, then, send a man up to my house at once and turn the water off! I'm not going to walk a mile and a half for nothing!"

Didn't Keep Her Word.

"Well, Johnny, how did you like school?"

"I didn't like it a bit. The teacher put me on a chair and told me to sit there for the present. And I sat and sat, and she never gave me the present."

Her Reward.

MRS. SIMPER found herself for the first time without a cook. She had paid the highest wages and suffered patiently from their carelessness and caprice. After preparing several meals with her own fair hands and gaining confidence in the art, she had approached her husband with a brilliant proposition.

"What do you say, dear," she began, "if we do without a cook and I keep the money for my very self? Suppose I cook for one month, what will I get?"

"Well," said the husband, "by the end of the month you will get one of those long crepe veils for widows."—Philadelphia Record.

LUCILE THE WAITRESS

"DID you ever run across any of those actors with the chicken farm idea?" asked Lucile, the waitress in the small restaurant as the friendly customer took a seat at the counter.

"Don't believe I ever did," he replied.

"They was a couple in here a while ago," she continued. "First thing one of 'em does is prod his fried eggs with his knife an' say to me: 'Why don't you get Hill-Top eggs here?' 'I'm not in the poultry department,' I answers. 'I turned that over to my second assistant long ago. What's the matter with the eggs you got there?' 'They're not in it with Hill-Tops,' he goes on. 'I know Hill-Tops are the best, because I own the Hill-Top chicken ranch. I'm goin' to quit actin' an' just raise hens.'

"I shake my head sorrowful. 'The theater biz is goin' to get another bump,' I says. He thinks I mean it. 'Oh, they'll miss me,' he answers, 'but I'll have the satisfaction of knowin' I'm furnishin' humanitation with the best eggs in the world.'

"At that, another actor five feet away looks up. 'Never hear of Golden Yellow eggs?' he asks. 'Never did,' says the other. 'Well,' comes from his antipathy, 'I raise 'em an' they're the finest of all.'

"'Apparently you're both ergotists,' I says pleasantly.

"'Hill-Tops!—bunk!' says the other.

"'Is that so?' comes Golden Yellow. 'I got a rooster on my ranch that can act better'n you.'

"'Just a moment, gents!' I says firmishly. 'Cut that out! You don't see no sawdust on the floor in here, do you? This is not no joint. No doubt the both of you are right about each other's actin' an', bein' actors, the both of you prob'ly knows eggs pertty well, but I'll set the bouncer onto you if you don't quit this violent dispensation en eggs.'

"Well, sir, it slowed 'em up. Just then in comes Pete, a pig husky from the produce house. 'Say,' he says to me, 'tell the boss I'm goin' to fetch him 10 dozen more of them Whitehourst eggs. They're the best in the market. Can't no eggs touch 'em.'

"I'm silent to see which of the actors will contradictate Pete, but it never gets a raise 'Are they theatrical eggs, Pete?' I asks. 'Naw,' he says. 'Them eggs them theatrical guys raise is punk. Them fellers might be able to play Hamlet, but they ain't no good at omelette.'

"Pete goes out an' I grin at the two actors. They haven't got a word to say, an' pretty soon they leave, one by the side door an' the other by the front."

"You certainly handled them right," said the friendly customer.

"Say—leave those actors to me! Imagine 'em wantin' to fight over eggs! Well," concluded Lucile, "what's next in your ambitions, kid? How about manglin' a slice of the beef a la leather?"

Rough on the Dog.

MISS CARLSON was one of the young women who are determined to always have their own way in the fact of all obstacles. When the conductor came along to take up her tickets and found her seated with a dog in her lap, he said:

"Madame, I am very sorry, but you can't have your dog in this car. It's against the rules."

"I shall hold him in my lap all the way," she replied haughtily, "and he will not disturb anyone."

"That makes no difference," said the conductor. "I couldn't allow my own dog to ride in here. Dogs must ride in the baggage car. I'll fasten him all right for you."

"Don't you dare touch my dog, sir!" cried Miss Carlston excitedly. "I will trust him to no one!"

Very indignantly the young woman marched to the baggage car, tied the dog and returned. About 50 miles further on, when the conductor came through the car again, Miss Carlson inquired:

"Will you tell me if my dog is all right?"

"I am very sorry, madame," replied the conductor politely, "but you tied him to a trunk, and he was thrown off with it some time ago."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Fast Going.

A WELSHMAN, an Irishman and an Englishman were arguing as to which of the three countries possessed the fastest trains.

Said the Englishman: "I've been in one of our trains, and it was going so fast that the telegraph poles looked like a hedge."

"I've seen milestones appear like gravestones," said the Welshman.

"Be jabbers," said the Irishman, "I was one day in a train in my country, and we passed a flock of sheep, a field of carrots, a field of turnips and one of parsley and one of onions and then a pond of water, and we were going so fast that I thought it was a stew."

A Lugubrious Song About Jeff, the Gambler

JEFF WARWICK, gambler, was a man that most folks didn't like—a card shark and hair-triggered tough, the worst in Lucky Strike. He never washed a bit of dust, although he had a claim. He made his living with the cards and poker was his game.

Jeff played the game relentless-like. We always used to say he was the hardest-hearted man that ever came our way. He took delight in breaking men. One night he won a pile from some poor chump who killed himself, but all Jeff did was smile. However, in his heart, it seemed, he had a tender spot it showed up only once—and say, it jolted us a lot.

'Twas just like this: Jeff met a boy—oh, hardly twenty-one. He got him in a game and soon he did him good and done. Then when the youngster realized that Jeff had got him broke, his hands began to tremble and his voice began to choke.

"I hadn't orter played," he said to Jeff, despondently. "The money b'longed to Brother Jim. His health is bad, you see. He sent me here to buy a claim so he could try this air." And then his voice broke into sobs; he gave up to despair.

Jeff smiled. "Say, kid," he sort o' drawled, "yer out of luck today. But where does that sick brother live? What's that—New York, you say. Yer name's Frank Johnson? And yer dad—what's that—his name is Ed? He kept a Bowery theater? They used to call him Red? Well, I'll be hanged," Jeff muttered low. "Red Johnson was yer dad? You sure yer tellin' me the truth?"

"I am," came from the lad. 'Twas then Jeff showed his tender spot. From out his chamois sack he pushed his winnings at the boy and made him take them back.

The kid was tickled 'most to death. He left the camp next day and bought a claim, we understood, some fifty miles away For weeks and weeks we puzzled 'bout why Jeff gave back his wealth. We s'posed his heart was sort o' touched 'bout that sick brother's health. One day, to stop us hinting 'round, Jeff drawled out sort o' low: "I knowed that youngster's mother in her school days, long ago. She cut my 'quaintance. I come West," he smiled, "to be a saint. Now, maybe that's the reason, men, an' maybe, men, it ain't. That's all I'll tell you, anyhow, 'bout that there Johnson kid. I'll say no more." Jeff kept his word. The gambler never did.

Anticipated.

I HEAR there are highwaymen along this road. It wouldn't surprise me a bit if we were held up."

"You don't tell me? Say, by the way, here's that $10 I owe you."
